Scientific and Technical

To encourage the publication of high class scientific books, both popular and academic, in the various Indian languages, the Union Ministry of Scientific Research and Cultural Affairs decided in March 1960 to institute an annual award of Rs. 10,000 to be given to a publisher each year beginning with 1960.

The award will be given to a publisher for the best series of scientific books published in any Indian language in the course of a calendar year. A series will be defined as consisting of at least five books published during one calendar year. Individual authors will not be eligible for the award.

The books should be of a high standard and, in case they are text-books, they should be for the use of students not below the graduate level.

Books published during the calendar year 1960 will be considered for the award.

Hindi

To encourage the production of literature in Hindi on scientific and technical subjects, the Union Ministry of Education have decided to award 20 prizes of Rs. 1,500 each on unpublished advanced books in Hindi. These prizes will be open to any living author for original books as well as translations of standard books from other languages.

The prizes will be divided into the following three categories:—

Category I: Six prizes of Rs. 1,500 one on each of the following physical or natural sciences: physics, mathematics, chemistry, botany, zoology and geology. Books under this category may either be general books or may deal with any one branch of any of the subjects mentioned above. The standard must not be lower than that of B.Sc. of Indian universities.

Category II: Six prizes of Rs. 1,500 one on each of the following subjects:—Agriculture, medicine, meteorology, civil engineering, metallurgy and architecture. The standard here again should not be lower than that of graduate standard of engineering and technological institutes.

Category III: Eight prizes of Rs. 1,500 one on each of the following social sciences:—

Political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, international law, psychiatry, experimental psychology and education. The standard of books submitted under this category should not be lower than that of the post-graduate standard of the Indian universities.

The prize-winning authors will be free to get their books published and Government will guarantee purchases of at least 500 copies each of the books, subject to the condition that the books are published according to the pattern set by the Government of India. The Government will not, however, bear any share of the cost of publication of the books.

A committee of three competent persons will be set up to examine entries for each subject. Their assessment will be submitted to the Ministry within a month of the receipt of entries by them and the Ministry's decision in all cases will be final.

TEACHERS

The Union Ministry of Education instituted in 1959 a scheme of national awards to teachers, with the object of recognising the outstanding services of teachers to the community, and to raise their social status.

Under this Award 71 teachers in primary and secondary schools were awarded in 1960 Rs. 500 each in cash and a certificate of merit. The names of the recipients for 1960 have been given in 1960-61 edition of the Directory.

Teachers' national awards for 1961 have not been finalised.

The scheme is likely to be extended later to members of the inspectorate and university teachers.

them and held to the boys' hands in an effort to keep them from falling under the wheels. Meanwhile one of the boys slipped and his fingers were injured, but she hung on to their hands firmly till the train passed away. By this outstanding act of service, this girl saved the boy from grievous injury.

Nand Kishore (9½ years) (Ajmer), while returning from his school, saw two boys fall into the flooded Nalla which was overflowing due to a torrential downpour. Nand Kishore jumped to their rescue and brought both boys out of the Nalla. He was awarded for showing a sense of service.

Chiguru Venkata Narsu (12 years) (Andhra), hearing the alarm raised by a woman, when a girl aged six, fell into a well, jumped in and brought the girl out. He has been awarded for showing outstanding courage.

Raj Kumar Singh (12 years) (Bihar), while returning home from school, heard the cries of several grown-up persons shouting for some one to save two children drowning in the river. Raj Kumar jumped into the river and brought both the boys out. It is an act of outstanding courage.

V. Surendran Nair (14 years) (Kerala) saved the life of a four-year old boy who had fallen into the river from a 20 ft. high bridge. The act of jumping off the high bridge and saving the little boy, showed outstanding courage.

S. Rajadurai (13 years) (Madras) saved the life of a boy, aged 15, who fell into the river and was being carried away. This act showed a high sense of service.

Peter Raj (15 years) (Madras) jumped into the well and brought up a small girl who slipped and fell in. This showed a great spirit of courage.

Rabinarayan Naik (12 years) (Orissa), while taking bath in the river, saw a boy floundering out of this depth in considerable danger. He jumped into the river which was 12 ft. deep at that point and with great gallantry rescued the boy.

Puran Chandra Mohanty (15 years) (Orissa), was awarded for showing outstanding presence of mind. A school building with thatched roof caught fire. As the doors of the first floor were locked and keys were not available, Puran Chandra Mohanty clambered to the roof by climbing up a bamboo pole and pushed aside the burning straw. Just below were some buckets and rope which he threw down to be filled with water and by these efforts put out the fire and saved not only the school building but all its books and records.

Nirbhay Singh (16 years) (Madhya Pradesh), jumped into the swollen Narbada river in the rainy season to save the life of a 12-year old girl who had accidently slipped into the river while taking her bath.

BHOODAN

The position of the Bhoodan Yagna Movement upto 31st December 1959 is shown in the table below.

Since Gramdan (the whole cultivable land in the village to be donated to the Gram Sabha) proved to be an advanced stage of Bhoodan, the Akhil Bharat Sarva Seva Sangh, by its resolution, gave a call to the country to concentrate on Gramdan. At the same time new items of Sarvodaya Patra and Shanti Sena have been added to consolidate the Gramdan Movement. Due to the above programmes the work of distribution of land was slackened.

The headquarters of the movement are at Akhil Bharat Sarva Seva Sangh, Rajghat, Kashi, Varanasi (U.P.).

CRIME IN 1959

There was a decline of 19·0 per cent in dacoity cases in 1959, from 4,658 in 1958 to 3,774.

Similarly, the incidence of counterfeiting declined by 20·2 per cent, from 555 in 1958 to 443. Cases of robbery and house-breaking also showed a drop of almost 8 per cent.

But the total number of cognizable cases was practically the same, 5,82,002 in 1959 as against 5,90,987 in 1958 and 5,81,371 in 1957.

A small increase was visible under heads like murder (0·5 per cent), kidnapping and abduction (6·9 per cent), and cheating (1·8 per cent).

Among the States where cognizable crime showed a noticeable fall were: Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Bombay (bilingual), Himachal Pradesh, Jammu and Kashmir, Naga Hills and Tuensang Area, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal.

However, a substantial rise was noticed in Assam, 9·2 per cent. There was also increase in Kerala (6·5 per cent), Madhya Pradesh (1·2 per cent), Tripura (18·6 per cent), Madras (2·6 per cent) and Mysore (2·9 per cent).

Two cities in which crime went up were: Bombay, 15,781 in 1958 to 16,177, and Kanpur, 1,828 in 1958 to 2,110.

CAUSES

In Assam the high cost of essential commodities, activities of Naga hostiles in the districts of Sibsagar, United Mikir and North Cachar Hills as also import of a large number of labourers with unknown antecedents for work on the Brahmaputra Bridge Construction Project and installation of the oil refinery were held responsible for the increase. Madras attributed the increase to increased cost of living. Mysore ascribed the increase to adverse seasonal conditions in some parts of the State resulting in failure of crops, rise in prices of food grains, poor economic conditions and unemployment. In Tripura, the increase was ascribed to the abnormal increase in the price of food-stuffs and other essential commodities and depredations by raiders in the Indo-Pakistan border area.

The decrease in Bihar was attributed to systematic and intensive police patrol, tightening of preventive measures and surveillance over criminals.

In Kanpur city the increase was due to party factions and adverse economic conditions.

In Hyderabad city, the increase was due to activities of several juvenile offenders and of casual criminals who had not come to notice previously.

Madras attributed the increase to higher cost of living and Mysore to failure of crops, rise in prices of foodgrains, poor economic conditions and unemployment.

At the close of 1958, 1,56,516 cases were awaiting disposal in the courts and 56,144 cases were pending investigation with the police. During the year under review 5,82,008 cases were registered with the police. In 5,30,298 cases investigation was either refused or the cases were declared to be false or were due to mistake of fact or law or were declared non-cognizable or cases which had abated on account of the death of the accused or because the accused was declared insane or which remained undetected at the end of the year 1959.

Charge-sheets were submitted in 2,64,370 cases. Of these, 1,42,967 cases were convicted, 79,876 acquitted or discharged.

The percentage of conviction to true cases investigated was 28·4 as against 27·0 of 1958. The States which had a higher percentage of conviction than the all-India figure of 28·4 were Himachal Pradesh (49·8), Andhra Pradesh (48·9), Madras (48·0), Mysore (38·0), Punjab (34·9), Andaman & Nicobar Islands (33·6), Kerala (30·3), Madhya Pradesh (29·5) and Naga Hills (29·5).

Sixty-nine Police Officers and men were killed and 1,778 injured during the year in the performance of their duties. The highest number killed was in U.P. (13), followed by Jammu & Kashmir (10), Rajasthan (9), Bihar, Punjab and Manipur (6 each), Orissa (5), Bombay and Madras (4 each). Among the injured, Bombay accounted for 571, West Bengal 413, Rajasthan 143, Kerala 100, Bihar 81, Madhya Pradesh 68, and Andhra Pradesh 67.

Children and adolescents between the ages of 7 and 21, arrested for crimes like murder, robbery, house-breaking, thefts, etc., totalled 47,925, including 2,143 girls. The largest number of offenders—26,424 boys and 1,058 girls—was between 17 and 21 years.

A large number of offences were such as have been prohibited under the Children's Act, that is, begging, betting, smoking and drinking.

Juveniles sent to courts were 45,779 and to institutions 4,845. About 29,000 were either admonished, fined or bound down for good behaviour. The largest number of such cases dealt with was in Greater Bombay. Madras was second and Andhra Pradesh third.

PREVENTIVE DETENTION

As on 30th Sept. 1960, 106 persons were held in various States under the Preventive Detention Act, 1950. Statewise, persons detained were: West Bengal 57, Maharashtra 16, U.P. 13, Manipur 11, Assam 5, Punjab 2 and one each in Andhra Pradesh and Gujarat.

Out of these, 105 persons were detained for reasons involving either the security of the States or the Maintenance of Public Order.

NOTES

Murder: The States which showed noticeable increase were Madhya Pradesh (10·2 per cent), U.P. (3·5 per cent), Rajasthan (6·1 per cent), Orissa (7·5 per cent), West Bengal (4·1 per cent). There was a noticeable decrease in murders in Andhra Pradesh (9·6 per cent), Bihar (6·2 per cent), Bombay* (1·4 per cent) and Jammu and Kashmir (17·3 per cent).

Among the Union Territories which showed a decrease were Delhi (16·9 per cent), Himachal Pradesh (53·8 per cent), Manipur (50·0 per cent) are Tripura (78·6 per cent).

Among the cities, a noticeable increase occurred in Bombay (16·1 per cent).

The percentage of conviction was 38·5 as against 36 of the preceding year.

Kidnapping : Noticeable increase occurred in Rajasthan (23·7 per cent), U.P. (7·8 per cent), M.P. (6·8 per cent), Mysore (24·2 per cent), Andhra Pradesh (25·2 per cent), Bihar (8·5 per cent) and in the city of Calcutta (24·6 per cent).

Rajasthan attributed the increase in the fact that people reported a large number of cases to the police during the year though previously they used to get these settled by Village Panchayats. This change-over was mainly due to the fact that the parties had to incur heavy expenditure in calling the Panchayat.

In U.P. the increase was ascribed to love affairs and family disputes. In Calcutta city the increase was ascribed to damaged social order due to the continued influx of displaced persons.

In M.P. the increase was due to the activities of dacoits who took to kidnapping and abduction for ransom.

Mysore and Andhra Pradesh did not give any reason for the increase. Bihar attributed it to the growth of urbanisation and consequent disintegration of moral values and also to poverty, unemployment and activities of unsocial elements.

The percentage of conviction to persons tried was 30·3 as against 29·5 in 1958. In the seven bigger cities the percentage was 46·0 (38·3 in 1958).

Dacoity : Excepting the Union Territories of Manipur and Tripura, and the States of Orissa, Mysore, Rajasthan and U.P. which showed an increase of 64·3 per cent, 44·4 per cent, 18·4 per cent, 10·1 per cent, 8·0 per cent and 2·9 per cent respectively, all other States registered a decrease.

In Mysore some of the cases were technical in nature. In a number of cases exaggerated and false complaints were made by the complainants which on investigation were found to be less heinous offences. In Orissa the increase was due to activities of outside criminals, economic distress consequent on partial failure of crops and rise in prices of food-stuffs and essential commodities. In Rajasthan the increase was reported to be due to sudden spurt in crime in Bharatpur after the last year's floods which led to scarcity of essential commodities. In U.P., the increase was ascribed to adverse economic conditions due to failure of rains and damage caused to standing crops by untimely heavy rains and general rise in prices.

Bihar had anti-dacoity squad which brought many gangs of criminals to book. In Bombay increased surveillance over known criminals and bad characters, intensive patrolling, nakabandi, mobile wireless patrolling and armed patrolling by men of the S.R.P.F. in some of the affected parts of the State brought down the cases of this type. West Bengal and Assam ascribed the decrease of cases to police vigilance and activities of resistance group members. In Andhra Pradesh the decrease of cases was attributed to effective mobile patrolling of the border districts of Telangana area.

The percentage of persons convicted to those tried was 32·3 as against 29·8 of 1958.

NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL

New Delhi.

To strengthen and mobilise the effort and resources of the nation in support of the Five Year Plan, to promote common economic policies in all vital spheres, and to ensure the balanced and rapid development of all parts of the country, on the recommendation of the Planning Commission, the Government of India set up a National Development Council.

Its functions are : 1. to review the working of the National Plan from time to time ; 2. to consider important questions of social and economic policy affecting national development ; 3. to recommend measures for the achievements of the aims and targets set out in the National Plan, including measures to secure the active participation and cooperation of the people, improve the efficiency of the administrative services, ensure the fullest development of the less advanced regions and sections of the community and, through sacrifice borne equally by all citizens, build up resources for national development.

The Council makes recommendations to the Central and State Governments. It is composed of the Prime Minister of India, Chief Ministers of all States and the Members of the Planning Commission. The Council meets as often as is necessary and in any case at least twice in a year.

The Secretary of the Planning Commission acts as the Secretary of the Council.

THE NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION LTD.

(P.O. Box No. 458, Udyog Bhavan, Maulana Azad Road, New Delhi)

The National Industrial Development Corporation Ltd., was set up by the Govt. of India on 20th October 1954 for the promotion and development of industries in the country and was registered as a private limited company with an authorised capital of Rs. 1,00,00,000 of which shares worth Rs. 25 lakhs have now been issued and paid up by the Govt. of India. The Finances of the Corporation are provided by Govt. in the form of capital, grants and loans.

The Board of Directors of the Corporation include both Government officials and non-officials and is nominated by the Government of India. The Chairman is the Union Minister for Commerce & Industry and the Vice-Chairman is the Union Minister for Industry.

The Corporation's object is primarily the development of industries, particularly those which are necessary to fill up gaps in the industrial structure. The Corporation is to plan and formulate projects for setting up new industries or developing new lines of production. It undertakes preliminary studies and investigations about the technical and economic feasibility of the establishment of certain selected industries. Efforts have been concentrated on projects relating to the manufacture of industrial machinery in the field of heavy engineering including the establishment of Foundry and Forge capacity for such manufacture and production of some crucial industrial raw materials like raw film, aluminium, synthetic rubber, basic organic chemicals and intermediates, sulphur, phosphorus etc. Preliminary studies and investigations have been completed in regard to a number of these projects and their implementation has been entrusted to Government Corporations. The Heavy Machine Building Plant and the Coal Mining Machinery Plant and the Heavy Foundry Forge Projects have been entrusted to the Heavy Engineering Corporation set up at Ranchi for this purpose. Projects relating to the manufacture of sulphur from pyrites, raw film for the Cinema industry and the organic chemicals and intermediates have been entrusted to separate Corporations. Some of the schemes for the manufacture of industrial raw materials, viz., synthetic rubber, carbon black, tungsten carbide, rayon grade pulp etc. for which necessary preliminary studies were carried out by the Corporation, have been assigned to the private sector to follow up and establish production units.

The Corporation is presently continuing investigations on projects relating to Heavy Structural Fabrication Works and Heavy Plate and Vessels Works in the heavy engineering field. Investigations are also in progress in regard to the manufacture of drugs and pharmaceuticals, elemental phosphorus etc.

The Corporation has set up a Technological Consultancy Bureau for undertaking not only preliminary studies of industrial projects but also the subsequent design and consultancy services wherever possible.

The Corporation also acts as the agency of the Government for the grant of financial assistance to certain selected industries. The industries so far selected are jute, cotton textile and machine tools. Loans are granted to jute and cotton textile industries for the modernisation and rehabilitation of their machinery and in the case of machine tool units, loans are granted for expansion as well. FAMILY PLANNING

It is now widely accepted that the success of the schemes of economic development of India will be considerably hampered unless due attention is paid to the problem of growing population.

One basic consideration is that the growth of India's population has been accelerated in the last few decades. Since the 1921 census the four successive decades recorded increases of 11·0, 14.3, 13.4 and 21.5 per cent respectively in population.

It is estimated that India's population was expected to increase from 360 million in 1951 to between 528 and 539 million in 1971. And unless the rate of growth was checked by family planning to an extent hitherto unknown in this country it would outstrip supply of food and neutralize the benefits of increased production through the Plans.

Family planning as an official programme was launched in the First Five Year Plan, as part of Government of India's policy for population control.

The aims of the family planning programme as set out by the Planning Commission in the Third Five Year Plan are:

(1) wide-spread education to create the necessary social background for a large family planning programme, (2) integration of family planning activities with the normal health services, (3) provision of family planning services, including facilities for sterilization, through medical and health centres and facilities for distribution of contraceptives, (4) development of training programmes in medical colleges and other teaching institutions, and (5) utilization in the family planning campaign of local voluntary leadership to the largest extent possible.

The national non-governmental organisation in this field is the Family Planning Association of India which has its Headquarters in Bombay and has 25 Branches in different parts of the country. It follows a fourfold programme of clinical services, training of personnel, educational propaganda and encouragement to sociological, demographic and medical research.

The Central Family Planning Advisory Board under the Union Ministry of Health, advises on family planning programmes. There are also State Family Planning Boards in all the States except Kashmir. There is a Director of Family Planning under the Directorate-General of Health Services, and in most of the States full-time Family Planning Officers have been appointed.

Training in family planning techniques is given at the Family Planning Training and Research Centre in Bombay, the Family Planning Training Demonstration and Experimental Centre at Ramanagaram in Mysore, the All India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health in Calcutta and the Training Centre in New Delhi.

Regional Training Centres also exist in Andhra, Kerala, Madras, W. Bengal, Punjab, Maharashtra and Gujarat.

There are already four Demographic Training Research Centres, namely, (a) the Demographic Training & Research Centre at Bombay (under the joint auspices of the U.N., Government of India and Sir Dorabji Tata Trust where students from S. E. Asia are being trained), (b) at the Indian Statistical Institute at Calcutta, (c) at the Institute of Economic Growth, New Delhi, (d) at the Department of Statistics, University of Trivandrum, and (e) one is in the process of being established at Dharwar. The Govt. of India has appointed a Demographic Advisory Committee under the Chairmanship of Dr. V. K. R. V. Rao.

the Contraceptive Testing Unit has been established at the Indian Cancer Research Centre in Bombay to test all contraceptive products before they are allowed to be used in clinics.

Biological research and development of oral contraceptives is undertaken at the Indian Cancer Research Centre in Bombay, the All-India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health in Calcutta, Bacteriological Institute and the Institute of Post-Graduate Medical Education and Research, Calcutta.

The expenditure on family planning was as follows:—

First Plan (in Rs. lakhs):—Clinics 7·99; training and education 0·40; research 3·99; organization 3·44. Total 15·82.

Second Plan (Rs. lakhs):—

	1956-57	1957-58	1958-59	1959 (Apr.-Dec.)
Clinics	3·05	16·34	19·98	8·26
Training & Education ..	0·67	2·22	5·04	1·58
Research	3·99	6·70	5·76	2·60
Organization	0·93	0·75	0·72	0·66
Total	8·64	26·01	31·50	44·75*

Allotment for 1960-61 : Rs. 1·28 crores; 1959-60 : Rs. 80 lakhs.

* Includes a sum of about Rs. 31·65 lakhs as ways and means advances to State Governments.

During the First Plan a sum of Rs. 65 lakhs was allocated. During this period 21 rural and 126 urban clinics were established.

The Second Plan allocation was Rs. 497 lakhs —Rs. 400 lakhs at the Centre and Rs. 97 lakhs in the States. The target was 500 urban clinics and 2,000 rural clinics.

At the end of March 1961 the number of clinics reported to have been opened were 1,079 rural and 421 urban while 1,864 rural and 330 medical and health centres distribute contraceptives, making a grand total of 2,963 rural and 876 urban clinics.

Under the Third Plan an allotment of Rs. 50 crores is proposed for Family Planning.

It is estimated that out of the 310 Districts in the country at the end of 1958-59, 262 Districts had Family Planning Clinics.

CONTRACEPTIVES

The distribution of contraceptives is now earried out by Primary Health Centres, Hospitals, Dispensaries and Maternity Homes run or recommended by Government where there are no clinics. The facilities would be extended to welfare agencies conducted by employers of labour.

The sale of contraceptives has increased since 1956. The sale in 1957 was double that of 1956, and the sale during the years 1958 and 1959 was about six times that of 1957.

In rural and urban areas contraceptives are issued free to those with incomes below Rs. 300 per month, at half price to those with incomes between Rs. 300 and Rs. 500 and at cost price to those with incomes above Rs. 500 per month. Foam tablets, jellies and sheaths are issued free in rural areas irrespective of the income.

Voluntary sterilization is part of the Family Planning Programme. The question is decided on the merit of each case after a careful examination by a qualified doctor with the consent of both husband and wife. The Medical Council of India and the Indian Medical Association support sterilization.

The sterilization cases reported (these are considered an under-estimate) since 1956 are as follows:—

1956 : 7,823 (males 2,333; females 5,490); 1957 : 13,530 (males 3,671; females 9,859); 1958 : 25,873 (males 9,072; females 16,801); 1959 : 35,722 (males 13,925; females 21,797); 1960 : 37,951 (males 25,957; females 11,994).

The number of persons trained at the various centres was 3,727 by April 1961.

The number of trained persons State-wise is as follows (position Oct. 1959):—

Andhra 26, Assam 304, Bihar 4, Bombay (bilingual) 466, Kerala 116, M.P. 49, Madras 264, Mysore 429, Orissa 19, Punjab 42, Rajasthan 12, U.P. 112, W. Bengal 569, Kashmir 3, Delhi 126, Himachal 11, Manipur 35, Tripura 2. Total 2,589.

It is estimated that by the end of March 1961 about 92 lakh persons would have been educated in family planning through various media and 21 lakhs were given advice on family planning methods.

Family planning is an integral part of the health programme of a Community Development Block.

In view of the impending decentralization of planning programmes, when it is expected, planning would be done primarily by panchayats, the panchayats too will undertake the education of the rural population in family planning.

A wide awareness of family planning has been created. About 4,45,000 copies of posters, 3,27,400 copies of pamphlets and 3,49,000 folders on various aspects of family planning were published by the end of 1958-59. Films and slides have been produced. Programmes relating to family planning are broadcast over the radio. Honorary Family Planning Education leaders have been appointed for educational work for family planning through personal contacts, meetings, group talks etc. including the organisation of 2 or 3-day orientation camps.

The number of orientation camps held upto April 1961 by various agencies is 62 at which a total of 12,787 persons attended. There is a monthly magazine called 'Family Planning News' started in January 1960 and published by the Directorate General of Health Services, Govt. of India. A Family Planning day is observed through out the country every year on Dec. 18.

The programme for family planning in the Third Plan provides for (a) education and motivation for family planning, (b) provision of services, (c) training, (d) supplies, (e) communication of motivation research, (f) demographic research and (g) medical and biological research. The programme as approved, involves a total outlay of Rs. 50 crores.

PRODUCTION

The country has just begun to produce contraceptives.

There are at present two units in the country engaged in the manufacture of rubber contraceptives. The combined installed capacity of these two units for male contraceptives is about 16 lakh nos. per year. Against this, the production during the past was as follows:— 1954 : 345,252; 1955 : 111,552; 1956 : 78,612; 1957 : 108,456; 1958 : 155,760; and 1959 (January-August) : 124,956.

The current demand for male contraceptives has been estimated at 8 million (nos.) per year which is likely to go up to 10 million (nos.) per year by the end of 1961.

It would thus be seen that the current production of male contraceptives in the country is not adequate to meet the internal demand. Even if the existing capacity were fully utilised, it would meet the estimated internal demand only to the extent of about 20 per cent.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

With regard to female contraceptives there is no indigenous production of the diaphragm type contraceptives. The requirements for the diaphragm contraceptives were expected to be upto 500,000 nos. by 1960-61. The check pessary type of female contraceptive is also being manufactured in India though the production capacity is very limited.

In view of the meagre production of these items in the country, the Government have followed a liberal import policy. Till June, 1957, these items were on O.G.L. after which they were placed on quota licensing. Contraceptives falling under this item were exempted from the payment of customs duty. The particulars with regard to the imports of rubber contraceptives from 1957 onwards are as follows :—

1957 : 584,000 doz. ; Rs. 676,000. 1958 : 362,000 doz. ; Rs. 409,000. 1959 (Jan.-July) : 302,000 doz. ; Rs. 331,000.

Manufacture of rubber contraceptives involves a considerable amount of technical skill. It is perhaps for this reason that the existing capacity is not being fully utilised. To make the country less dependent on imports and also to meet the domestic demands, several steps have been taken. Necessary facilities are being given to the existing units to produce to the maximum extent possible. With a view to bringing into existence additional capacity, new entrepreneurs are being induced to take up the production of rubber contraceptives in collaboration with well known foreign manufacturers.

Since indigenous production is very small as compared to the demands pending creation of additional capacity, a liberal import policy for rubber contraceptives has been adopted. In view of the need for the creation of additional capacity for the manufacture of these items, new schemes and substantial expansions receive encouragement.

The entire requirement of foam tablets is produced in the country. Manufacture of jellies and creams has also been started in the country. It is anticipated that soon the entire requirements will be produced within the country.

HOUSING

It was estimated that in 1951 the shortage of houses was about 2·5 million on the assumption that each household should have a separate house.

The total urban population was 61·9 million, occupied houses 10·3 million and households 12·8 million.

For the period 1951-61, against an estimated requirement of 8·9 million additional houses in urban areas, it was calculated that only about three million dwelling houses could be provided.

Altogether, excluding about one million slum hovels, and allowing for deterioration and depreciation of existing houses, the overall shortage of housing at the end of 1961 would be of the order of 7·8 million units.

In the First Plan period about 1·3 million houses were constructed (742,000 by public authorities and 600,000 by the private sector).

The Second Five Year Plan envisaged the construction of about 1·9 million additional houses in the urban areas : 1·1 million in the public sector and 0·8 million in the private sector. Reliable data of the actual performance are not yet available. Safe indications, however, are that 1·7 million houses should have been constructed : 0·9 million in the public sector and 0·8 million in the private sector. According to an estimate prepared by the Reserve Bank of India, the probable private investment on housing during the 2nd Plan had been placed at about Rs. 600 crores. Including the funds provided by the various public authorities and the complementary contribution of the beneficiaries the total investment expected to have gone into the field of housing during the Second Plan period may be of the order of Rs. 1,100 crores.

The total allocation in the Second Plan was Rs. 84 crores. Against this provision, a total amount of about Rs. 72·70 crores had been utilised during the Second Plan period on the above Scheme. In addition, a sum of about Rs. 18 crores has also been disbursed under three non-Plan Schemes, viz. Middle Income Group Housing Scheme and Rental Housing Scheme for State Government Employees (both of which are financed by the Life Insurance Corporation), and House Building Advances to Central Government servants. Altogether under the various schemes mentioned above, about 1,94,750 houses have been sanctioned and about 1,26,400 houses have been completed during the Second Five Year Plan period.

Housing Schemes are administered by the Ministry of Works, Housing & Supply, the various other Central Ministries such as the Ministries of Transport & Communications, Defence, Home Affairs, Railways, Rehabilitation, etc., State Governments and Local Bodies etc. They are all engaged in snbstantial housing programmes connected with development or social welfare projects.

The Third Five Year Plan begins with a large estimated back-log of 7·8 million dwelling units and a prospective additional demand of 5·6 million units for the next five years in urban areas. Considering the current indications of increase in population, these figures may go up further. An investment of the order of at least Rs. 1,500 crores would have to be channelised into housing during the Third Five Year Plan period.

On the rural housing side, out of 54 million houses existing in the 5,58,100 villages in the country, it has been estimated that as many as 50 million houses have either to be re-built completely or improved substantially. Improvement of housing conditions in villages has therefore to be dealt with, as in the past, on the basis of aided-self-help, as part of an overall programme of rural development.

The Draft Outline of the Third Plan envisages a provision of only Rs. 120 crores for the urban and rural housing schemes administered by the Ministry of Works, Housing and Supply. The limited funds thus available will have to be augmented to a considerable extent by tapping institutional finance and mobilising private resources in an increasing measure. State Housing Boards or Corporations would be a valuable instrument for this purpose. The Governments of Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat, Madras, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra and Mysore have already set up Statutory Housing Boards in their respective States; the Government of West Bengal has established a non-statutory Housing Board. The other States are also likely to set up similar Boards during the course of the Third Plan period. A proposal for the introduction of a suitable Central Legislation is now under active consideration, so as to enable the State Governments to raise, through their Housing Boards or Corporations, additional funds by means of deposits, debentures, public loans etc. for financing housing activities.

According to the final report on the country's Third Plan, nearly 50 per cent of the amount earmarked for low-income group housing scheme was proposed to be utilised for subsidised housing schemes for those who earned Rs. 150 or less per month.

The details of progress achieved during the Second Plan period, under individual Housing Schemes administered by the Ministry of Works, Housing and Supply, are indicated below.

SUBSIDISED INDUSTRIAL HOUSING SCHEME

The Subsidised Industrial Housing Scheme, which was introduced in September 1952, contemplates grant of financial assistance by the Government of India to the State Governments and through them to other approved agencies, such as Statutory Housing Boards, Local Bodies, Industrial Employers and registered Co-operative Societies of industrial workers, for construction of houses for industrial workers, covered by Section 2(1) of the Factories Act, 1948, and mine workers (other than those engaged in coal and mica mines) falling within the meaning of Section 2(h) of the Mines Act, 1952. The benefits of financial assistance under the Scheme are available to workers, whose income does not exceed Rs. 350 per mensem. The Scheme is administered through the respective State Governments, within whose territorial jurisdiction the construction is contemplated.

Under the Scheme, the Government of India provides the entire cost of houses to be constructed for industrial workers by the State Governments, Statutory Housing Boards and Municipal Bodies (50 per cent as outright subsidy and the remaining 50 per cent by way of loan) subject to the maximum of the prescribed ceiling costs for various types of houses. Assistance is also given to employers and co-operatives of industrial workers by offering them an outright subsidy at 25 per cent of the estimated cost of houses (subject to prescribed ceiling costs) to be constructed by them in addition to loans at 50 per cent of the total cost of construction in case of employers and at 65 per cent of the cost in the case of co-operatives of industrial workers.

The following four types of accommodation can be provided under the Scheme, depending upon various factors, such as the rent-paying capacity of the workers, the cost and availability of land and local considerations etc. :— (a) Open developed plots; (b) Skeletal houses; (c) Pucca houses; (d) Hostel and dormitory buildings.

Outside Bombay and Calcutta, the rents prescribed for various types of accommodation range between Rs. 3 and Rs. 16 p.m., and that in Bombay and Calcutta and their industrial areas between Rs. 6·50 and Rs. 33·00 p.m.

Since the introduction of the Scheme in September 1952, upto the 31st of March 1961, a total sum of Rs. 45·35 crores has been sanctioned for construction of 1,37,567 houses, out of which 99,541 houses had been completed till December 1960. About 36,000 more houses have been sanctioned or are under construction. The actual disbursement upto 31 March 1961 to the different constructing agencies, however, amounted to Rs. 35·63 crores.

Till Sept. 1960, 79,833 houses were completed in the State sector, 14,485 by private employers and 1,426 by co-operative societies.

The State-wise break-up of houses sanctioned and built is given in the table below :

State	Houses sanctioned	Houses built
Andhra Pradesh ..	6,273	4,107
Assam	503	297

PLANTATION LABOUR HOUSING

From the inception of this Scheme in April, 1956, a sum of Rs. 13·87 lakhs was drawn by the State Governments of Assam, Kerala, Madras, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal for disbursement to planters, upto 31st March 1961. Out of 683 houses sanctioned by the States 298 were completed while the remaining were at various stages of construction.

The Govt. of India communicated to State Govts., in September 1960, their decision in regard to the setting up by each State Govt. of a "Pool Guarantee Fund" which would indemnify the State Govts. against bad debts that they might incur as a result of relaxation of the security provisions prescribed by them for advance of loans under the Scheme. Losses in excess of the assets of the Pool Guarantee Fund are to be shared equally by the State Government, Government of India, and the Commodity Board concerned. For the time being, only the Tea and Rubber Boards have agreed to participate in the Pool Guarantee Fund. Negotiations are under way with the Coffee Board.

LOW INCOME GROUP

This Scheme, which was introduced in November, 1954, envisages the grant of long-term loans for construction of new houses for persons having an annual income not exceeding Rs. 6,000. The loan to individuals and others generally bears an interest of about 5 per cent per annum (plus about ½ per cent administrative charges of State Governments) and is repayable in a period not exceeding 30 years. The quantum of assistance is limited to 80 per cent of the cost of the house, including cost of land, subject to a maximum of Rs. 8,000 per house. The following categories of persons or institutions can obtain loan assistance under the Scheme :—

(i) Individuals with annual income not exceeding Rs. 6,000 and co-operative societies of such individuals, for building their own houses.

(ii) Co-operative Tenancy Societies, Public Institutions run on a no-profit-no-loss basis and non-governmental but recognized health institutions, hospitals, educational trusts and educational institutions (including universities) and charitable institutions, for the construction of houses, which should be sold or let out to such of their members/employees as are eligible for benefits of the Scheme.

(iii) Local bodies and State Governments and their designated agencies, for the construction of houses which should be sold or let out to eligible persons, provided not more than 25 per cent of these houses are given by them to their own employees.

Short-term loans, repayable in a period not exceeding five years, with interest at about 8¾ per cent per annum are also advanced under the Scheme by the Central Government to the State Governments, for acquisition and development of land and for the subsequent sale of the developed sites to eligible persons on a no-profit-no-loss basis.

Since the introduction of the Scheme in November, 1954, upto 31st March, 1961, a sum of Rs. 42·76 crores had been advanced as loan to the various States. Out of a total number of about 82,850 houses sanctioned for construction by State Governments upto 31st December 1960, work on about 50,950 houses had been completed. About 32,000 houses were under construction (April 1961).

A sum of Rs. 31·94 crores has actually been drawn by the State Government etc., under the scheme during the Second Five Year Plan period.

SLUM CLEARANCE

Since the inception of the Scheme in May, 1956, 186 slum clearance improvement projects at an approved cost of Rs. 17·01 crores for the construction of 52,751 housing units have been approved/sanctioned by the Ministry of Works, Housing and Supply or the respective State Govts. upto 24th March 1961. According to the progress reports received from the State Governments etc., 13,044 housing units had been completed while work was in progress on 6,079 housing units in various States as on 31 Dec. 1960.

During the financial year 1960-61, a sum of Rs. 281·18 lakhs was paid to the State Governments and Union Territory of Tripura as the Central share of financial assistance, under the Scheme.

The quantum of Central subsidy has been enhanced from 25 per cent to 37½ per cent of the cost of projects; the State's share of subsidy remaining unaltered at 25 per cent of the cost. It has, however, been decided that the enhanced rate of Central subsidy should ordinarily be made applicable to the six major cities of Bombay, Calcutta, Madras, Delhi, Kanpur and Ahmedabad where the slum clearance or improvement operations are to be mainly confined at this stage. As regards slum clearance or improvement in other cities, the commitments already entered into shall be honoured and where there is special justification, some additional projects may also be sanctioned but such projects will not ordinarily be eligible for the enhanced rate of Central subsidy. The enhancement of total subsidy (both Central and State) from 50 per cent to 62½ per cent of the cost would have the effect of reducing the rents of various types of houses to be provided under the Scheme by Rs. 2 to Rs. 4 per month.

It has also been decided that slum clearance projects involving rehousing of sweepers and scavengers taken up in the six major cities stated above should, in addition to the 37½ per cent Central subsidy already admissible under the Scheme, be also eligible for an additional 12½ per cent Central subsidy under the schemes for the amelioration of living conditions of Scheduled Castes and welfare of other backward classes to the extent of houses proposed to be allotted to the sweepers and scavengers belonging to these categories. Such pooling of subsidy under the two Central Schemes would enable the State Governments to charge still lower rents in respect of houses allotted to sweepers and scavengers.

VILLAGE HOUSING PROJECTS

The Village Housing Projects Scheme which was introduced in October, 1957, envisaged the establishment of housing projects in about 5,000 selected villages in suitable Community Development Blocks spread all over the country, during the Second Five Year Plan period. Financial assistance is given in the form of loans not exceeding Rs. 2,000 or 66 2/3 per cent of the cost of construction of the house, whichever is less. Loan assistance is also granted to villagers for improving their existing houses. The Scheme is based on the principle of aided self help, and necessary technical guidance to beneficiaries is given by the Rural Housing Cells set up at State headquarters.

Out of 5,000 villages proposed to be taken up during the Second Plan period, about 3,700 villages had been selected, and survey had been conducted and layout plans drawn up for 1,600 villages till the end of December, 1960. The construction of about 15,000 houses had been sanctioned, out of which about 3,150 houses were completed and another 8,000 houses were under construction at the end of the above period.

The provision of Rs. 10 crores originally made in the Second Five Year Plan for this Scheme was reduced to Rs. 5 crores in consequence of the reappraisal of the Plan in 1958. The total amount drawn by the State Governments during 1960-61 comes to about Rs. 1·78 crores, bringing the total amount drawn during the Second Plan period to Rs. 3·7 crores.

The Government of India have also set up six Regional Research-cum-Training Centres, through Ford Foundation assistance for undertaking work relating to research, training and extension, in rural housing and village planning.

INSTITUTIONAL FINANCE

For the first time, institutional finance in a systematic manner has been harnessed to housing, on a Governmental basis, under two schemes—Middle Income and Government Employees—which are being financed through funds provided by the Life Insurance Corporation.

Under the Middle Income Group Housing Scheme, introduced in February, 1959, the Life Insurance Corporation advances loans to the State Governments (except in the case of Union Territories) to the extent authorized by the Central Government at 5 per cent interest, repayable in 25 annual equated instalments. The State Governments, in turn, advance loans to individuals within the income range of Rs. 6,000-12,000 per annum, or their co-operatives, for the construction of houses for their bona fide residential purposes, recovering the amounts over the same period (or any shorter periods as the individuals may desire), with an additional interest of about ½ per cent to cover normal administrative charges.

The amount of loan will be determined on the following lines :—

(a) In case of persons, who already possess land, 80 per cent of the estimated cost of construction (exclusive of land), subject to a maximum of Rs. 16,000.

(b) In case of persons, who do not possess land, 80 per cent of the estimated cost of houses including the cost of land, subject to a maximum of Rs. 20,000.

The loans will be advanced in stages. Before advancing loans to individual applicants, the State Governments will scrutinise and approve the layout, designs, specifications etc. and will also ensure that the necessary essential services in accordance with the normal standards applicable to the area would become available. The floor area of house constructed under this scheme should not be, ordinarily, less than 700 sq. ft. and the cost (exclusive of the cost of developed land) should not exceed Rs. 25,000. Loan assistance under the scheme was disbursed to the State Governments, to the extent of Rs. 3·0 crores, Rs. 4·4 crores and Rs. 7·9 crores during 1958-59, 1959-60 and 1960-61 respectively.

The entire demand of the State Governments for 1960-61 under the Scheme has been met in full and the amounts drawn in Rs. lakhs by each State is as follows :—

Andhra Pradesh :—74·64, Bihar 6, Gujarat 15, Kerala 5, Madhya Pradesh 5, Madras 34, Maharashtra 66, Mysore 37, Orissa 11, Rajasthan 2·86, Uttar Pradesh 34. The scheme was extended to Delhi in Nov. 1959 and to Tripura in Dec. 1960.

Another Scheme called the Rental Housing Scheme for State Government Employees, financed by the Life Insurance Corporation, was also introduced in February, 1959. The Scheme envisages the grant of loan assistance to State Governments for the construction of houses for allotment to their employees on a rental basis. Under this Scheme, loans to the extent of Rs. 1 crore, Rs. 2·56 crores and Rs. 3·40 crores were disbursed to the State Governments during 1958-59, 1959-60 and 1960-61 respectively. This is to assist the State Governments in constructing houses for allotment on rents to their employees, particularly those in the lower income bracket.

The entire demand of the State Governments for 1960-61 under the Scheme has been met in full and the amounts drawn in Rs. lakhs by each State are as follows : Andhra Pradesh 50; Kerala 5; Madras 50; Mysore 30; Orissa 17; Rajasthan 25; West Bengal 163.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

House building advances are made to Central Government employees. During the year 1960, 505 applications for loan assistance to the extent of Rs. 58·27 lakhs were received out of which, 493 applications, involving the grant of loan, totalling Rs. 51·03 lakhs were approved.

LAND ACQUISITION AND DEVELOPMENT SCHEME

High land prices and general scarcity of good developed plots have been responsible, in a large measure, for the slow progress in housing and slum clearance, during recent years. A Land Acquisition and Development Scheme was therefore formulated and introduced in October, 1959.

This Scheme is designed to assist the State Governments to arrange bulk acquisition and development of land in large and growing towns through Governmental or semi-Governmental agencies, and to make available to public, developed plots at reasonable rates. The Scheme would also help in the stabilisation of land prices, rationalisation of urban development and promotion of self-sufficient composite colonies, giving due consideration to factors like provision of essential services, shopping centres, schools, and transport and other community facilities.

Central assistance to State Governments will be in the form of interest bearing loans repayable over a period not exceeding ten years. The State Governments were permitted to enter into commitments to the extent of Rs. 15 crores during the Second Five Year Plan period provided that the actual expenditure during that period did not exceed Rs. 2·90 crores. As against this allocation a sum of Rs. 38 lakhs was drawn in 1959-60 by Bombay (bilingual), Madras, Uttar Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh, Mysore, Orissa, and Punjab. During 1960-61, loan assistance to the extent of Rs. 183 lakhs had been drawn by the various States excepting Assam, Mysore and Jammu & Kashmir.

Details of land acquired under the Scheme by State Governments upto Dec. 31, 1960: Kerala 215 acres; Madras 334·21 acres; West Bengal 10·50 acres.

This will be a continuing scheme under the Third Plan.

In 1960 engineering exports are estimated to have earned over Rs. 9 crores, an increase of Rs. 3 crores over 1959. U.S.A. was the largest single buyer being worth Rs. 1·3 crores.

India is essentially an agricultural country with farming regarded by the people as a tradition rather than as business. During the past 41 years the tendency has been towards rapid industrialisation. This change has been noticeable in the matter of foreign trade especially in the post-partition period.

Of the total imports worth Rs. 940·37 crores in 1960, capital goods accounted for 14·25 per cent. The percentage share of industrial goods was 61·60, of foodgrains 13·44 and of miscellaneous items 10·71.

BALANCE OF PAYMENTS

India's international payments position in 1959–60 recorded a further improvement, the loss of foreign exchange reserves being only Rs. 16 crores as compared with Rs. 42 crores in 1958–59 and as against the much heavier drafts of Rs. 260 crores in 1957–58 and Rs. 221 crores in 1956–57. The reserves would in fact, have shown a rise of Rs. 26 crores in 1959–60 but for the payments to the I.M.F., involving Rs. 42 crores in connection with the gold part of our increased subscription to, and the purchase of rupees held by, that institution. The improvement in reserves in 1959–60, in spite of a smaller inflow of external assistance and the absence, as in the previous year, of any special receipts like accelerated receipts from the U.K. under pensions annuities, was accounted for mainly by the drastically reduced level of imports which, at Rs. 924 crores, were the lowest in the Second Plan period.

A feature of the movements in reserve was that they started going up even before the seasonal rise in export commenced, and fell only following the repurchase in February 1960 of Rs. 24 crores from the I.M.F. At the end of March 1960, the reserves (including gold) stood at Rs. 363 crores as against Rs. 379 crores a year ago. However, there has since been some deterioration in the payments position, the reserves falling to Rs. 323 crores at the end of June 1960.

The trends in the balance of payments during the years 1957–58, 1958–59 and 1959–60 are shown in the table below.

IMPORT AND EXPORT CONTROL

Import trade control was first instituted in May 1940 for conserving the limited tonnage and the hard currency. In the post-war period, currency difficulties, the prospects of release of sterling balances and the Government's view on inflation were the guiding principles.

The import control policy pursued during the year 1959–60 continued to be an extension of the policy followed during the preceding year. Certain measures were, however, taken during the two licensing periods, namely, April-September 1959 and October 1959–March 1960 (a) to conserve the foreign exchange resources for essential imports and (b) to enable indigenous industry to maintain production at maximum levels so as to sustain the tempo generated by the economic development of the recent past. This can be shown by taking a bird's eye view of the balance of trade since the year 1957. The deficit in the balance of trade since the year 1957 has been progressively reduced. While the level of deficit in 1957 was of the order of Rs. 412 crores, it was reduced to Rs. 316 crores in 1958 and to Rs. 265 crores in 1959. The external payment position also showed an improvement during the year under review. While the balance of payments deficit amounted to Rs. 377·6 crores during 1957, the corresponding figure for the year 1959 was only Rs. 171·7 crores.

Now, to revert to import policy. The general policy pursued during the first half of the financial year 1959–60, as previously stated, remained more or less the same as for the previous half year. An effort was, however, made to adjust quotas of 93 items in a manner which would give relief and improve supplies where urgently necessary by saving foreign exchange through the reduction of quotas of 40 items which were considered to be comparatively less essential or where the indigenous production had increased to some extent and by increasing the quotas somewhat in the case of 53 items.

The items for which quotas were increased included, inter alia, asbestos packings, fractional horse power motors, garage tools, hydrosulphate of soda, gum arabic, scientific and mathematical instruments and apparatus. It was, however, laid down that the established importers of these items would ensure controlled distribution of these non-ferrous metals according to the directives issued by the Government of India in this behalf. A small cut was also made in respect of the general quota prescribed for the import of drugs and medicines but increased imports of certain essential items like P.A.S. and certain sulpha drugs were permitted. The quotas for a few chemicals like mercuric chloride, phosphoric acid and tri-calcium phosphate were withdrawn because of improved supply from indigenous sources.

With a view to affording further facilities to the industry and to enable the industrial units to procure their raw material requirements directly, the list of items licensable to actual users was further expanded.

Another important development of a procedural kind which took place during the period was the inauguration of the scheme to issue licences to certain scheduled industries for the imports of raw materials and components on the basis of advance allotments over and above their normal half yearly quotas. This advance allotment varied from 50 to 75 per cent of the value of the import licences granted to them for the period. This was done to ensure continuity of supply of raw materials to certain important industries borne on the books of the Development Wing and to enable them to plan their production in advance. This new scheme was introduced from the 1st of April 1959. To ensure that advance licensing done under this scheme does not lead to a disproportionate withdrawal of foreign exchange during the first few months of the validity of such licences a condition was imposed on the Customs and Exchange Control. Copies of such licences which prescribed that shipment and remittances not exceeding a certain percentage of the face value of these licences was permissible during the first six months from the date of the issue of these licences.

A provision was made for the grant of supplementary licences during the period under review to such industrial units which had obtained advance raw material allotment during the previous period.

The value of these supplementary licences was arrived at in each case by assessing the raw materials requirements for the half year October 1959-March 1960 on the basis of the policy announced for that half year and by reducing the amounts so arrived at by the value of advance allotments for which licences had been issued to such industries on the basis of the previous year.

Special emphasis was laid down in the import policy for the Second Plan Period, on the maintenance of the economy, raw materials for industries and on export promotion. As in the previous half year certain re-adjustments of quotas were made to economise in foreign exchange expenditure in certain directions in order to provide for increased imports of some items. With a view to promoting exports and earning more of foreign exchange the import policy followed during the two half years made special provisions for the grant of export promotion licences. A number of important export industries continued to enjoy preferential treatment in accordance with their export performance. The list of items under the Export Promotion Scheme was also expanded.

With the intention to check a precipitous rise in prices as a result of import restrictions and other causes, efforts to control sale prices and distribution of imported goods were also continued during the year under review. The various steps taken in achieving that end were the canalisation of imports through agencies approved by the Government, fixation of profit margins in respect of specific commodities, limitation on the sale of certain imported goods and imports through the S.T.C.

With a view to avoiding procedural delays, licences for the raw material requirements of 80 specified industries borne on the registers of the Development Wing covering as many as 240 items, were issued during the period on a "repeat" basis. The procedure for the submission of application was further simplified. The licensing of commercial imports, however, continued to be done strictly within the limits of the foreign exchange ceiling allocated by the Ministry of Finance.

The policy of progressive relaxation of control over exports generally and of organised export promotion consistent with the internal economy of the country was continued vigorously during the year. 37 additional items were placed on the free licensing list during the year under review while five items were decontrolled. A few items, which were banned, were licensed either on ad hoc basis or on quota basis so that the pace of export was regulated to suit both the demand in foreign countries and the requirements at home. As in the previous years, the policy in 1959-60 was formulated keeping in view the necessity for encouraging exports of indigenous manufactures.

The important features of the liberalisation measures introduced during the year are as follows: A large number of commodities were placed on the free licensing list as, for example, imported paper and pasteboard, fish meal, leather meal, chrome ore, picked goat skins etc.; export quotas in respect of H.P.S. groundnuts in shells and maple wood which were not allowed for export previously were also released; export of electric control and transmission gear, motors, diesel engines, celery seeds, cover crop seeds other than green manure seeds, dhoob grass seeds, silver ores and concentrates and silver bullion metal and alloys and certain wild life were decontrolled. There were only four items namely, raw goat skins, nuxvomica seeds, staple fibre yarn and cashewnuts on which fresh control was imposed during the period. Owing to difficult supply position, it became necessary to tighten the existing control on commodities like lemon grass seed and roots, cashewnut seeds and the like. Export policies in respect of the important commodities such as tea, jute manufactures and cotton textiles continued to be liberal.

Licences

During the licensing period April–September 1959, the Import Trade Control Organisation, in the Office of the Chief Controller of Imports and Exports, received 1,77,970 applications for import licences. During the period October 1959–March 1960, 210,197 applications have been received. This was the highest figure for any licensing period, barring July–December 1956.

The disposal of applications kept pace with the receipts and at the close of the licensing period, only 4,663 applications, i.e. about 2·2 per cent were pending. In the case of export licence applications, almost all the applications had been disposed of during the year 1959–60.

In addition to applications for import of goods, the Organisation dealt with a huge volume of correspondence on questions of policy, interpretation of rules and regulations, appeals, etc. received from the trade and various Chambers of Commerce and Trade Associations. The number of such letters reached a record figure of 7·43 lakhs.

In all, 79,859 import licences were issued during the period upto June 27, 1959.

One hundred and nine firms have been blacklisted during the period for contravening the import and export trade regulations.

A number of measures were introduced during this period to enable the industry and established importers to plan their imports on a long-term basis, and to facilitate expeditious disposal of applications. Import licences for items, where there was no change in the quota, were granted on "repeat" basis on the production of licences issued during the preceding licensing period. The scheme has been extended to a number of quota items during the current licensing period, viz., April–September 1960. Quota licences for certain specified items are also granted to established importers to cover their entitlements for two licensing periods, viz., April–September 1960 and October 1960–March 1961.

In addition raw materials for small scale industries and certain specified industries borne on the register of the development wing will be licensed on an annual basis. The scheme will enable the importers to take advantage of price situations and will maximize the quantum of imports for the same amount of foreign exchange.

TRADE AGREEMENTS

India has trade agreements or trade arrangements with 18 countries in Asia, Africa, Europe and other parts of the world.

The countries are Afghanistan, Bulgaria, Burma, Ceylon, Chile, Czechoslovakia, France, East and West Germany, Greece, Hungary, Indonesia, Iraq, Italy, Japan, Jordan, Morocco, Nepal, Pakistan, Poland, Rumania, Sweden, Switzerland, Tunisia, U.A.R. (Egypt), U.S.S.R., North Viet Nam and Yugoslavia.

Below we give the latest available position as on 31st Dec. 1960 about the trade agreements which India has entered into with some countries. The information given within brackets relates to the dates on which the agreements were signed and the duration of the agreements respectively.

Afghanistan (August 11, 1959—July 20, 1961); Bulgaria (March 3, 1960; January 1, 1960 to December 31, 1962); Burma (September 5, 1956—September 4, 1961); Ceylon (January 13, 1958—August 31, 1961); Chile (March 10, 1960—December 31, 1962); Czechoslovakia (November 3, 1960; January 1, 1961 to December 31, 1963); France (October 19, 1959—October 18, 1960) (but provision for renewal on request by either party); Germany, East (December 18, 1959; January 1, 1960 to December 31, 1962); Germany, West (March 31, 1955—Valid till terminated by either party giving three months' notice); Greece (February 14, 1958—December 31, 1960) (with provision for extension from year to year); Hungary (June 25, 1960; July 1, 1960 to December 31, 1963); Iraq (December 29, 1958; May 17, 1959 to May 16, 1961); Indonesia (January 30, 1953—March 31, 1961 by periodical extensions); Italy (October 6, 1959—June 30, 1961); Japan (February 4, 1958; valid initially for two years thereafter renewable periodically); Jordan (January 14, 1960—January 13, 1961, (therafter renewable for one more year); Morocco (September 26, 1960—will become valid on the signing of the payments agreement); Nepal (September 11, 1960; November 1, 1960 to October 31, 1965); Pakistan (March 21, 1960—March 20, 1962 (may be extended for a further period of one year provided either party does not give notice to the other); Poland (November 2, 1959; January 1, 1960 to December 31, 1962); Rumania (May 14, 1959—May 13, 1962); (December 22, 1960—in addition to the three-year agreement and valid from January 1, 1961 to December 31, 1966); Sweden (May 31, 1955 and exchange of letters on November 29, 1958; January 1, 1955 to continue indefinitely); Switzerland (October 10, 1959; Indefinite); Tunisia (October 5, 1960—October 4, 1961 and thereafter renewable year after year until terminated by either party giving three months' notice), U.A.R. (Egypt) (July 8, 1953; valid till terminated by either party on giving three months' notice. Periodically reviewed and extended); U.S.S.R. (November 16, 1958; January 1, 1959 to December 31, 1963); Viet Nam North (September 22, 1956—September 21, 1962); Yugoslavia (January 21, 1960—December 31, 1962).

Besides these agreements, the State Trading Corporation concluded agreements with foreign trade organizations of China, Italy, Japan, Lebanon, Switzerland and Viet Nam.

INDUS WATERS TREATY

The Indus Waters Treaty, signed by the Prime Minister of India and the President of Pakistan at Karachi on September 19, 1960, brings to a close the 13-year old dispute regarding the waters of the Indus system of rivers.

Under the Treaty, the waters of the Indus, Jhelum and Chenab, except for essential uses in their own basins while they flow in India, are allotted to Pakistan; and the waters of the Ravi, Beas and Sutlej, except for a transition period, during which Pakistan will build works to replace the waters received by it from these rivers, are allotted to India.

This division is based on the proposal made by the World Bank in 1954. It divides the total waters of the Indus system in the proportion of 80 : 20 between Pakistan and India.

WESTERN RIVERS

India guarantees to let flow for all time to come all the waters of the Indus, Jhelum and Chenab to Pakistan, except for essential uses in India to be made in accordance with detailed regulations specified in the Treaty.

The present irrigated areas in India (Jammu and Kashmir, Punjab and Himachal Pradesh) from these rivers are approximately one million acres. These will continue to get water supplies from them.

In addition, provision is made for development of new irrigation facilities for another 0.7 million acres from these rivers in India.

Further, India may undertake measures for flood control and drainage in these basins (as long as these do not adversely affect Pakistan) and use these waters for generation of hydro-electric power in accordance with the criteria laid down in the Treaty.

In addition to storage for flood control purposes, India will be entitled to store on the Western Rivers for various purposes a total of 2.85 M.A.F. This storage will be mainly on tributaries.

EASTERN RIVERS

India will continue to give water from the Sutlej, Beas and Ravi, allotted to her under the Treaty, to Pakistan during the transition period only and at a diminishing scale. The transition period will be 10 years from the date the Treaty comes into force, i.e., April 1, 1960.

This period may be extended for a further period of 3 years at Pakistan's request, but the extension is subject to a reduction in Indian contribution towards Pakistan's replacement works by Rs. 42 lakhs if the period is extended by one year, by Rs. 86 lakhs if by 2 years, and by Rs. 131 lakhs if by 3 years.

The transition period cannot be extended beyond 1973.

LOANS FOR INDUS WORKS

The U.S. Government has agreed to lend India a sum of Rs. 157,000,000 (dollars 33 million) and the World Bank Rs. 110,000,000 (dollars 23 million) to meet the foreign exchange costs of a dam on the Beas. This has been done taking into consideration the long transition period agreed to by India in order to accommodate Pakistan, and will enable India to avoid undue postponement of the perennial supplies to the Rajasthan canal, as would otherwise have been the case.

These loans will be the subject of separate agreements between India and the U.S. Government and India and the Bank.

WORKS IN PAKISTAN

Pakistan is undertaking on the Western Rivers a comprehensive system of replacement-cum-development works comprising storage reservoirs, barrages, link canals, tubewells, drainage and hydro-electric installations.

As the purpose of part of this system of works is the replacement from the Western Rivers of water supplies for irrigation canals in Pakistan, which were dependent on water supplies from the Eastern Rivers, India has agreed to make a fixed contribution of Rs. 83 crores (£62,500,000) towards the cost of the replacement element of these works.

The United States of America, United Kingdom, Canada, West Germany, Australia and New Zealand and the Bank are financing the remaining costs of this large plan of works. Their aid to Pakistan will be worth Rs. 333 crores (£250,000,000).

Apart from making the fixed contribution mentioned above, India is not concerned with the planning, construction and financing of the replacement-cum-development plan in Pakistan.

The detailed arrangements for the financing and construction, etc., of these works are the subject of a separate Agreement between the Bank, Pakistan and the participating countries mentioned above.

PERMANENT INDUS COMMISSION

The Treaty provides for a Permanent Indus Commission consisting of an Indian and a Pakistani Commissioner. Each Commissioner will be representative of his Government for all matters arising out of the Treaty, and will serve as a regular channel of communication on all matters relating to the implementation of the Treaty.

The Permanent Indus Commission will first iron out any differences between the two sides, that may arise in connection with the implementation of this Treaty.

The Treaty also provides for calling in a Neutral Expert, when necessary, to whom differences of a technical nature would be submitted for decision.

A Court of Arbitration will deal with major disputes, if any, on the interpretation of the Treaty.

FUTURE COOPERATION

The Treaty contains provision for future co-operation with regard to specific works, such as building dams to control floods or drainage works which may be required to be built by one party in the territory of the other. These will be built at the request and cost of the party which benefits from them under separate bilateral agreements.

The Treaty terminates the Indo-Pak Agreement of May 1948. Pakistan has agreed to pay all the 'undisputed' charges due to India and agreement has been reached to settle the 'disputed' charges by a payment by Pakistan of about Rs. 62 lakhs.

The total sum thus due to India, excluding the disputed amount lying in escrow with the Reserve Bank, comes to Rs. 58 lakhs (£440,000). This sum has been set off against the Indian contribution of £62,500,000.

The Permanent Indus Commission set up under the Indo-Pakistan Indus Waters Treaty to implement its provisions finalised the Annual Report for the year ended March 31, 1961 and submitted it to the two Governments on May 31, 1961. The Commission was set up immediately after 12th January. Mr. H. C. Kalsa, led the Indian delegation and Mr. M. A. Hamid, Pakistan's Commissioner led the Pakistan delegation.

INSURANCE

THE Life Insurance Corporation of India did a record business of Rs. 495·72 crores, assured under about 1·23 million policies during 1960. Foreign business completed by the L.I.C. during 1960 was Rs. 9·70 crores as against Rs. 9·47 crores in 1959.

This figure establishes a new record for new life business and represents an increase of Rs. 67 crores or 15·7% over 1959 figures, as against an increase of Rs. 84 crores or 24% in 1959. About Rs. 9·70 crores of this business were written outside India and the balance of Rs. 486·02 crores within India, including Rs. 1·82 crores under the Janata Policy Scheme. The corresponding figures for 1959 were Rs. 9·47 crores foreign business, Rs. 2·01 crores under Janata Policy Scheme and Rs. 419·47 crores business in India. The Corporation finalised a Five-Year Plan of development in 1959 to cover the period 1959–1963. The target of new business under this plan in the fifth year is Rs. 1,000 crores. The Plan target for 1959, the first year of the Plan, was exceeded by Rs. 13 crores; but there is a shortfall of about Rs. 29 crores in 1960, the target for the year being Rs. 525 crores.

The Life Insurance Corporation of India was established in September 1956 under a special Act, The Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956 the Central Government contributing the whole of its capital of Rs. 5 crores. It has the monopoly of conducting life insurance business in India and abroad. It took over all the then existing life insurance business of Indian life offices and Provident Societies and also the Indian business of foreign life offices.

It is managed by an autonomous body consisting of 15 Directors, nominated by the Central Government functioning under the guidance and advice of the Finance Ministry of the Central Government within the scope and limits set down in the Act. This board of 15 members consists of 11 non-officials and 4 Government officials one of whom is designated Chairman of the Corporation, working as the chief whole-time officer.

The board has delegated certain of its functions to an Executive Committee of 5 members selected from among themselves, to facilitate speedy and effective execution of its duties. In addition to this, there is an Investment Committee consisting of 7 members which is a consultative body on all questions concerning the investment of the funds of the Corporation.

The Corporation has a network of offices all over the country to procure new business and for servicing the existing business. There are 5 Zonal Offices, one each in Bombay, Madras, Kanpur, Calcutta and Delhi. There are 35 Divisional Offices, and 460 Branch and Sub-offices i.e. 495 offices in all as against 377 in 1959, 355 offices in 1958, 266 offices in 1957 and 249 offices as on 1st September 1956 the date on which the Corporation was established. The Central Office of the Corporation is in Bombay.

The Corporation also transacts business in the following foreign countries with 2 Divisional Offices and 12 Branch Offices: Aden, Fiji, Hong Kong, Federation of Malaya, Kenya, Mauritius, Singapore, Tanganyika, Uganda and Zanzibar. Early in 1961, a Development Centre was opened in London.

In each of the Zonal Offices, there is an Advisory Board to help the Zonal Manager in matters concerning his relations with the public. The

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Boards consist of leading public men of the place with the local Zonal Manager as secretary. In addition, in each of these Zonal centres, there are committees known as Employees and Agents Relations Committees which, as the name suggests, serve to maintain good relations among agents, employees and the management.

1959 REPORT

At the end of 1959, the total business in the books of the Corporation including bonuses, stood at Rs. 1,964 crores under 69·36 lakh policies. Of this, Rs. 1,862 crores under 66·80 lakh policies represented life insurance business in India:

Year	In India		Outside India		Total

A marked variation is noticeable in the size of the average policy sold in the different Zones by the Corporation. The figures are given below (Rs.):

Northern Zone (Delhi): 4,531; Central Zone (Kanpur): 3,993; Western Zone (Bombay): 3,987; Eastern Zone (Calcutta): 3,667; Southern Zone (Madras): 3,266; In India: 3,747; Foreign: 11,969; All business: 3,805.

ACCOUNTS

The Life Fund stood at Rs. 495·29 crores on 31st December 1959, registering an increase of about Rs. 47·39 crores in 12 months. During this period, the Corporation's income from all sources totalled about Rs. 104 crores, made up of Rs. 85 crores from premiums (excluding consideration for annuities amounting to about Rs. 47 lakhs) and about Rs. 19 crores from returns on its invested funds.

The interest income of Rs. 19 crores represents earnings of 4·08% on the mean life fund after deducting income-tax. The rate of interest from 1952 is given below:

1952: 3·43; 1953: 3·50; 1954: 3·52; 1955: 3·56; 1957 (16 months ended 31st Dec.): 3·74; 1958: 3·52; 1959: 4·08.

On the outgo side Rs. 32 crores represented claims and other benefits to the policy-holders, Rs. 24 crores expenses of management, nearly Rs. 66 lakhs taxes and transfer to special reserves and the balance of nearly Rs. 47 crores addition to the Life Fund. On the claims side, nearly Rs. 7 crores represented claims by death and nearly Rs. 21 crores by maturity, annuities, surrender and bonuses in cash etc., accounting for the balance.

Out of the expenses of management amounting to Rs. 24 crores, Rs. 12 crores or 50% were spent in salaries and other benefits to the staff, nearly Rs. 8·1 crores or 33% commission and allowances for procuring business, including Rs. 5·2 lakhs compensation to special and chief agents, and the remaining 12% in miscellaneous items as rent, travelling expenses, Doctors' fees, printing and stationery, postage, Bank charges and the like. The overall expenses of management amounted to 28·7% of the premium income.

Over-all expense ratio: 1954, 29·4; 1955, 31·8: 1956 Jan. to Aug., 33·7; 1956-57 (1 months), 27·3; 1958; 29·2; and 1959: 28·7.

The renewal expense ratio in terms of Rule 25(b) of Insurance Rules 1939 was 12·92% as against 15·46% in 1958 and 15·89% in 1957.

INVESTMENTS

The total investments pertaining to life business as at 31st December 1959 amounted to Rs. 455·98 crores of which Rs. 12·23 crores were out of India. The break up of Indian investments is as follows:

Indian and State Government and other approved securities	Rs. 316·71 crores
Debentures and shares of Joint stock companies in India	„ 81·58 „
Loans to Housing Schemes —State Governments and Cooperative Finance ..	„ 5·30 „

House Property	„ 22·57 „
Due from State Governments for controlled business over..	„ 6·45 „
Other investments	„ 0·77 „
	Rs. 443·75 crores

On 31st December 1959, the Corporation held stock exchange securities aggregating nearly Rs. 410 crores, of which about Rs. 398 crores were in India and the balance outside India.

A broad classification of investments in India shows that 78·2% was invested in the public sector, and 21·8% in the private sector. Besides the loans issued by the Central and State Governments, investments in the public sector include loans, bonds, shares or debentures of municipalities, Improvement Trusts, Port Trusts, Land Mortgage Banks, State Financial Corporations, and Statutory Corporations. Investments in the private sector take the form of debentures, preference shares and ordinary shares of industrial and commercial undertakings.

Debentures, preference and ordinary shares of joint stock companies held by the Corporation may be classified as under according to the character of the industries (Rs. lakhs):

Banks: 298·52; Cement: 447·70; Chemicals: 176·06; Coal: 224·25; Coop. Housing Societies: 23·60; Cotton: 759·20; Electricity: 920·25; Engineering: 973·13; Insurance: 160·14; Investment Trust: 180·96; Iron & Steel: 683·64; Jute: 424·63; Managing Agents: 170·19; Mining: 64·54; Paper: 324·31; Plantations: 166·02; Railways: 68·59; Shipping: 166·31; Sugar: 179·45; Textiles (other than Cotton): 133·65; Vegetable Oil: 42·09; Miscellaneous: 1,576·57. Total: Rs. 81,57·80 lakhs.

Apart from investments in Government of India loans, in statutory corporations, in loans issued by the former Hyderabad Government, and foreign investments, stock exchange securities can be sorted State-wise as under:—

PERSONNEL, RURAL INSURANCE

On its formation, the Corporation took over about 21,000 employees, of whom 16,000 were in the clerical and supervisory cadre and 5,000 subordinate staff. On 31st December 1959, there were 37,341 employees of whom 1,479 were officers, 5,188 field officers, 24,652 supervisory and clerical staff and 6,022 subordinate staff. The total monthly salary bill in December 1959 was Rs. 86·88 lakhs.

Out of over 1·48 lakh agents on the books on 31st December 1959, about 94,000 were active.

The average production per active agent in 1959 was Rs. 44,435 as against Rs. 37,494 in 1958.

Permanent training centres have been opened at the headquarters of the five Zones to train development personnel on the professional aspects of sales and servicing. Other training centres at selected Divisional headquarters have also been opened.

Rural insurance in an intensified form has been undertaken in certain community development blocks of Rajasthan and Bihar. The scheme was extended to Assam, Andhra, Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh during 1959. The business secured from the rural areas has risen from 37% in 1957 to 38% in 1958 and to 43% in 1959. Out of the total business of Rs. 496 crores written in 1960, as much as 46% of the business has come from the rural areas of the country.

GENERAL INSURANCE

As at 31st December 1960 there were 166 companies registered under the Insurance Act, 1938 to transact one or more classes of general insurance business of which 88 were Indian and 78 non-Indian. The number of Indian insurers excludes the Life Insurance Corporation of India (which is registered for Life and Miscellaneous insurance business) but includes its four subsidiaries which conduct general insurance business. It also includes 12 insurers registered for Country Craft (marine) insurance business only and 7 non-tariff offices.

Of the 78 non-Indian offices, 62 have their head-offices in the U.K.

Since nationalisation of life insurance, 15 Indian and 23 non-Indian companies had closed down their general insurance business (Sept. 1960).

The total income and outgo in respect of the general insurance business of Indian insurers during 1959 is analysed below:

The Insurance (Amendment) Act, 1961.

The Insurance Act, 1938 was amended, early in 1961, by inserting Part IVA Reinsurance, Sections 101A and 101B. Section 101A provides that every insurance company operating in India must reinsure a certain percentage of its business (not exceeding 30%) with Indian reinsurance companies approved in this behalf by the Central Government. Section 101B provides for the constitution of an Advisory Committee consisting of five members having special knowledge and experience of the business of insurance, to advise the Government for fixing the percentages of reinsurance and distribution of these percentages among the approved reinsurers.

By various notifications, the Central Government has announced the names of the two approved Indian reinsurance companies, the names of the members of the Advisory Committee and the various percentages of the sum assured on each policy to be reinsured by every insurer in the two Indian reinsurers. The two approved reinsurers are: India Reinsurance Corporation Ltd., and Indian Guarantee & General Insurance Co. Ltd., both having their registered offices in Bombay.

OFFICIAL LANGUAGE PROBLEM

IN accordance with the provisions of Article 344 of the Constitution the President constituted a Commission to make recommendations on the progressive use of Hindi and restriction on the use of English and also on the languages to be used for communication between the Union and a State or between one State and another.

This Commission called, for short, Official Language Commission, submitted its report to the President on 31st July 1956, and was laid on the table of Parliament on August 12, 1957.

A summary of the report was given in the previous edition of the Directory as well as the background of the language controversy.

It may be mentioned that the Constitution requires that the recommendations of the Language Commission have to be examined by a Parliamentary Committee consisting of 30 members (20 from the Lok Sabha and 10 from the Rajya Sabha). The President will base his final order on the report of this Committee.

PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE

The 20 members to form the Committee from the Lok Sabha were elected on Sept. 12, 1957 and the 10 members from the Rajya Sabha on 11th September.

The Committee held its first meeting on 16th Nov. 1957 at which Pandit Govind Ballabh Pant was elected chairman.

The Committee held in all 26 meetings before finalizing its report, which was presented to Parliament on 22nd April 1959.

The names of the members of the Committee were given in the 1960-61 Directory.

A summary of the Committee's report is given in the Directory for 1959-60.

With the permission of the President the report was laid on the tables of the two Houses on April 22, 1959 and later discussed in Parliament.

The general sense of Parliament appeared to be, and this was reflected in a Government of India resolution on the subject, that while the date for the switch-over to Hindi as the principal language should be retained there should be a flexible approach in the matter of the discontinuance of the use of English — an approach that should take into account the views of the non-Hindi speaking areas. In effect this means that English would continue to be used along with Hindi though to a progressively diminishing extent, and there would be no dead-line.

Apart from permitting the use of English for official work at the Centre for an indefinite period, the Government of India resolution gives the States the option to address communications to the Government of India or other States in that language.

It also urges the provision of adequate facilities in schools and at the university-level for the continued study of English.

On the other hand, the resolution recommends that all judicial courts, up to the level of the High Court, should entertain applications in Hindi and generally provide facilities for transaction of work in this language to the extent possible.

Candidates appearing for examinations conducted by the Union Public Service Commission will have the option of answering question-papers in Hindi.

The resolution discusses in some detail the lines along which the various regional languages of the country should develop. In the interests of national unity, it urges that, as far as possible, these languages should come closer together, particularly in the matter of vocabulary. It praises in this context the work of the Sahitya Akademy.

PRESIDENT'S ORDER

The President then made his order published in a gazette notification of April 27, 1960.

The President broadly accepted the recommendations of the Parliamentary Committee on Official Language and the Government of India's resolution and directed that after 1965 Hindi with international numerals should be the principal official language and English should continue as an associate language. No restrictions are therefore to be imposed for the present on the use of English for any of the official purposes of the Union.

The President directed that the Home Ministry should take necessary action in consultation with the UPSC for the introduction of Hindi as "an alternative medium of examinations for recruitment to all-India services and higher Central services."

It has, however, been clarified that, "for the present, only an optional Hindi language paper may be introduced." Such candidates as are selected and have qualified in this paper may be exempted from passing the Hindi departmental test after recruitment.

It is directed that international numerals be adopted uniformly in all technical and statistical publications of the Government of India. A uniform basic policy should be adopted for the use of Devnagari numerals, in addition to international numerals, in the Hindi publications of the Central Ministries.

The President has accepted the recommendation that the functioning of the Supreme Court should eventually be in Hindi. But it is pointed out that this will "require appropriate action only when the time comes for the change-over."

In respect of the language of the High Courts, the President has urged that the Ministry of Law may undertake necessary legislation in their case to provide for the use "optionally of Hindi and other official languages of the States for the purposes of judgment, decrees and orders, with the previous consent of the President."

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

The Union Government should prepare and implement a plan of action for the progressive use of Hindi as the official language.

We give details of the President's order below.

Terminology

The main recommendations of the Commission which the Committee has accepted are: (i) in preparing the terminology clarity, precision and simplicity should be primarily aimed at; (ii) international terminology may be adopted or adapted in suitable cases; (iii) the maximum possible identity should be aimed at in evolving terminology for all Indian languages; and (iv) suitable arrangements should be made for co-ordinating the efforts made at the Centre and in the States for evolving terminology in Hindi and other Indian languages.

The Government of India have decided to set up a Standing Commission for Scientific and Technical Terminology for evolution of terms in scientific and technical subjects. The Chairman of the Commission will be Dr. D. S. Kothari and the Director of the Central Hindi Directorate will be the non-member Secretary.

Administrative Manual

In view of the need for ensuring a measure of uniformity in the language used in the translation of manuals and other procedural literature the Committee has accepted the recommendation of the Commission about the advisability of entrusting the work to a single agency.

The Ministry of Education may undertake the translation of all manuals and procedural literature other than statutory rules, regulations and orders.

The translation of statutory rules, regulations and orders is intimately connected with the work of translation of statutes and the Ministry of Law may take up this work. It should be the endeavour to secure in these translations maximum possible uniformity in terminology in all the Indian languages.

Training

In accordance with the opinion expressed by the Committee, in-service training in Hindi may be made obligatory for Central Government employees who are aged less than 45 years. This will not apply to employees below Class III grade, industrial establishments and work-charged staff.

In this scheme, no penalty should be imposed for failure to attain the prescribed standard by the due date. Facilities for Hindi training may continue to be provided free of cost to the trainees.

Necessary arrangements may be made by the Ministry of Home Affairs for the training of typists and stenographers employed under the Central Government in Hindi typewriting and stenography.

The Government of India have accepted the revised key-board for the Hindi typewriter suggested by the Hindi Typewriter and Teleprinter Committee, set up by the Government of India, under the chairmanship of Shri S. M. Aggarwal.

Propagation of Hindi

The Committee has agreed with the recommendation of the Commission that the responsibility for this work should now be sponsored officially. Where efficient voluntary organisations already exist, they may be aided financially and in other ways, and where such agencies do not exist, Government may set up the necessary organisation themselves.

The Ministry of Education may review the working of the existing arrangements for propagation of Hindi and take further action on the lines indicated by the Committee.

The Ministries of Education and Scientific Research and Cultural Affairs may, in collaboration, take steps to encourage studies and research in Indian linguistics, philosophy and literature as suggested by the Committee, and formulate necessary proposals for bringing the various Indian languages closer and for developing Hindi in accordance with the directive contained in Article 351.

Local Offices

In the opinion of the Committee, local offices of the Central Government departments should use Hindi for their internal working and the respective regional languages in their public dealings in the respective regions.

In formulating the plan for the progressive use of Hindi in addition to English in their local offices, the Central Government Departments should keep in view the need for providing facilities to the local public by making available to them forms and departmental literature for their use in the regional language in as large a measure as practicable.

In the opinion of the Committee, the staff structure of the administrative agencies and departments of the Central Government should be reviewed and decentralised on a regional basis, and the recruitment methods and qualifications may have to be revised suitably.

The suggestion may be accepted in principle, without introducing any domicile qualifications, in regard to categories of posts in local offices of which the incumbents are not ordinarily liable to transfer outside the region.

The Committee agrees with the recommendation of the Commission that the Union Government would be justified in prescribing a reasonable measure of knowledge of Hindi language as a qualification for entering services, provided a sufficiently long notice is given and the measure of linguistic ability prescribed is moderate, any deficiency being made good by further in-service training.

This recommendation may be applied for the present in regard to recruitment in the local offices of the Central Government departments in the Hindi-speaking areas only, and not in the local offices in non-Hindi-speaking areas.

All these directions will not apply to the offices under the Indian Audit and Accounts Department.

Training Establishments

The Committee has suggested that English may continue as the medium of instruction for training establishments such as the National Defence Academy but suitable steps may be taken to introduce Hindi as the medium for all or some of the purposes of instruction.

The Ministry of Defence may take suitable preparatory measures such as publication of instruction books, etc., in Hindi to facilitate its use as a medium of instruction, where feasible.

The Committee has suggested that English and Hindi should be the media of examination for entrance to training establishments with the option to candidates to select either with reference to all or any of the papers and an expert committee should be appointed to examine the practicability of introduction of regional languages as media without bringing in a quota system.

The Ministry of Defence may take necessary measures for introducing Hindi as an alternative medium for the entrance examination and for constituting an expert committee to examine the question of the introduction of regional languages as media without introducing any quota system.

Recruitment

The Committee's opinion is that (i) English may continue to be the medium of examination, and Hindi may be admitted as an alternative medium after some time, both Hindi and English being available thereafter as media at the option of the candidate for as long as necessary, and (ii) that an expert committee be appointed to examine the feasibility of introducing the various regional languages as media without bringing in any quota system.

Necessary action may be taken by the Ministry of Home Affairs in consultation with the Union Public Service Commission for the introduction of Hindi as an alternative medium after some time. The introduction of various regional languages also as alternative media is likely to lead to serious difficulties and it is not, therefore, necessary to appoint an expert committee to examine the feasibility of introducing regional languages as alternative media.

The Committee's opinion is that after due notice, there should be two compulsory papers of equal standard, one in Hindi, and another in a modern Indian language other than Hindi to be selected by the candidate.

For the present, only an optional Hindi language paper may be introduced. Candidates selected on the results of the competition who qualify in this paper may be exempted from appearing and passing at the Hindi departmental test after recruitment.

Numerals

As suggested by the Committee, a uniform basic policy should be adopted for the use of Devanagari numerals, in addition to the international numerals, in the Hindi publications of the Central Ministries depending upon the public intended to be addressed and the subject-matter of the publication. For scientific, technical and statistical publications, including the budget literature of the Central Government, the international numerals should be adopted uniformly in all publications.

Acts, Bills

The Committee has expressed the opinion that Parliamentary legislation may continue to be in English but an authorised translation should be provided in Hindi.

The Ministry of Law may, in due course, initiate necessary legislation to provide for an authorised Hindi translation of Parliamentary legislation which may continue to be in English. Arrangements may be made by the Ministry of Law also for providing translations of Parliamentary legislation into the regional languages.

The Committee has expressed the opinion that where the original text of Bills introduced in or Acts passed by the State legislature is in a language other than Hindi, a Hindi translation may be published with it besides an English translation as provided in clause (3) of article 348.

It is proposed to constitute a Standing Commission of Legal Experts for proper planning and implementation of the entire work relating to preparation of a standard legal terminology (for use, as far as possible, in all Indian languages) and translation of statutes in Hindi.

Nine States have passed State Language Bills and they are: Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pardesh, Bihar, Orissa, Assam, Madras, Gujarat, Rajasthan and Punjab.

Courts

The Official Language Commission recommended that so far as the language of the Supreme Court is concerned, Hindi eventually should be the language of the Supreme Court when the time comes for the change-over. The Committee has accepted this recommendation.

In regard to the language of the Hindi Courts, the Commission considered the pros and cons of the regional and Hindi languages and recommended that when the time for the change-over arrives, the language of judgments, decrees and orders of High Courts should be the Hindi language in all regions, but the Committee has expressed the opinion that in the High Courts provision may be made by introducing necessary legislation for the use optionally of Hindi and official languages of States for purposes of judgments, decrees and orders of High Courts with the previous consent of the President.

The opinion of the Committee regarding the functioning of the Supreme Court eventually in Hindi is acceptable in principle, and will require appropriate action only when the time comes for a change-over.

In respect of the language of the High Courts the Ministry of Law may in due course undertake necessary legislation to provide for the use optionally of Hindi and other official languages of States for purposes of judgments, decrees and orders with the previous consent of the President, as suggested by the Committee in modification of the recommendation of the Commission.

The Committee has agreed with the recommendations of the Commission relating to the preparation of a standard legal lexicon, re-enactment of the statute book in Hindi in respect of both Central and State legislation, plan of action for evolving a legal terminology and for taking other preparatory steps during the transitional period during which the statute book as well as the case law will be partially in Hindi and in English, and has also suggested the constitution of a Standing Commission or a similar high level body consisting of legal experts representing the different national languages of India for the proper planning and implementation of the entire programme relating to translation of statutes and preparation of legal terminology and glossaries. The Committee has also expressed the opinion that the State Governments might be advised to take necessary measures in consultation with the Central authorities.

The Ministry of Law may take action in the light of the suggestion of the Committee to constitute a Standing Commission of legal experts for the proper planning and implementation of the entire work relating to preparation of a standard legal terminology (for use, as far as possible, in all Indian languages) and translation of statutes in Hindi.

PROMOTION OF HINDI

Below we give a summary of the various steps taken to promote the use of Hindi.

There is a body called Hindi Shiksha Samiti appointed to assist and advise the Government of India on the development and propagation of Hindi.

A Central Hindi Directorate also exists in the Union Ministry of Education to promote and propagate Hindi.

The Directorate is responsible for the detailed execution of the decisions of Government with regard to evolution of terminology, propagation and development of Hindi, translation of foreign agreements, standard works and important Government publications, preparation of dictionaries and other works.

It is decided that institutions for training Hindi teachers should be set up in States if there is a demand either by State Governments or by voluntary agencies.

If there is a genuine demand for schools with Hindi as medium, applications for grants might also be considered by the State as well as the Centre, the latter to make up possible deficit.

A basic Hindi grammar is under preparation.

A basic Hindi vocabulary has been determined and published in 'Basic Hindi Vocabulary'.

The ten volume Hindi encyclopedia: This is entrusted to the Nagari Pracharini Sabha of Banaras. The total cost would be Rs. 6·5 lakhs. Upto March 1960, Rs. 1.7 lakhs were paid. The first volume with about 1,400 topics is in the press.

Technical Terminology:—The former Board of Scientific Terminology under which a number of expert committees were working has now been replaced by a Standing Commission on scientific and Technical Terminology and a Review and Co-ordination Committee for non-scientific and non-Technical subjects.

Up to 31st July 1961 about 2,93,099 terms in different subjects were evolved of which 1,47,050 were approved by the different Expert Committees and 40,893 were finally approved by the then Board of Scientific Terminology.

A Dictionary Unit exists in the Hindi Division of the Ministry of Education for preparing a dictionary of scientific and technical terms evolved by the Board.

Technical terms in the following subjects have been finalized and are available for sale from the Manager of Publications, Civil Lines, New Delhi:

Agriculture I and II, Botany, Chemistry I and II, Defence I, II and V, Diplomacy I, Economics, Commerce, Engineering, General Administration I, Mathematics I and II, Overseas Communications Service, Posts and Telegraphs (Designations), Physics, Social Science, Zoology, Tourism, Railways, Posts and Telegraphs (General Terms), Transport (High Engineering).

Final lists on the following subjects were in the press:

Education (General) I, Botany II, Medicine I, Information & Broad-casting.

Revised lists for the following were with the Board for approval:

Agriculture III, Botany III, Chemistry III, Defence VI, General Banking & Trade, History (Pre-History), Advanced Banking, P. & T. (General Banking), Transport VI, Zoology II.

The following lists were in circulation:

Chemistry IV, Defence VII, VIII, & IX, Diplomacy III & IV, Education (Education Psychology) I, II & III, Engineering II & III, General Meteorology, Information & Broadcasting, Law I, II and III, Mathematic III & IV, Medicine II (Part II), Medicine III (Part I), Physical Geography I and II, Steno Typing, Labour Economics, Medicine II (Part I), Physics II, Meteorology II, Advanced Economic theory and thought.

Standard manuals based on the terminology evolved are under preparation.

Hindi Typewriter:—The Govt. of India has finalised the key-board. The Ministry of Commerce & Industry will arrange for manufacture of Hindi Typewriters on the basis of the accepted key-board. The key-board for the Hindi Teleprinter will also be announced shortly.

The work of carrying out morphophonemic analysis of Hindi and various regional languages for short-band was expected to be completed by the end of 1960. Thereafter the matter will be placed before the Hindi Shorthand Committee.

The Government of India have decided to initiate a project of translation and preparation of standard source and text books on sciences, technology and humanities through academic agencies.

This work will be financed wholly by the Government of India and will be entrusted to the academic bodies of the State Governments and to universities. The selection of books and supervision of their translation or preparation would be done by a committee of experts belonging to appropriate scientific and technical fields.

The terms approved by the Government of India will be compulsorily used in these works.

The special feature of the scheme is that sale proceeds of the published works would be ploughed back for continued production and publication of more such books. It will be stipulated that the language used in the proposed translations will be, as far as possible, natural and simple and the style consistent with the requirements of the subject.

Two hundred titles have already been selected for translation into Hindi to mark the initial phase towards the implementation of this scheme.

The Government of India have also appointed a sub-committee of experts to ensure systematic execution of this project in all its detail.

Other measures for the promotion of Hindi include:

The publication of revised and critical editions of standard Hindi works now out-of-print, of omnibus volumes of the works of eminent Hindi writers, visits of debating teams of schools and colleges from non-Hindi areas to Hindi areas, lecture tours of prominent Hindi speakers in non-Hindi areas, prizes for Hindi books of outstanding merit, preparation of histories of sciences, encyclopedia of Hindu mythology, dictionary of Indian phrases and fables.

The Union Ministry of Education have formulated a scheme for the free supply of suitable Hindi books to school libraries in non-Hindi speaking States where Hindi is taught either as a compulsory or as an optional subject.

The Central Government has indicated some more steps to introduce progressively Hindi in addition to English for the official purposes of the Union.

As far as possible, by the beginning of March 1962, all Hindi letters are to be replied in Hindi and, by the end of 1963-64, Hindi is to be used in addition to English generally for correspondence with those States which have adopted Hindi as their official language.

Government resolutions hereafter will issue in Hindi as well.

Bihar is the Hindi-speaking State to have taken a firm decision to switch over to Hindi in all State departments with effect from Jan. 1, 1960.

HINDI EXAMINATIONS

Over 60,000 employees of the Government of India have learnt Hindi in the classes started by the Centre at 56 places in the country. There were in July 1960, 85 centres in the country to offer instruction to as many as 20,000 employees.

The Hindi Teaching Scheme worked by the Union Home Ministry is expected to cover more than three lakh employees by 1961-62.

Employees are offered three courses—Prabhodh, Praveen and Pragya—each one lasting for nine months. The medium of instruction is English.

Prabhodh, the first or elementary course, is intended for those who speak a south Indian language or English. Praveen, that is the second or middle course, is meant for those whose mother tongue is either Marathi, Gujarati, Bengali, Assamese, or other allied languages. Pragya, which is of the standard of Matriculation, is for those whose mother tongue is Punjabi, Urdu, Kashmiri, Sindhi, Pushtu or other allied languages.

Since the aim of the Government's schemes is to enable people to pass the various tests quickly, the Government employees are permitted to take the tests without joining the classes.

To encourage more employees to learn Hindi, Government grants cash awards on the result of each test in the order of merit and entries are made in service books.

On the recommendation of the Hindi Shiksha Samiti the Government of India have recognised, for purposes of employment under them, the undermentioned Hindi Examinations conducted by certain organisations (April 1960):—

Hindi Sahitya Sammelan, Allahabad: Prathma Madhyama (Visharad), Uttama (Sahitya Ratna).

Rashtrabhasha Prachar Samiti, Wardha: Parichaya, Kovid, Ratna.

Prayag Mahila Vidyapith, Allahabad: Vidushi, Saraswati.

Hindi Vidyapith, Deoghar: Praveshika, Sahityabhushan, Sahityalankar.

Travancore Hindi Prachar Sabha, Trivandrum: Pravesh, Bhooshan.

Assam Rashtrabhasha Prachar Samiti, Gauhati: Prabodh, Visharad.

Hindi Prachar Sabha, Hyderabad: Visharad, Bhushan, Vidwan.

Bombay Hindi Vidyapith: Uttama, Bhasha Ratna, Sahitya Sudhakar.

Maharashtra Rashtrabhasha Sabha, Poona: Prabodh, Pravin, Pandit.

Akhil Bharatiya Hindi Parishad, Agra: Parangat.

Manipur Hindi Parishad, Imphal: Prabodh, Visharad.

Mysore Hindi Prachar Parishat, Bangalore: Pravesh, Uttama, Ratna.

Gujrat Vidyapith, Ahmedabad: Tisri, Vinit, Sevak.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Dakshin Bharat Hindi Prachar Sabha, Madras: Praveshika, Visharad, Praveen.

Hindustani Prachar Sabha, Bombay: Qabil, Vidwan.

REGIONAL LANGUAGES

Central grants are made to States and private institutions under the Union Scientific and Cultural Affairs Ministry's scheme for the development of modern Indian languages.

The purpose is to provide for, among other things, the preparation and publication of encyclopaedias and old manuscripts, rare books, bilingual dictionaries, popular books on science and culture, works bringing out similarities among different Indian languages on points of grammar, syntax or specialised vocabulary and for literary conferences.

The total allocation for the scheme for 1960-61 was Rs. 7·7 lakhs.

The State-wise allocations in rupees were: Andhra Pradesh 83,370; Assam 58,900; Gujarat 28,000; Kerala 24,900; Madras 2,34,942; Maharashtra 1,17,733; Mysore 83,050; Orissa 8,310; Punjab 35,293; Rajasthan 12,000; Uttar Pradesh 5,000; West Bengal 14,101 and Delhi 12,810.

The distribution on language-wise basis in rupees was: Assamese 58,900; Bengali 14,100; English 20,710; Gujarati 38,621; Kannada 90,200; Malayalam 74,900; Marathi 1,20,737; Oriya 8,310; Punjabi 35,293; Sindhi 12,000; Tamil 1,70,442; Telugu 81,095; Urdu 43,100.

Hindi and Sanskrit are not included in the programme as their development is undertaken by the Union Ministry of Education through a separate scheme.

Under the scheme of development of modern Indian languages each State Government could develop any language and not confine itself only to those languages prevailing in its area. Further, all institutions in a State, engaged in the development of a modern Indian language, other than Hindi, will be eligible for assistance although that language be not the regional language of the State.

Generally, the Centre shares 50 per cent of the expenditure incurred by the State Governments or institutions on approved scheme. In special cases, however, a cent per cent grant is permissible.

State Governments may also recommend grants to private learned institutions engaged in language development work. In such cases the grants by the Centre equal the assistance given by the State Governments.

PETROLEUM INDUSTRY

PETROLEUM consists of mixtures of hydrocarbons which are in liquid, solid or gaseous forms. Very frequently these three forms are found together but in completely different proportions in different localities. In addition, all natural crudes contain small quantities of compounds containing sulphur, nitrogen or other elements.

Because of the varying mixtures of hydrocarbons, crude oils from different sources differ widely. Thus, from some crude oils sufficient lubricating oils and waxes may be obtained while others may yield insignificant quantities of wax but huge quantities of asphaltic bitumen.

Crude oil may be divided, very broadly, into three classes:—

(1) Paraffin Base Crudes: They usually give substantial yields of paraffin wax and lubricating oils, e.g. Assam Crudes. (2) Asphaltic Base Crude: This type of crude contains little or no paraffin but asphaltic matter in large proportions, e.g. crudes from Venezuela. (3) Mixed Base Crudes: Contain both paraffin wax and asphaltic matter in quantity, e.g. crudes from the East Indies.

Crude Oil is processed in a unit called a refinery to make it yield its various components. There are hundreds of products manufactured from crude oil. In fact, today, there is hardly an industry which does not use some kind of petroleum product. To list here a few products:—

Kerosine is used as illuminant and cooking fuel. Motor Spirit and Aviation Spirit are used as fuel by automobiles and aeroplanes respectively. High Speed Diesel Oil is used by trucks and buses as fuel as the diesel engines require less volatile fuel. Furnace Oil is used in factories and textile mills as under-boiler fuel and for steam raising. Mineral Turpentine is used as base in paints and varnishes. Wax is used for manufacturing candles. Lubricants are used for lubricating machines. Bitumen is used in road-making, insulation purposes. Chemicals are used for industrial, agricultural purposes.

Demand for petroleum products in India has been steadily growing with the years. Between the years 1948 and 1960, the total inland demand excluding refinery fuel has increased from 2·24 million tons to 7·1 million metric tons, representing an annual average growth rate of 10 per cent. By 1966, it is expected that demand will be in the region of 13·9 million metric tons representing an annual growth rate of 12 per cent during the Third Plan period.

All major petroleum products have been showing a rise in consumption over the years with the exception of motor spirit for which demand declined during 1957 and 1958, but since then there has been a substantial increase in domestic consumption. In 1960 the consumption rose to 7·5 million tons. Nevertheless, there are significant differences in the rate at which growth is taking place in the consumption of individual products. Most marked increases have taken place in kerosene and diesel oils constituting what is known as the 'distillate' group.

With the growth in India's economy and rapid industrialisation, set in motion by the various five-year plans, oil consumption has steadily grown but compared with other countries the per capita consumption is still very low. The figures given below are for 1959 in imperial gallons:

U.S.A. 630, Canada 538, Sweden 364, Australia 223, Argentina 146, U.K., 165, Japan 52, Ceylon 14, India 4.

It is interesting to observe that the more petroleum products a country consumes per head of population, the more prosperous that country tends to be.

India's current production of crude oil from the Digboi area in Assam is 400,000 tons per year which is just sufficient to meet 5·71 per cent of her present requirements of petroleum products. To meet increasing demand, India therefore imported in 1960 crude oil and other petroleum products worth Rs. 98·3 crores.

The total investment in the petroleum industry in 1958 was estimated at Rs. 244 crores out of which Rs. 214 crores is foreign investment.

India's annual oil bill in foreign exchange is of the order of Rs. 100 crores and this may well increase to Rs. 150—200 crores during the Third Plan.

Today, the refining capacity available in the country is a little over 6 million tons which is entirely in the private sector. However, taking into account the estimated oil production from Assam and Gujarat and our capacity to expand the public sector refineries it is possible that total refining capacity may reach about 12 million tons roughly half of which could be based on imported crude and the rest on indigenous.

REFINERIES

The Digboi Refinery of the Assam Oil Company is as yet the only producer of finished products making use of indigenous petroleum crude.

Commissioned in 1899, the Digboi Refinery was the only refinery in India till 1954. A new gasoline plant and a new lubricating oil distillation unit were added to the refinery in 1954, at a total cost of Rs. 585 lakhs. In 1960 the refinery produced a total of 331,896 tons of finished products.

As a result of agreements between the Government of India and the oil companies concerned, Burmah-Shell and Stanvac set up refineries at Trombay (near Bombay) while the Caltex Refinery was established at Visakhapatnam. The Stanvac Refinery which has an annual capacity of about 1·8 million tons went into production in July 1954 while the Burmah-Shell Refinery, with a capacity of over 2·6 million tons, went on stream in January 1955. The Caltex Refinery started refining operations in May 1957. Its capacity is about 0·8 million tons.

Thus, during the first Five-Year Plan period, with the establishment of the Burmah-Shell and Stanvac Refineries, the installed capacity for the refining of crude increased by 3·2 million tons.

During the Second Plan the capacity of these two refineries has increased by one million tons, and the Caltex refinery with a capacity of 0·8 million tons came on stream.

BURMAH-SHELL REFINERIES LTD.

Burmah-Shell Refineries Ltd. was incorporated in India on 3rd November 1952, for the purpose of constructing and operating a petroleum oil refinery on a 450-acre plot of land in south-west Trombay—near Bombay.

The Refinery commenced operations on January 30, 1955.

The crude oil intake of the Refinery is about 2·8 million tons per annum; the crude oil comes from the Persian Gulf area.

The refinery manufactures motor spirit, kerosene, high speed diesel oil, light diesel oil, furnace oil, bitumen and liquid petroleum gas.

The total cost of the refinery was about Rs. 26 crores, and the total labour staff employed in the refinery including all categories is about 1,900.

Residential quarters for key operating staff have been provided at a short distance from the refinery, and in addition, Burmah-Shell Refineries Ltd., have paid Rs. 40 lakhs to the Bombay Government for the provision of houses for Refinery labour employees and their families in the Chembur-Ghatkopar area.

Burmah-Shell Refineries Ltd., have also provided a 10-acre recreation ground for their staff and labour employees.

CALTEX OIL REFINERY

The Caltex Oil Refinery, costing Rs. 15 crores, went into full operation in 1957 at Visakhapatnam. The products include petrol, kerosene, diesel oil and fuel oils from the Refinery's flexible two-stage crude oil distillation unit, the fluid catalytic cracking unit with gas recovery facilities, the polymer plant, the propane decarbonisation unit and treating and blending plants.

About 9,000 construction workers were employed at the site during peak period, and in operation the Refinery now has a permanent staff of about 500. It took two years to build.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

The Visakhapatnam Refinery, is one of the most modern and efficient refineries. The Refinery occupies an area as large as 515 acres, and this relaxed setting, a feature unique among Indian Refineries, makes for beauty and work comfort, besides providing scope for future expansion.

The Refinery treats crude oils both from the Middle East and Indonesia, the latter, introduced for the first time to India, having special properties. It helps to realize some of India's technological goals by meeting the specific demands of the market for petroleum products such as low-sulphur fuel, so important to the country's fast-growing steel and other industrial plants.

Extensive technical training in refinery operations were given to all Indian personnel. A number of Indians spent from three to six months' training at the Caltex Refinery, Batangas, in the Philippines. Today, key Indian personnel are sent to the United States on scheduled training programmes.

STANVAC REFINERY

The Standard-Vacuum Refining Co. of India Ltd. started construction of the refinery in December 1952 and production started in July 1954.

The refinery which is situated on Trombay Island near Bombay cost about Rs. 17·5 crores. It employs a staff of about 640, and has a designed output of 38,000 barrels (5,100 long tons) a day—about 485 million gallons (1,850,000 long tons) a year.

Generally speaking, the refinery will meet about 25 per cent of the country's needs.

Initially, the refinery was designed to process 25,000 barrels a day of crude from the Middle East. In the first half of 1959, the work on the planned expansion programme was completed. This programme included steps for increasing refinery crude processing capacity as well as for manufacturing new products such as Bitumen and Jute Batching Oil.

The Refinery started production of liquefied petroleum gas in 1958 and this is being distributed in cylinders for domestic use. Bitumen is being produced in the refinery from July 1959. Besides these products, the Refinery has plans to produce other speciality products to meet the growing needs of the country and save additional foreign exchange.

The Stanvac Refinery in Bombay has earned foreign exchange of over Rs. 19 crores through the export of motor spirit and fuel oil during the six years of its operation.

The total net saving and earnings of foreign exchange, after paying for crude imports etc., from the time the Refinery went into operation in 1954 up to the end of 1959, were more than Rs. 7·92 crores and during 1960 alone about Rs. 5·65 crores.

Negotiations are in progress with the Government for the sale of refinery gases for the manufacture of fertilisers at a projected plant nearby in Trombay.

PUBLIC SECTOR REFINERIES

Two refineries are being set up in the public sector, one at Nunmati in Assam with a 750,000 ton capacity and the other at Barauni in Bihar with a capacity of about 2 million tons. Both the refineries are designed for maximum kerosene production.

In October 1958, an agreement was concluded between the Government of India and the Rumanian People's Government for setting up the first refinery in the public sector, in Assam, at an estimated cost of about Rs. 12 crores. A suitable site has been selected at Nunmati near Gauhati, and the refinery will go on stream on the first of January 1962. It is understood that the Rumanian Government has offered a long-term credit of Rs. 5·24 crores, and technical assistance.

The Rumanian credit will cover the cost of the plant, supplies and technical services. It will bear an interest of 2½ per cent per annum. Fifteen per cent of the credit will be repayable in six instalments between the signing of the agreement and the commissioning of the refinery.

The balance of 85 per cent of the credit will be repayable in 10 instalments between December, 1961 and December, 1965.

The Rumanian Government will, as far as possible, buy Indian goods against its credit. The balance of credit not thus utilised will, however, be made convertible after April 1, 1961, but not earlier.

Under the Indo-Rumanian agreement, the Rumanian Government has undertaken to design the refinery, supply equipment and materials, provide the necessary technical assistance in construction and erection, train Indian technicians in designing, erecting and operating the refinery in Rumania, and put the refinery into operation.

The Indian Government, on its part will be responsible for selecting the refinery site, collecting the necessary data, furnishing all facilities for construction, materials, storage, transportation and drawing up the contract. It will also be responsible for the construction and erection of the refinery with the assistance and under the supervision of Rumanian engineers.

A second refinery of 2-million ton capacity is to be set up in the public sector near Barauni in Bihar with the Co-operation of the Soviet Union. Under the terms of the agreement, which was signed in September 1959, the Soviet Union will supply the entire equipment for the refinery and will be responsible for its installation. It will also provide the necessary technical skill and undertake to train Indians to take over the refinery from Russian technicians as early as possible. It is expected to be ready by mid 1962.

On the financial side, the Soviet Government has agreed to extend a long-term credit of about Rs. 12 crores for repayment in 12 equal annual instalments and carrying an interest of 2½ per cent.

A Government-owned and Government managed private limited company—Indian Refineries Limited—was incorporated on August 20, 1958, to control and manage the two proposed refineries. Its total authorised capital is Rs. 30 crores.

These refineries will be fed with crude oil from the Nahorkatiya oil-wells.

Work on the 720-mile pipeline from the Upper Assam oilfields of Oil India Private Limited to the two Government refineries at Nunmati in Assam and Barauni in Bihar has begun (Feb. 1961).

The pipeline is to be built in two stages. The first of 270 miles, as far as Nunmati, is scheduled to be completed by November 1961. The second stage of 450 miles to Barauni in the second half of 1962.

The pipeline from the oilfields to Nunmati will be of 16-inch diameter and from Nunmati to Barauni of 14-inch diameter. It is intended to convey 2·75 million tons of crude oil per year from the Nahorkatiya oilfields to Nunmati and two million tons from Nunmati to Barauni. It has, however, been designed to be able to carry, as and when required, four million tons.

The construction agency appointed by Oil India is the Burmah Oil Company (Pipelines) Limited and the main contractors are Mannesmann and Saipem, a German-Italian combine, with long experience of this type of work.

The entire 720-mile pipe line project is estimated to cost approximately Rs. 41·36 crores.

Gujarat Refinery: The proposed refinery in Gujarat will start by the end of 1963 or even earlier. Its capacity may be 1½ million to 3 million tons, depending on the oil potential in Gujarat which will be fully known by the end of 1961. The Oil and Natural Gas Commission has selected Koyali, 10 miles from Baroda main town and near Bajwa railway station for location of the refinery.

The first public sector refinery at Nunmati which will be on stream by the end of 1961, would have an annual production of approximately 40,000 tons of green petroleum coke.

OIL EXPLORATION AND POLICY

At present oil exp oration is conducted by three agencies: The Assam Oil Company, The Oil India Ltd., and the Oil and Natural Gas Commission. The fourth agency the Indo-Stanvac Project have abandoned their efforts. They were operating only in West Bengal.

Nearly 4,00,000 square miles comprising parts of the Punjab, Ganga Valley, Assam, West Bengal, Gujarat, Kutch, Rajasthan and the East and West Coasts, are considered as areas deserving exploration for petroleum.

The first two agencies operate in Assam, and the Oil Commission in the Punjab, H.P., Jammu, U.P., Rajasthan, Cambay and Kutch.

At Jwalamukhi there is a technical school conducted by Government for training in drilling which trains batches of 20 at a time.

Assam Oil Company: India's first oil-well, 102 feet deep, was drilled with a steam-powered drill, near an oil seepage at Nahar Pong in Assam in 1866. It failed to strike oil. But on 26th March 1867, oil was struck at 118 feet at Makum. A few more wells were dug but not much was done for the next twenty years.

Assam Railway and Trading Company were the pioneers in the field of exploration. Between 1890 and 1893 they drilled 4 wells varying in depth from 662 feet to 910 feet. They obtained a concession from the Government to search for oil.

Another company, Assam Oil Syndicate, also obtained a similar concession. Both the companies met with a fair measure of success. By 1898, 15 wells were dug and the crude was refined at Margherita where a small refinery was set up.

The two companies then merged and formed the Assam Oil Company. A refinery was built at Digboi with a capacity of 17,000/20,000 gallons a day.

By 1920, the Assam Oil Company completed about 80 wells. Production reached 14,000 gallons a day. Burmah Oil Company, which had achieved considerable success in Burma, now took over control of the Assam Oil Company and re-equipped Digboi with modern machinery. By 1925, well No. 125, the first large well, was drilled. Production reached 4,500 barrels a day in 1931. Assam Oil Company has drilled nearly 1,000 wells so far out of which nearly 600 are in operation now.

The first gravity survey for sub-alluvial oil prospects in India was carried out by the Assam Oil Company in Nahorkatiya in 1925, long before oilfields had been discovered by such methods anywhere in the world. Seismic survey was carried out in the area in 1938-39, but drilling operations could be undertaken only in 1952. A year later oil was struck at the first well at 11,715 feet.

To advise on the use of natural gas at Nahorkatiya an Italian firm of consultants has been appointed.

Producer wells in Nahorkatiya led to an intensive programme of geophysical surveys over the entire alluvial area of Upper Assam and in March 1956 drilling operations started in Moran. The test well struck oil in September 1956 at 13,739 feet more than 2½ miles.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Till the end of January 1961, 86 wells had been drilled in the Nahorkatiya-Moran region, of which 68 were oil producers, 12 have turned out to be dry, while another 6 were still under test.

It is estimated that the Nahorkatiya and Moran oilfields can support a production of 2½ million tons per year and the development of the resources discovered in this area has now been taken over by Oil India Limited, a partnership between the Government of India and the Burmah Oil Company. The reserves of crude oil in Assam are estimated at 42·5 million tons. They will meet about 40 per cent of India's present requirements of about six million tons.

Oil India Private Ltd., a partnership between the Government of India and the Burmah Oil Company, was registered on February 18, 1959, in Shillong, as a Rupee Company. The headquarters of the Company is at Digboi.

Oil India has an authorised capital of Rs. 50 crores, divided into 500,000 shares of Rs. 1,000 each. Two-thirds of the share capital will be provided by the Burmah Oil Company and one-third by the Government.

This Rupee Company took over the assets of the Assam Oil Company in the Nahorkatiya, Hoogrijan and Moran areas. It will explore and exploit oil resources in the above areas. It will deliver crude oil to the two refineries to be set up in the public sector, one in Assam and the other at Barauni in Bihar. It will undertake the construction of a pipeline in two stages and its operation or such other related facilities as may be considered necessary for the transportation of crude oil up to the two refineries. Burmah Oil Company have advanced a sterling loan to the extent of £10 million to meet the foreign exchange content of the cost of the first stage of construction of the pipeline.

Besides, the British Government have granted a loan of £3 million towards pipeline construction.

Oil India has thus taken over the 48 wells that have already been drilled by Assam Oil Company. Out of these, 8 have proved to be unsuccessful and seven are to be further tested. Thirty-two wells have so far proved successful. The average depth of a well is about 10,614 feet. According to the appraisals made at the end of 1957, the proved possible reserves in this area amount to about 42 million tons.

The oil exploration work in the Andamans has revealed interesting prospects. (March 1961). The geological survey in the middle Andamans has revealed some structures which called for more work. As soon as it was completed, it was proposed to extend oil exploration in the region.

An agreement has been signed between the Government of India and the Burmah Oil Co. Ltd. covering the grant to Oil India Ltd. of approximately 1,800 sq. miles for further oil prospecting in North East Assam.

Another oilfield of substantial size has been discovered near about the small town of Kalol, 15 miles north of Ahmedabad and 80 miles from Cambay. According to official sources Gandhinagar area is likely to prove to be one of the richest oilfields in India.

The Governments of India and Gujarat would be partners in the proposed refinery to be set up in the public sector near Baroda in Gujarat. The Gujarat refinery, according to the present plans, will have a capacity of two million tons.

The Gauhati oil refinery moved a step towards commissioning on Aug. 8, 1961 with the arrival of the first train-load of crude oil from Nahorkatiya. The first ten tons of crude oil from the Ankleshwar oilfield in Gujarat State was produced on Aug. 15, 1961, Independence Day, which also marked the fifth anniversary of the Oil and Natural Gas Commission.

The production had been started ahead of schedule by nearly two months.

The daily production was to be stored at the field till the beginning of September when the first consignment of 200 tons was expected to leave for the Burmah-Shell refinery at Bombay. The supply would be stepped up to 1,500 tons a day from January 1, 1962.

Out of the 15 wells drilled in Ankleshwar, 13 were oil producing and two were dry.

The three public sector undertakings in oil have jointly set up an information bureau called the Petroleum Information Service, temporarily located as the office of the Indian Refineries Ltd., State Bank Building, Parliament Street, New Delhi. The bureau will disseminate information regarding these public sector undertakings.

OIL AND NATURAL GAS COMMISSION

The Oil & Natural Gas Commission was formed in May 1956 and functioned as a Government department till 1959 when it was converted into a statutory organisation. In the interests of efficient and expeditious progress, the Oil and Natural Gas Commission, of which the Minister for Oil is chairman, has its headquarters in Dehra Dun. About 2,000 persons are employed on its staff. The Commission has three Directorates—Geology, Geophysics and Engineering.

Survey work has been undertaken by the Commission in various parts of the country: Jwalamukhi, Janauri, Hoshiarpur in the Punjab; the Cambay and Ankleshwar areas of Gujarat; Sibsagar in Assam; various districts in U.P.; around Jailsalmer in Rajasthan; the Cauvery basin in Madras; the Muslgarh anticline in Jammu.

Of these regions, drilling is in progress in Cambay, Ankleshwar, Sibsagar, Jwalamukhi, Hoshiarpur, Janauri and Rudrasagar. In the first two of these areas, oil is reported to have been found in commercially exploitable quantities. The Cambay region is estimated to yield 50 crore tons of oil. Though oil has been found in the first test well at Rudrasagar in Assam it is too early to assess the reserves there or to come to a conclusion about the feasibility of the commercial exploitation of the field. The Commission proposes to start trial production of crude oil at the rate of approximately 1,500 tons per day from Ankleshwar oilfield only towards the end of 1961.

DISTRIBUTION

Distribution is that stage of the petroleum industry when refined products leave the refinery on their way to the customer. Inland distribution is a very big undertaking in this country. Nearly 7·1 million tons of petroleum products are now distributed annually.

Up to 1954, the petroleum products obtainable from the only indigenous source Digboi Refinery —were absorbed in Assam and part of North India. The rest of the country's requirements were imported and distributed by Burmah-Shell, Stanvac, Caltex, Indo-Burma Petroleum Company and Western India Oil Distributing Company.

With the commissioning of the two refineries in Bombay in 1954-55 and the one in Visakhapatnam in 1957 the pattern of distribution changed. Large quantities of crude are imported into Bombay and Visakhapatnam and the refined products are distributed throughout the length and breadth of the country.

Currently, refineries in India have made the country self-sufficient in most petroleum products. The exceptions are kerosene and lubricants in particular which have to be imported to meet the growing demand. On the other hand, light distilled spirit is in excess of demand and some 174,166 tons were exported during the nine months ended December 1960.

The distribution network consists of a number of large storage points called 'Installations' situated at main ports. Installations receive supplies from the refineries or direct imports from overseas. From the Installations supplies move to the interior by rail to be stored at smaller storage points called 'Depots' scattered all over the country. These Depots in turn feed the surrounding areas.

A new company has been formed in the public sector to undertake marketing and distribution of petroleum products. Registered in June 1959 it is called the Indian Oil Company, and has its headquarters in Bombay. The authorised capital of the new company is Rs. 12 crores.

A joint committee of the Government and representatives of the private oil industry has been set up by the Government of India to study problems of supply, distribution and future demand in relation to indigenous production and refining capacity. In this way, machinery has been set up for close and continuous consultation between the private and public sectors on matters of common interest. Representatives from the Ministries of Railways, Transport, Finance, Commerce and Industry, and the Planning Commission are also associated with the working of this committee.

In May 1960 it was announced that Government proposed to import a large quantity of oil at cheaper rates from various oil-producing countries and to replace the present monopoly system of distribution by either cooperatives or in association with private companies.

The Government-owned Indian Oil Company (I.O.C.) had imported till the end of July 1961 122,814,177 litres (98,215 tonnes or over 27 million gallons) of vital refined petroleum products from the U.S.S.R. since it began its import operations in August 1960.

The I.O.C. received on 5th July 1961 its ninth shipment of top-quality Soviet oil products (the first shipment was unloaded in Bombay on August 17, 1960). Consisting of 13,639,052 litres (over 30 lakhs of gallons) of the "world's finest quality" oil products (over 10 million litres of superior kerosene and over three million litres of high speed diesel oil).

The public sector's nationwide oil marketing organisation—has upto end of July 1961 received over 84 million litres (66,150 tonnes) of superior kerosene and over 38 million litres (32,065 tonnes) of high speed diesel oil in nine shipments from the Soviet Union. Payment for these imports are being made in non-convertible Indian rupees only, thereby conserving valuable foreign exchange.

The total quantity to be imported by the Indian Oil Company Ltd. against the recent agreement entered into with Soviet Export Organisation was 1.5 million metric tons during a period of four years.

Depots have been set up by the Indian Oil Company at several places in the country. Within five months from March 1961, the I.O.C. was expecting to have 35 huge storage depots in 12 States to store superior kerosene, high-speed diesel oil, aviation turbine fuel and furnace oil.

In October 1959, the Oil Companies agreed to a further reduction in the prices of petroleum products amounting roughly to Rs. 15 crores a year with effect from November 1, 1959. This reduction is in addition to the annual reduction of Rs. 10 crores that had been agreed to by them in 1958.

In addition to these Rs. 15 crores per annum, there was a further reduction of Rs. 4 crores a year due to a drop in the landed cost of the oil, assuming that there was no further upward or downward movement in the landed cost.

The latest reduction was made on an ad hoc basis, and the present arrangement was to remain in force till March 1961.

These price reductions have been absorbed by the Government through the levy of additional duties. Consequently the benefit of the reductions was not passed on to the consumer.

A committee has been set up under the auspices of the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research to consider ways and means of expanding research and training facilities and setting up an Institute of Petroleum Technology.

POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS

At the head of the Department is the Director-General, who is assisted by a Posts and Telegraphs Board of which he is Chairman.

The Department is responsible for the postal, telegraph, telephone and wireless communications of the country.

For purposes of administration, the country has been divided into 13 territorial units, 12 of which are P. & T. Circles, viz., Andhra, Bihar, Bombay, Central, Madras, Punjab, U.P. and West Bengal under Postmaster-General; Assam, Mysore, Orissa, Rajasthan under Directors of Posts and Telegraphs, besides a Postal Circle at Delhi under a Director of Postal Services.

Four Telephone Districts have been set up in the cities of Calcutta, Bombay, Madras and Delhi. In the case of Delhi the General Manager, Delhi Telephone District is also in-charge of the Departmental Telegraph Offices in Delhi and New Delhi.

In addition to these, administrative units on a functional basis have also been set up viz. Additional Chief Engineer, P. & T., Jabalpur; General Manager, P. & T. Workshops, Calcutta; Chief Controller of Telegraph Stores, Calcutta; Deputy Director of Postal Life Insurance, Calcutta; Superintendent, Forms Stores and Seals, Aligarh; Superintendent, Forms Stores, Calcutta; and Superintendent, Forms Stores, Nasik Road and Director, Electrification Circle.

The posts and telegraphs services provide employment to nearly 3.4 lakh people including extra-departmental employees.

Budget Estimates

The revised estimates for 1960-61: gross receipts: Rs. 76·90 crores; working expenses: Rs. 65·58 crores; Balance 11·32 crores.

1961-62 Budget: gross receipts: Rs. 81·00 crores; expenses: Rs. 69·43 crores.

The accumulated surplus on 1st April 1960: Rs. 29·59 crores. The total interest-bearing capital outlay: Rs. 129·79 crores.

Staff: 363,162 (including 120,724 extra departmental employees) and 1,687 Gazetted Officers (as on 31st March 1961).

Traffic Statistics (1960-61 estimates): total number of postal articles handled: 405.4 crores; no. of registered articles handled: 11·70 crores; no. of money orders issued (inland and foreign) 7.89 crores; value of money orders issued: Rs. 326.68 crores; no. of savings bank transactions: 3.30 crores; no. of telegrams: 3.99 crores; no. of telephone connections 512,000; no. of trunk calls: 3.26 crores.

The no. of complaints received during 1960 was 525,593 and of those finally disposed of was 523,457.

Hindi: Efforts continue for the propagation of Hindi. The P. & T. Staff have been allowed to join the Ministry of Home Affairs Hindi classes. More than a thousand officials have so far learnt Hindi through classes and another 2,000 officials are attending these classes. Thirty-five night schools function at present where about 450 officials have since learnt Hindi and another 300 officials are at present in these schools to learn Hindi. Facilities for booking and transmitting telegrams in Hindi and all other modern languages if writen in Devanagari characters have been extended to about 1,820 offices in the country as on December 31, 1960.

Metric System: Accounts have been maintained in the Telephone branch in the decimal system since 1st April 1958. The metric system of weight and measures has been introduced on the Engineering side on a limited scale with effect from 1st April 1959. Metric System has been introduced in the Postal Branch of the department from February 1, 1961.

TELEGRAPHS

The total no. of telegraph offices in the country was 6,304 on 31st Dec. 1960. This excludes the licensed telegraph offices worked by the Railways and Canals. The number of offices opened from April 1 to Dec. 31, 1960 was 139.

The channel mileage of voice frequency telegraph systems in use has increased from 3,83,552 miles to 3,88,768 miles during 1960-61.

The Telex system works to its full capacity. Now it is working between Bombay and Ahmedabad only. It has been proposed to expand the capacity and also to introduce the service in New Delhi, Calcutta and Madras. International Telex service was opened between Bombay and London from 17th June, 1960 and has since been extended to 22 other foreign countries. This service is available to Telex subscribers of Bombay and Ahmedabad and also to printogram subscribers at Bombay.

It has been decided to introduce phonogram service for booking and delivery of telegrams on telephones at all stations having telephone service. In pursuance of this policy the phonogram service has been introduced at a number of Stations during the year 1960.

The system of collecting phonogram charges has been introduced in the cities of Bombay, Calcutta, Delhi and Madras with effect from Sept. 1, 1960 along with the telephone trunk call bills of the subscribers with a view to relieving the inconvenience of making payment of the phonograms at the counters.

With effect from 8th Dec. 1960 the Inland Phototelegraph Services have been introduced between New Delhi and Calcutta. This service has been hitherto available between New Delhi and Bombay.

The tape relay exchange has been introduced for the expeditious disposal of traffic functions at present for 23 circuits with a capacity for handling 13,000 messages per day. Similar modernization of telegraph offices at Calcutta, Delhi and Madras is to be taken up during the Second and Third Plans.

The number of subscribers connected to Printergram Service in Bombay is gradually increasing. The number of subscribers at present is 62. The same has been introduced at New Delhi (C.T.O.) on Dec. 16, 1960 and it is proposed to introduce printogram at Calcutta during 1961.

About 1,534 teleprinters were in service on 31st Dec. 1960. A Teleprinter factory in the country is being established in Madras.

The Indian Language telegraph service in Devanagri Script was extended to more offices during 1960-61, raising the total number of offices having such facility as on 31st Dec. 1960 to about 1,820 including 60 railway telegraph offices. The total number of such offices was expected to be about 2,000 by March 31, 1961. The number of telegrams booked in Hindi steadily increased.

For the better handling of telegraph traffic and improving the quality of the service, the larger combined telegraph offices are gradually being converted into departmental telegraph offices. Thirteen such offices were made into departmental telegraph offices during 1960-61. Now there are 149 such telegraph offices in the country.

TELEPHONES

There has been a steady progress in the implementation of extending telephone facilities to rural and undeveloped areas. Out of 333 district headquarter towns, all but 9 have telephone facilities. Among 535 sub divisional towns only 36 have still to be linked to the telephone trunk net work.

The total number of direct connections at the end of Dec. 1960 was 314,005. The number of telephones in the country increased from 419,000 to 449,070 during 1960-61. During the period 137 exchanges were expanded. The equipped capacity of the Departmental exchanges increased from 382,830 to 398,280 during the same period.

122 long distance public call offices and 202 local public call offices were opened during the period 1st April to 31st Dec. 1960. The total number of long distance P.C.Os. and local P.C.Os. as on 31st Dec. 1960 were 2,109 and 3,886 respectively.

* Daily: About 2,60,000 villages (Aug. 15, 1961). † Six more are to be issued till the end of 1961: Annual Children's Day (Nov. 14; 15 nP.); Opening of Indian Industries Fair (Nov. 14; 15 nP.); Centenary of Scientific Forestry in India (Nov. 18; 15 nP.); Centenary of Archaeological Survey of India (Dec. 14; 15 nP. & 90 nP.); Birth Centenary of Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya (Dec. 25: 15 nP.).

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Total number of telephone exchanges as on 31st Dec. 1960 was 1,223. 83 new exchanges were opened during the period. The equipped capacity of all departmental exchanges increased from 382,830 to 398,280 lines in Dec. 1960.

The Own Your Telephone scheme introduced in Dec. 1949 is in operation in:

New Delhi, Ahmedabad, Calcutta (in Barrackpore, Bhatpara and Uttarpara exchanges only), Madras (except Mount Road, Kilpauk and Mylapore areas), Bombay (except the 24 and 26 (North) exchange areas).

In a relaxed condition it is also in operation in Delhi (Tis Hazari and Karol Bagh exchange areas), Amritsar, Nagpur, Bangalore, Hyderabad, Verawal, Calcutta (except Barrackpore, Bhatpara and Uttarpara exchange areas), Bombay (the 24 & 26 North exchange areas), Madras (Mount Road, Kilpauk and Mylapore areas) and Kanpur.

Where relaxations have been permitted, telephones are given to O.Y.T. applicants on priority over general waiting list applicants.

The total number of connections given under this scheme upto 31st Dec. 1960 was 43,023 and the total amount collected upto that date was Rs. 9,77,29,480.

The measured rate system is in force in 50 towns.

WIRELESS

The following Wireless services were opened during the year: 1. Wireless Telegraph circuit between Delhi and Sibsagar for the Oil and Natural Gas Commission (on 1st Sept. 1960); 2. Wireless telegraph circuit between Calcutta and Kiriburu (Orissa) for National Mineral Development Corpn.; 3. Seasonal Wireless Stations at Uttar Kashi, and Kedarnath for the pilgrims and at Nangal, Jowar, Seoni, Rampur and Bilaspur for Bhakra Dam Authorities; 4. Wireless Telegraph Station at Ghilamora (Assam); 5. Coastal Wireless Station at Visakhapatnam (opened on 23rd Nov. 1960); 6. Radio Telephone Circuit between Bombay and Mangalore.

POPULATION

Note:—Unless otherwise stated the following article is based on the 1961 census which are the latest. The figures are provisional. The populations of talukas are not available and hence they are not given in this article.

Preparations for the 1961 Census began in July 1958. There were six stages in the census operations beginning with the checking of the boundaries of States and Union Territories and their constituents and ending with the actual census count which ended at sunrise on March 1, 1961. The count started on the morning of February 10, 1961.

There are several areas where there were departures from the scheduled time-table. They were (1) several snow-bound areas in Jammu & Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh, Punjab and Uttar Pradesh, where the enumeration was held in September and October 1960, whereafter either checkposts were established or identity cards issued to account those migrating out of or into the censured areas; (ii) several 'Agency areas' in Andhra Pradesh where the count was taken in December 1960 because of the difficulties of communication administration; (iii) the N.E.F.A. where the census began in January 1961 and was to continue until the summer of 1961; (iv) Two districts of Naga Hills Tuensang Area where the census was expected to be completed in early summer of 1961 and (v) a small pocket in Manipur where the census was still continuing.

Thus the 1961 census will cover the whole country except portions of Jammu & Kashmir currently under the occupation of Pakistan and China. The 1951 census did not cover Jammu and Kashmir, N.E.F.A. and Nagaland.

The census closed on the evening of March 5 and the first results began to flow in on 6th March.

About a million persons were employed as census agency—both enumeration and supervisory—in about 800,000 blocks.

The population of India has registered an unprecedented increase of 21·5 per cent from 359 million in 1951 to 438 million in 1961 according to the provisional 1961 census figures.

The increase is in excess of the upper limit of all the recent projections and is seven million more than the projected population of 431 million in 1961 on which the Third Plan is based.

The number of cities with a population of more than a million has gone up from five to six or seven, the number and the order of precedence varying with the definition adopted.

URBAN DENSITY

Greater Bombay ranks first with 4·15 million and Calcutta second with 2·93 million, Delhi (including New Delhi, Shahdara and the Cantonment) third with 2·34 million, Madras fourth with 1·73 million, Hyderabad fifth with 1·25 million, and Ahmedabad sixth with 1·15 million.

If, however, the population of Calcutta (including 34 contiguous urban townships in a compact area of 164 sq. miles) is aggregated, "Greater Calcutta" ranks first with 5·55 million inhabitants. Similarly, Metropolitan Bangalore" has a population of 1·21 million.

The density of population for the country works out to 384 per square mile as against 316 in 1951.

The highest urban density is to be found in Calcutta city (75,038). This compares with 22,293 per square mile in Greater Bombay and 55,208 in Madras.

The City-Sadar-Paharganj area of Delhi, however, has a density of 143,185 persons per sq. mile and the Karolbagh-Patel Nagar area of Delhi a density of 74,195. According to the provisional census reports these two areas "can be counted in the forefront of the world's highest density areas."

SEX RATIO

The sex ratio—the number of females per 1,000 males—is now 940 as compared with 946 in 1951. There has been a steady decline in this ratio since 1901.

Another odd feature is that the sex-ratio is above unity in distinct bands of territory, especially, along the coast. The state-wise sex-ratio is also appreciably lower north of latitude 22 degrees.

Literacy has registered a small increase from 16·6 per cent in 1951 to 23·7 per cent in 1961.

The test for literacy is satisfied if a person can both read and write with understanding.

LITERACY RATE

The literacy rate is highest in Delhi, Kerala, the Andamans, Gujarat, Madras and Maharashtra in that order and lowest in Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh, Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, and Bihar in that order.

Female literacy continues to be far below male lateracy, but again, oddly enough, the coastal belt generally exhibits a higher rate of female literacy than other areas.

The actual count has not yet been completed and totalled in Manipur, NEFA, Nagaland and Sikkim. The population of the rest of the country is provisionally estimated at 436·42 million. The inclusion of the probable population of Manipur, etc. would bring the all-India total to around 438 million.

Of the enumerated population (of 436 million), 82·16 per cent is rural and 17·84 per cent urban. This compares with 82·62 per cent and 17·38 per cent in 1951.

A stricter test has been applied in the test census in the classification of urban areas and towns. The three criteria applied are: a population of not less than 5,000, a density of not less than 1,000 per square mile and the employment of not less than 75 per cent of the adult male population in non-agricultural pursuits.

PRUNING OF 'TOWNS'

The application of these tests has eliminated many areas of a pronounced rural nature which had previously passed for towns. There has consequently been a heavy pruning of "towns" with populations of under 5,000.

The urban population has, however, risen from 61·87 million in 1951 to 77·84 million in 1961, an increase of 24·85 per cent. There are now 203 cities with a population of over 100,000 (excluding figures for Kerala which are not yet available).

There has been a noticeable general decline in the sex ratio in urban areas during 1951-61. It is noteworthy, however, that the southern States of Andhra, Madras and Mysore are the only ones with a sex ratio of over 900 (Kerala figures not available)—with the single exception of Rajasthan. This indicates differences in the growth of the sociological structure of urban areas of the south and the north.

The rate of growth of population has been particularly high in Assam (34·30 per cent) and West Bengal (32·94 per cent) over the past decade.

The high increase in Assam is explained by labour immigration attracted by the plantations, mines, oil fields, and railway and road projects as well as refugees from East Pakistan.

The increase in West Bengal is similarly explained by the influx of refugees from East Pakistan, Tibet and Nepal, the exceptional increase of immigrant population in centres of railway and communications expansion and in the Calcutta-DVC industrial region.

The final report of the Census Commissioner is likely to be published in 1963.

The complete census data will include 47 main tables and some special tables including a census of scientific and technological personnel.

Highest population: Uttar Pradesh 73,752,914. Lowest population: Laccadive, Minicoy, and Amindivi Islands: 24,108.

Note: [1] Manipur, N.H.T.A. (Nagaland) and N.E.F.A. are not included in the table as enumeration has not yet been completed in these areas. [2] Population of each State or Union Territory has been adjusted as close as practicable to its present area and limits following the merger and reorganization of States (1956). Figures for 1961 are provisional. [3] The last census of Jammu & Kashmir was held in 1941. For estimating the 1951 population the increase between 1941-51 has been taken on the mean of the increase between 1941-61.

RURAL AND URBAN POPULATION

It should be pointed out here that whether an area is urban or rural depends on a number of factors of which population is only one. Also these factors vary from State to State.

The rural and urban population grew as follows:

	Percentage
	Rural	Urban
1921	88·6	11·4
1931	87·9	12·1
1941	86·1	13·9
1951	82·7	17·3
1961	82·16	17·84

 In addition, Western type of leather footwear is also produced on a cottage and small scale industry basis in many parts of the country. Agra is the best known and is the largest Western type footwear producing centre on cottage and small scale industry basis. Annual production by this method is estimated at 12 to 13 million pairs.

† In addition, indigenous type of leather footwear is also produced on cottage and small scale industry basis in almost all parts of the country. Production from this source is estimated at 65 to 70 million pairs annually.

†† In addition, vegetable tanning of buffalo and cow hides is also carried on on cottage industry basis in almost all villages and on small scale basis by over 500 tanneries mostly situated in South India. The annual output of tanned buffalo and cow hides by the two sections combined is estimated at 16 to 17 million tanned hides. In addition this section of the industry also processes about 24 million goat and sheep skins a year for vegetable tanning.

‡ In addition, there are about 250 small scale chrome tanneries mainly situated in the Calcutta area and owned and run by the Chinese Community. Their annual output is estimated at about 1·5 million hides.

§ There is no installed capacity as these are handmade and production depends upon demand.

PUBLIC SERVICES

Public Services in India can be broadly classified into four distinct categories: All India Services, Central Services, State Services and Local Bodies' Services. All India Services are common to the Union and the States and are created under Article 312 of the Constitution. The Central and State Services are intended for the administration in the respective fields assigned to the Union and the States under the Constitution. The Local Bodies in different States have their own Services though they may also utilise the State or All India Services for specific functions.

The Constitution provides for the setting up of a Public Service Commission for the Union and for each State. Two or more States may, however, join together to have a common Public Service Commission.

The Union Public Service Commission or the State Public Service Commission, as the case may be, is required under the Constitution to be consulted on all matters relating to the methods of recruitment to Civil Services and for civil posts and on the principles to be followed in making appointments to Civil Services and posts, and in making promotions and transfers from one service to another, as well as on disciplinary matters affecting a person serving under the Government of India or the Government of a State in a civil capacity.

However, the President in respect of the All-India Services and other services and posts in connection with the affairs of the Union, and the Governor in respect of the other services and posts in connection with the affairs of a State, may make regulations specifying the matters in which either generally or in any particular class of cases or in any particular circumstances, it shall not be necessary for the Public Service Commission to be consulted.

The Chairman and Members of the Union Public Service Commission, and of Joint Commissions if any, are appointed by the President of the Union while the chairman and members of a State Public Service Commission are appointed by the Governor.

A member of the Union Commission holds office for six years or till he attains the age of 65. A member of a State Commission also holds office for six years but retires earlier on attaining the age of 60.

In order to assure the independence of Public Service Commissions beyond doubt, the Constitution has provided that the Chairman of the Union Public Service Commission shall be ineligible for further employment either under the Government of India or under the Government of a State; the Chairman of a State Public Service Commission shall also be ineligible for employment either under the Government of India or under the Government of a State except as the Chairman or Member of the Union Public Service Commission or as the Chairman of any other State Public Service Commission. A Member of the Union Public Service Commission shall also be eligible for employment only as the Chairman of the Union Public Service Commission or as the Chairman of a State Public Service Commission. And a Member of a State Public Service Commission shall be eligible only for appointment as the Chairman or Member of the Union Public Service Commission or as the Chairman of that or any other State Public Service Commission.

The Chairman or any Member of a Public Service Commission shall only be removed from his office by an order of the President on grounds of misbehaviour after the Supreme Court, on reference being made to it by the President, has, on inquiry held in accordance with the procedure prescribed in that behalf, reported that the Chairman or such other Member, as the case may be, ought on any such ground to be removed.

In the discharge of their functions, the Union and State Commissions conduct examinations for recruitment to Government services.

The Union Public Service Commission also serves as the Commission for the Union Territories.

The annual reports of the Public Service Commissions which are required to include a list of cases in which Government did not accept the advice of Commissions, together with memoranda from the Government explaining the reasons for non-acceptance of the advice of the Commissions on such matters, are placed before the appropriate legislature.

In addition to the Union Public Service Commission, there are the following Public Service Commissions in different States:—

Andhra Pradesh Public Service Commission (Hyderabad).

Assam Public Service Commission (Shillong).

Bihar Public Service Commission (Patna).

Gujarat Public Service Commission (Ahmedabad).

Jammu & Kashmir Public Service Commission (Srinagar).

Kerala Public Service Commission (Trivandrum).

Madhya Pradesh Public Service Commission (Indore).

Madras Public Service Commission (Madras).

Maharashtra Public Service Commission (Bombay).

Mysore Public Service Commission (Bangalore).

Orissa Public Service Commission (Cuttack).

Punjab Public Service Commission (Patiala).

Rajasthan Public Service Commission (Jaipur).

Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission (Allahabad).

West Bengal Public Service Commission (Calcutta).

ALL INDIA SERVICES

There are two All India Services — the Indian Administrative Service (I.A.S.) and the Indian Police Service (I.P.S.). The members of these Services are allotted to the State Governments and they are also appointed to posts under the Central Government on deputation.

Recruitment to the two All India Services is made on the basis of an open competitive written examination, supplemented by a personality test, conducted by the Union Public Service Commission, except for 25 per cent of the senior Duty Posts in the various State cadres of the two Services which are reserved for promotion from the State Civil Service and the State Police Service respectively.

The rules also provide that the Central Government may, in special circumstances and on the recommendations of the State Government concerned and in consultation with the Union Public Service Commission, recruit to All India Services any person of outstanding ability and merit serving in connection with the affairs of the State, even though such a person may not be a member of the State Civil Service. Such persons can be appointed up to a maximum limit of 15 per cent of the posts reserved for promotion for the State Civil Service officers in any particular State Cadre.

The total authorized cadre strength of the I.A.S. and I.P.S. in the different States was 2,010 and 1,089 respectively as on 1st January 1961.

The new authorised strength of I.A.S. cadres of various States is as: Andhra Pradesh—151; Assam—80; Bihar—188; Gujarat—110; Maharashtra—155; Madhya Pradesh—180; Madras—141; Orissa—100; Punjab—141; Uttar Pradesh—249; West Bengal—139; Mysore—100; Rajasthan—137; Kerala 71 and Jammu and Kashmir—33, and Delhi and Himachal Pradesh—35.

The I.P.S. cadre stood at 1,210 in March 1961. It is felt that the expansion in this cadre in the next ten years will be to the extent of 662 over the present strength.

During 1960, 73 and 48 officers were appointed to the I.A.S. and I.P.S. respectively on the results of the competitive examinations conducted by the U.P.S.C. During the same period 35 and 22 officers were appointed by promotion to the I.A.S. and I.P.S. from the State Civil Service and the State Police Service respectively.

The States Reorganisation Commission's recommendation that at least 50 per cent of new entrants to the All-India Services be from "outside a State" has been implemented in case of both the I.A.S. and I.P.S.

Figures collected since 1957 show that out of 267 appointments made to the I.A.S. through open competitive examinations, 161 candidates (60 per cent) were allotted to States other than to which they belonged. In respect of the I.P.S. also, 114 candidates (61 per cent), out of 189, were posted in States other than those of their origin.

CENTRAL SERVICES

The total number of Central Government employees (excluding those serving in Union Territories) on 30th June 1959 was 19,85,616 of which the Railways accounted for 11,54,752 (58.14 per cent), the Posts and Telegraphs 2,35,754 (11.87 per cent), the Civilians under the Ministry of Defence 2,67,124 (13.45 per cent) and others 3,27,986.

All employees declared surplus as a result of the economy drive are reported to the Special Cell in the Directorate General of Employment and Training, which has been created for re-absorption of surplus employees in alternative posts. All vacancies occurring in Central Government offices are also reported to the Special Cell. Surplus employees on the register of the Special Cell are given top priority for employment in these vacancies. Vacancies against which they cannot prima facie be considered are released to the Regional Employment Exchange.

Recruitment to the non-technical Central Class I Services also takes place on the basis of an open competitive written examination conducted by the Union Public Service Commission.

The following are the more important among the class I Central Services:—

Archaeological Service (Class I); Botanical Survey of India (Class I); Central Engineering Service (Class I); Central Electrical Engineering Service (Class I); Central Health Service (Class I); Central Revenues Chemical Service (Class I); Central Secretariat Service: (a) Selection Grade, (b) Grade I, (c) Grade II; General Central Service (Class I); Geological Survey of India (Class I); Indian Audit and Accounts Service; Indian Defence Accounts Service; Indian Foreign Service (Class I); Indian Meteorological Service (Class I); Indian Postal Service (Class I); Indian Posts and Telegraphs Traffic Service (Class I); Indian Revenue Service: (a) Customs Branch (Indian Customs Service, Class I), (b) Central Excise Branch Central Excise Service (Class I), (c) Income Tax Branch (Income Tax Service, Class I); Indian Salt Service (Class I); Mercantile Marine Training Ship Service (Class I); Mines Department (Class I); Overseas Communications Service (Class I); Survey of India (Class I); Telegraph Engineering Service (Class I); Zoological Survey of India (Class I); Indian Frontier Administrative Service (Class I); Central Legal Service (Class I); Railway Inspectorate Service (Class I); Indian Foreign Service (Branch B); Central Information Service; Indian Supply Service (Class I) and Indian Inspection Service (Class I).

Two other services which will be constituted soon are the Indian Economic Service and the Indian Statistical Service.

QUALIFICATIONS

The lower levels of Government services are generally not required to have a university degree. The educational qualifications and in certain cases, the age limits for recruitment to the various Government services have been changed following the decision on the recommendations made by the Public Services (Qualifications for Recruitment) Committee. The Committee was set up in April 1955 to examine how far, and at what levels, the possession of a university degree was necessary for recruitment to the Government services.

The higher level of Government services, All India and Central Class I, will continue to require a candidate to possess a university degree as recommended by the Committee. The age limit will also remain unchanged at 21 to 24 years generally and 20 to 24 years for the Indian Police Service.

INDUSTRIAL MANAGEMENT POOL

In order to build up a pool of officers for manning the managerial posts in the public enterprises whether run directly by Government or Corporations or Companies in which Government have a controlling interest, Government have sanctioned the constitution of an Industrial Management Pool. The Pool consists of seven senior grades and a junior grade each with a different pay scale. Within each grade persons appointed to the Pool are not accorded any intense order of seniority and they are eligible for promotion to the next higher grade on merit by selection.

Recruitment to the Pool was entrusted to the Union Public Service Commission. In February, 1959, the Commission published a list containing 212 names of persons recommended for appointment to the various grades of the Pool.

Of these 212 officers, 130 have accepted the offer, 69 have declined and three have been found unsuitable for appointment to the Pool. All the 130 officers have been assigned to the Central Ministries.

SCIENTISTS' POOL

The Scientists' Pool under the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research was established in 1958, to provide temporary placement for well-qualified Indian scientists, technologists, engineers and medical personnel until they are absorbed in regular employment. This Pool is mainly intended for scientific and technical personnel who return from abroad after acquiring high qualifications in their subjects. There is also provision for the appointment of persons with Indian qualifications who have outstanding academic records. All persons enrolled in the Indians Abroad Section of the National Register of Scientific and Technical Personnel are considered for the selection to the Pool. Advertisements are also issued periodically to enable suitable persons to apply.

Persons selected to the Pool are attached or seconded to Government Departments, State Undertakings, National Laboratories, universities or Scientific and technical institutions, and other establishments including those in the private sector.

About 500 persons had been selected to the Scientists' Pool by April 1961.

TRAINING

National Academy of Administration: In the context of the objectives of a welfare State and the need for the successful implementation of the Five Year Plans, it has been considered essential that civil servants, particularly those at the higher levels, should possess not merely professional skill and experience but also a wide outlook, greater adaptability and a deeper realisation of the ethics and obligations of public service. With this object in view, a combined course of training for new entrants to the All India Services and Central Class I Services, in background and foundational subjects, is now imparted at the National Academy of Administration which was set up at Mussoorie in September 1959. In this Academy, arrangements have also been made for providing refresher courses to older civil servants in order that officers working in different capacities under the State and Central Governments may have opportunities to study, reflect on and discuss subjects of general importance.

The Director of the Academy also functions as Director of Training, Government of India and in the latter capacity, co-ordinates the training programmes of probationers in the All India Services as well as Central Class I Services. He is, in addition, in overall charge of the Secretariat Training School at New Delhi, and advises the Commandant of the Central Police Training College, Mount Abu in drawing up the training programme of the probationers of the Indian Police Service.

Secretariat Training School: With the expanding activities of Government it was realised that the new entrants to the Central Secretariat Service could no longer acquire the requisite training "on the job," and that it was necessary to set up an organisation to give "pre-entry" training. To meet this need, the Secretariat Training School was started in Delhi in May 1948. It has since been placed on a permanent footing and functions as an Attached Office under the administrative control of the Union Ministry of Home Affairs.

The Secretariat Training School imparts training in various subjects including training in typewriting, to the ministerial staff of the Govt. of India, namely, Section Officers, Assistants and Lower Division Clerks who are recruited on the results of the Union Public Service Commission examinations and also to those who are already employed under the Government of India.

SERVICE CONDITIONS

The Public Employment (Requirement as to Residence) Act 1957 provides that there shall not be any condition of residential qualification for any public service in India except in regard to certain non-gazetted appointments in subordinate posts in the Telengana area of Andhra Pradesh and in the Union Territories of Himachal Pradesh, Manipur and Tripura. The special provisions made in respect of these areas will, however, be operative only for a short while.

The conditions of service of Central Government servants and norms of conduct for them are embodied in four sets of rules viz. the Fundamental and the Supplementary Rules, the Civil Service Regulations, the Central Civil Service (Conduct) Rules and the Central Civil Service (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules. The Fundamental and the Supplementary Rules and the Civil Service Regulations were framed many years ago. The Conduct Rules and the Classification (Control & Appeal) Rules are more recent.

The Conduct Rules require every government servant to maintain integrity and devotion to duty. Government servants are expected to avoid participation in politics except to the extent of casting their votes by secret ballot at elections. They may not offer themselves as candidates even for municipal and other local authorities. It is open to the Government servants to organise associations of their own which have to be recognised by the Government in accordance with the Central Civil Services (Recognition of Service Associations) Rules so that they may be able to promote their service interests. The Conduct Rules disallow non-industrial employees to organise strikes or demonstrations in furtherance of their service interests.

Staff Councils consisting of representatives of the different sections of employees and the nominees of Government have been in existence in some of the Ministries and other organisations for the purpose of promoting employer-employee understanding and to serve as a forum for discussion of general questions affecting the employees' conditions of service. The question of replacing them by whitley-type machinery has been under consideration on the basis of the recommendations made by the Central Pay Commission presided over by Shri Jagannath Das.

The Conduct Rules for the All India Services and the Railway Services require, as in the case of the Central Civil Services, that Government servants' transactions in immovable and movable property should in specified circumstances be reported to Government either for their information or for according sanction to those transactions. Officers of the All India Services and of the Class One Central Services may not take up commercial employment within two years of their retirement from Government service without first obtaing Government's permission. The son, daughter or other dependant of such officers may take up employment with a private firm having dealings with Government only after the officer concerned has reported the facts to Government and obtained their permission.

ADMINISTRATIVE VIGILANCE DIVISION

The Administrative Vigilance Division in the Ministry of Home Affairs functions on the basis that the main effort and initiative in dealing with the problem of corruption must come from within each Ministry and Department and that the main responsibility in this behalf is that of the Secretary of the Ministry or Head of the Department. Each Ministry or Department has appointed a Vigilance Officer who assists the Secretary or Head of the Department in this behalf. At present there are 37 Vigilance Officers in the Ministries for dealing with cases arising in the Ministries proper. However, all cases relating to members of the Services controlled by the Ministry of Home Affairs viz. All India Services (where it is proposed to impose punishments of dismissal, removal or compulsory retirement), Central Secretariat Service, Central Secretariat Stenographers' Service, Central Secretariat Clerical Service and the Services in the Union Territories, are dealt with in the Ministry of Home Affairs.

Vigilance Officers have also been appointed in the attached and subordinate offices and in the Corporations and semi-Government and non-Government organisations (not falling within the definition of Attached and Subordinate offices). There are 447 such Vigilance Officers who deal with complaints and vigilance cases arising against officers serving in these offices and organisations. The Vigilance Officer in the Ministry controlling these offices and organisation provides necessary guidance and advice in such matters as may be referred to him and ensures quick disposal of cases.

Separate Directorates of Inspection look after the vigilance work in the Income-tax and Customs Departments. The Railways have a separate Vigilance Directorate.

The other technical units that at present function are: Engineering Vigilance cell in the Railways, Chief Technical Examiner's Cell in the Ministry of Works, Housing and Supply, Engineering Cell in the Army Headquarters, Directorate of Revenue Intelligence in the Ministry of Finance, Enforcement Directorate for Foreign Exchange Regulations in the Ministry of Finance, and the Fraud Squad of the Special Police Establishment.

To ensure that departmental enquiries are quickly disposed of and that such enquiries are conducted according to the prescribed procedure, two Commissioners for Departmental Enquiries are functioning under the administrative control of the Division.

During the period from April 1, 1956 to the end of 1960 the Division dealt with 40,617 complaints and 27,713 vigilance cases.

132 gazetted officers and 2,700 non-gazetted employees were dismissed, removed, compulsorily retired or reduced in rank. Minor penalties were imposed on 274 gazetted officers and on 9,286 non-gazetted officers.

In 1960, out of 10,721 complaints including those pending from the previous year, 2,362 complaints related to gazetted officers (22 per cent) and 8,359 related to non-gazetted employees (78 per cent). 1,333 complaints against the gazetted officers and 3,603 complaints against non-gazetted employees had to be dropped without enquiry or after enquiry as the complaints were either vague and did not contain verifiable allegations or the allegations were proved to be baseless. Only 564 complaints against gazetted officers and 3,048 complaints against non-gazetted employees could be taken up for further action.

The Division has undertaken the scrutiny of reports of Parliamentary Committees like the Public Accounts Committee and the Estimates Committee with a view to finding out which of the irregularities reported by such committees conceal elements of lack of integrity. During 1960, 97 items reported by the Public Accounts Committee in their reports received during 1960 were brought to the notice of the various Ministries. 12 recommendations of the Estimates Committee were also referred to the various Ministries.

Special Police Establishment : The Special Police Establishment functions under the administrative control of the Division. The Fraud Squad of the S.P.E. which was set up in 1959, registered nine cases during 1960 in which 68 persons are involved.

During 1960 prosecution was launched in 259 cases and 205 cases were decided by courts. Of these, 162 cases resulted in conviction giving a percentage of successful cases at 79. The persons convicted include six gazetted officers and 112 other Government servants and one other person. Fines totalling Rs. 1,34,744 were also imposed by the courts in the above cases.

419 cases were decided departmentally during 1960 out of which 372 ended in punishment giving a percentage of successful cases at 88·8. In these 372 cases, 52 gazetted officers, 349 non-gazetted employees and four other public servants were punished.

1,282 public servants, including 172 gazetted officers were involved in the new cases taken up for investigation by the S.P.E. during 1960 as against 1,164 public servants including 207 gazetted officers in the new cases of the year 1959. In the new cases of 1960, there were 22 other public servants (employed in statutory bodies or other public undertakings) who are also equivalent in status to gazetted officers.

Fifty-nine traps were laid during 1960 as against 44 laid during 1959 in which 61 public servants were caught red-handed while accepting illegal gratification. They belonged to the Ministries of Railways (53); Defence (6); Finance (1); and Rehabilitation (1).

The Special Police Establishment of the Government of India took up 111 cases for open enquiries during June, 1961, involving 109 public servants of whom 23 were Gazetted Officers.

The Gazetted Officers belonged to the Ministries of Defence (4—all of them Commissioned Officers), Transport and Communications (5), Works, Housing and Supply (4), Railways (3), Bhilai Steel Project (2), and one each of Central Excise, Scientific Research and Cultural Affairs, Commerce and Industry, Information and Broadcasting, and Union Territory.

There were 8 trap cases during the month. In one of these cases, a Major of the Army Supply Corps was caught while accepting Rs. 300 as bribe. Six employees of the Railways and one of Communications were also caught red-handed while accepting bribes.

Convictions were secured in 15 cases during the month of June, 1961. Six non-Gazetted public servants and 2 private individuals were convicted. Substantial sentences of imprisonment were awarded in addition to fines amounting to Rs. 11,000.

Almost all States have appointed part-time Special Judges and Magistrates to try cases filed by the S.P.E.

ORGANISATION AND METHOD DIVISION

The O. & M. Division was established in March 1954 and was located in the Cabinet Secretariat. The objective was to develop consciousness of the need for administrative improvements, to Co-ordinate such work and to initiate new projects which may act as catalytic agents for further action by the Ministries. O. & M. Division is under the charge of a Director who is also concurrently the head of the Special Reorganisation Unit of the Finance Ministry and Secretary of the Committee on Plan Projects.

The first phase of the activities of the O. & M. Division was directed to building up certain elementary procedures which had been discontinued during the war as an emergency measure and which had to be adjusted to the necessities of the circumstances obtaining in the first few years of the post-Independence period. Most of the activities were, therefore, concerned with expediting disposal of papers received in the Secretariat and in keeping track of them with a view to avoiding delay. Several special task groups were set up to carry out studies of problems having a bearing on the disposal of work. The first phase was, therefore, essentially one of creating consciousness for an ordered improvement in the Secretariat.

The second phase of activities has just started. In association with the Special Reorganisation Unit and the Committee on Plan Projects, activities in the following directions will be undertaken :—

(a) Improvements in Procedural competence of Government, supervisory capacity, techniques of programming direction and control etc. (By O. & M. Division).

(b) Work studies of organisations, matching of work load and staffing and such other aspects of economy in expenditure as may arise during the course of work studies. (Special Reorganisation Unit).

(c) Cost reduction in projects. (Committee on Plan Projects). The personnel in the three Units are utilised in an integrated way as all the three types of activities have close relationship with each other.

The three units have undertaken training activities jointly. Work study courses, of varying duration, for different types of personnel have been arranged and 96 officials have so far been trained including a few from the State Governments. It is proposed to intensify training programmes so that O. & M. activities could be broad-based with the assistance of knowledgeable personnel.

Integration of Services : More than 80 per cent of representations, 5,357 out of 6,458, from the Government servants affected by the States Reorganisation have been disposed of by the Central and State Committees advising on the integration of services (March 1961).

The cases generally relate to seniority, service conditions, etc.

Till November 1960, the Central Committee received 2,943 representations and recommended action on 1,528. The State Advisory Committees passed orders on 3,297 representations out of 3,515 received during the same period.

Provisional orders had also been issued allocating the personnel of the former Bombay State to the new States of Gujarat and Maharashtra, which came into existence on May 1, 1960.

PAY COMMISSION REPORT

The Second Pay Commission was appointed in Aug. 1957 to ward off a general strike threatened by Posts and Telegraphs and other Central Government employees.

The members of the Commission were Mr. Jagannadha Das (Chairman), Dr. V. B. Gandhi, Mr. N. K. Sidhanta, Prof. M. L. Dantwala, Mrs. M. Chandrasekhar, Mr. L. P. Singh (Secretary), Mr. H. F. B. Pais (Associate Secretary).

Towards the end of 1957 the Commission submitted an interim report on which Government issued orders in Dec. 1957.

The final report was submitted to Government on Aug. 24, 1959 and was laid on the table of the Lok Sabha on Nov. 30, 1959.

The details of the report are given in the 1960-61 Directory.

GOVERNMENT DECISIONS

On August 2, 1960 the Finance Member laid on the table of the Lok Sabha a statement giving the Government of India's decisions on the recommendations of the Pay Commission. These differed in many respects from the ones that were announced earlier.

The total cost to the exchequer would now be about Rs. 44 crores annually. The earlier estimate was Rs. 29 crores.

Below we give a brief summary.

Briefly, it may be stated that the Government has accepted all the major recommendations of the Pay commission with a financial bearing.

The pay structure is changed with the minimum wage fixed at Rs. 80 a month.

In the place of the 500 odd pay-scales there would now be only about 140.

The earlier decision to give effect to these new scales from November 1, 1959, has been rescinded and the date proposed by the Commission, namely, July 1, 1959, adopted.

Further the arrears for the entire period will be paid in cash.

The Commission's recommendations regarding the liberalisation of retirement benefits, casual leave and holiday and leave travel concessions have been accepted, as also the suggestions about converting temporary into permanent posts.

Central Government employees are further to be brought in line with Railway employees in the matter of educational facilities for the children of the staff who get less than Rs. 300 a month. These children will be eligible for education at boarding schools of their choice in the absence of suitable facilities at stations of posting.

The maximum house rent recoverable from employees getting less than Rs. 150 will be 7-1/2 per cent. of the pay. A compulsory provident fund scheme will be introduced to which employees will be required to contribute 6 per cent. of their pay. Class IV employees will have the option of a slightly lower contribution range.

Government have accepted the recommendation of the Commission that if during a period of 12 months the consumer price index remains on an average 10 points above 115, the Government should review the position and consider whether an increase in the allowance should be allowed ; and if so, at what rate.

Orders have already been issued implementing the decisions on the recommendations relating to pension which were announced on 30th November, 1959. Government have agreed to liberalise these orders by accepting the Commission's recommendation that special pay should also count for pension in full if the post to which it was attached was held in a substantive capacity, and to the extent of half in all other cases.

The Government have accepted and already announced their decisions on the Commission's recommendations regarding the grant of gratuity to temporary and quasi-permanent employees on their retirement, discharge from service, or death, and improvement of death gratuity in the case of permanent employees who die before completing five years of qualifying service, as also in respect of employees who are governed by the Contributory Provident Fund Scheme.

The recommendations of the Commission for improvement or liberalisation of retirement benefits in the case of scientists and technologists have also been accepted and orders issued.

Below we give some typical new pay-scales. The existing scales are given in brackets.

Indian Audit and Accounts Service: Class I—Rs. 400—1,250. ((I) Rs. 600—1,150, (II) Rs. 350—850).

Despatch riders: Rs. 100—180 ((I) Rs. 55—85). (II) (Rs. 50—65).

The Government of India has accepted in principle the recommendation of the Second Pay Commission that a scheme of educational assistance similar to the one in operation in the Railways should be introduced for Central Government employees whose salary does not exceed Rs. 300 per mensem.

This is to enable them to send their children to boarding schools of their choice if suitable teaching facilities do not exist at the station where they are posted.

The details of the scheme are now being worked out (March 1961).

The Union Ministry of Finance have accepted all the recommendations of the Pay Commission in regard to casual labour including that on payment of remuneration (Feb. 1961).

It has been decided that casual labour should be paid at market rates subject to the condition that where the market rates are lower than the minimum wages fixed by the respective State Governments for comparable scheduled employments, the wages shall be the minimum wages fixed by the State Governments.

Other three recommendations of the Pay Commission accepted by the Finance Ministry are:

1. Casual employment should be restricted to work of a truly casual nature and in order to ensure that this is done, there should be a general review of the existing position;

2. All casual labour under the Central Government including those to whom the minimum wages law is not applicable, should have the benefits and safeguards provided by Rules 23-25 of the Minimum Wages (Central) Rules, 1950 relating to weekly holidays, working hours, night shifts and payment for overtime and

3. Long experience as casual labour should be taken into consideration while making selections for appointment to regular establishments.

The decisions of the Finance Ministry have already come into force.

Two lakh persons working under the various establishments of the Government of India come under the category of casual labour. The Ministry of Railways employs about 1·6 lakhs as casual labour and the rest are employed in the other Ministries including Defence, Posts and Telegraphs and the Central Public Works Department.

A minimum wage has also been fixed. The total expenditure involved as a result of the new decisions is expected to be a few crores of rupees.

The Government have approved of a revised scale of pay for general service officers of the Army. The scale of pay of the other categories of Army officers as well as those of the Navy and the Air Force were being worked out on the basis of the approved Army scale (Oct. 1960).

REHABILITATION INDUSTRIES CORPORATION LTD.

In pursuance of the decision to create an effective machinery for setting up industries to provide employment to displaced persons, the Rehabilitation Industries Corporation was established in April 1959. It has an authorised share capital of Rs. 5 crores divided into 50,000 equity shares of Rs. 1,000 each.

The functions of the Corporation are to set up industries on its own or in partnership with private enterprise and to advance loans to private entrepreneurs for setting up industries and opening up new vistas of employment for displaced persons.

Upto the end of August 1960, the Corporation had sanctioned loans aggregating about Rs. 1·20 crores to 19 industrial units. These schemes when fully implemented will provide employment to about, 4,500 displaced persons.

Two 'Industrial Estates' one at Behala and the other at Bonhooghly (Calcutta) have also been sanctioned. The work relating to the Corporation was transferred to the Union Ministry of Commerce & Industry with effect from 1st September 1960.

Dandakaranya Scheme

The 1959-60 edition of the Directory carries the genesis and main features of the Dandakaranya Scheme. The object is to resettle displaced persons from East Pakistan and to develop the area generally with particular regard to the promotion of the interest of the area's tribal population. Reclamation of large areas of land for agricultural and other purposes, grant of loans to displaced persons and tribals for settlement, improvement of roads and communications, setting up of small-scale and cottage industries, etc. are included in the scheme.

The Prime Minister held discussions with the Chief Minister and Rehabilitation Minister of West Bengal and the Union Ministers of Rehabilitation and Law on the Dandakaranya Scheme on June 16, 1960 and the following broad decisions were reached: 1) The Dandakaranya Development Authority should be reconstituted to provide for a whole-time Chairman, and the Chief Secretary, West Bengal Govt. as a member of the Authority. 2) The Authority should be given a considerable measure of autonomy and should be asked to prepare a general five-year plan and more specific plan for the year. 3) Its chief function should be to rehabilitate displaced persons from East Pakistan. For this priority should be given to displaced persons at present in camps in West Bengal. 4) Displaced persons sent to Dandakaranya should be provided with shelter and other facilities pending full rehabilitation. 5) The work of the Rehabilitation Ministry was expected to be over in 12 to 15 months. Any unfinished work on the expiry of that period could be distributed to other Ministries of the Government of India or Govts. of West Bengal, M.P. and Orissa.

The Scheme made considerable progress after the appointment of the Shri Sukumar Sen as the full-time Chairman on September 1, 1960.

Upto the end of February 1961, 2,391 families consisting of 10,599 persons moved up to Dandakaranya.

On 31st Dec. 1960, the position of allotment of land to Displaced persons under compensation scheme was as follows:—No. of land claimants: 29,385; No. of land claimants whose cases have been settled: 21,650; Area allotted in acres 1,84,585; Amount of compensation paid in respect of claimants settled by transfer of properties by payment in cash and by adjustment of public dues: Rs. 3,58,34,311.

The Government of India have accepted the recommendation of the Dandakaranya Development Authority that seven acres of agricultural land should be allotted to a displaced agriculturist family in Dandakaranya.

Displaced agriculturist families would also be given 800 square yards for homestead plots and to develop horticulture, dairy, poultry etc. To supplement the income from the agricultural land and to keep the displaced families gainfully occupied during the off season, financial assistance for the development of cottage industries would also be given.

A total of 46,690 acres in Umerkote and Raigarh areas of Orissa, and 35,062 acres in Paralkote and 3,063 acres in Pharasgaon in Madhya Pradesh have so far been made available by the State Govts. to the Dandakaranya Development Authority.

Preliminary work for the construction of four dams in Dandakaranya, which, on completion, will irrigate a total area of over 1 lakh acres, was started during May 1961.

The four dams are: Umerkote Dam (commandable area—13,760 acres), Paralkote Dam on Deoda Nallah (commandable area—33,750 acres), dam on Potteru river (commandable area—20,000 acres) and Malkangiri Dam (commandable area—37,500 acres).

Considerable progress has already been made in the preliminary work relating to the Umerkote Dam, while the work connected with the other dams is at varying stages. The construction of all these dams is estimated to cost about Rs. 6 crores.

Amount spent on Dandakaranya Scheme upto the end of 1960-61: Rs. 10·54 crores. Provision for 1961-62: Rs. 7·00 crores.

SPORTS

The sports come within the purview of the Ministry of Education.

The main body for sports is the All India Council of Sports with H. H. the Maharaja of Patiala as President. (For a note on this see under Association in Delhi.)

There are also State Sports Councils.

A national plan is in operation called the National Plan of Physical Education and Recreation for promoting physical education.

The first national college of physical education —Rani Lakshmi Bai College—was set up at Gwalior in 1957. It offers a three-year degree course in physical education.

A Sports Committee appointed by the Government of India in July 1958 with H.H. the Maharaja of Patiala, President of the Indian Olympic Association, as the Chairman, submitted a Report to the Union Minister of Education, Dr. K. L. Shrimali, on 4th Feb. 1959.

The details of the Report were given in the 1959-60 edition of the Directory.

The Government of India have set up a National Institute of Sports at Patiala to provide adequate facilities for the training of coaches of the highest calibre in various games and sports.

The National Institute of Sports is managed by an autonomous board of Governors, consisting of nine persons. Lt. Gen. Sant Singh is its Director.

The Council of Sports decided to amalgamate the Rajkumari Sport Coaching Scheme, which had so far functioned independently, with the National Institute of Sports. This will cut down expenses and avoid duplication of projects.

The Union Ministry of Education had placed a sum of Rs. 9 lakhs at the disposal of the State Governments during 1959-60 for disbursement of grants to educational institutions for acquisition of playfields and play-grounds. An additional amount of Rs. one lakh was being allotted to the Centrally-administered areas for this purpose.

The provision of Rs. two crores made in the Second Five Year Plan for the development of games and sports was cut down to Rs. 70 lakhs. A sum of Rs. 9·98 lakhs had been spent for the above purpose during the period April 1, 1956 to July 31, 1959.

TOURNAMENTS

Below we give the results of the national tournaments and principal sporting events of the year 1960-61.

It was not a good year for Indian sports. We lost our 32-year-old world supremacy in hockey by losing to Pakistan in the Rome Olympic Games.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

The cricket series between India and Pakistan, which featured the year's programme, proved listless, all the five Test matches ending in draws.

A bright patch, however, was struck by Krishnan Ramanathan, our tennis idol. At the Wimbledon Championships he reached the last four stage, but was beaten by Neale Fraser (Australia), the eventual champion.

THIRD FIVE-YEAR PLAN

An account of the First and Second Plans was given in the previous editions of the book.

Parliament gave its general approval to the Third Plan Draft Outline in August 1960.

The Draft Outline was discussed throughout the country and served as the basis for the preparation of the plans of States. These were considered with the Chief Ministers of States between September and November, 1960.

In January, 1961, the National Development Council made its recommendations concerning the overall size of the Third Plan, the Council also set up a Committee on Savings to suggest ways of securing the maximum mobilisation of resources for the Third Plan. Finally, on May 31, and June 1, 1961 the National Development Council considered the Draft Report on the Third Plan and generally approved it.

The final draft of the Plan was placed before the Parliament on August 7, 1961.

The Planning Commission in the final draft proposes additional taxation of Rs. 1,710 crores as against Rs. 1,650 crores in the draft outline. The investment outlays of both the public and private sectors have been raised from those of the draft outline.

The Rs. 10,400-crore Plan covering the period 1960-61 to 1965-66 aims at increasing national income from Rs. 14,500 crores to Rs. 19,000 or by 30 per cent and per capita income of the people from Rs. 330 to Rs. 385 or by 17 per cent, the pattern of investment being designed also to sustain this rate of growth during subsequent Plan periods. Other principal aims are :—

(1) to achieve self-sufficiency in foodgrains, and increase agricultural production to meet the requirements of industry and export;

(2) to expand basic industries like steel, chemical industries, fuel, and power and establish machine-building capacity, so that the requirements of further industrialisation can be met within a period of 10 years or so mainly from the country's own resources;

(3) to utilise to the fullest extent possible the manpower resources of the country and to ensure a substantial expansion in employment opportunities; and

(4) to establish progressively greater equality of opportunity and to bring about reduction in disparities in income and wealth and a more even distribution of economic power.

To achieve these aims, a certain minimum development must take place in different sectors of the economy during the next five years.

The Plan envisages a 30 per cent increase in agricultural production whose index (base : 1949-50 = 100) is expected to go up from 135 to 176 and a 70 per cent increase in industrial output whose index (base: 1950-51 = 100) will move up from 194 to 329.

The increase in population, the growing expectations of the people and the urgent need for attaining the stage of self-sustained growth over the next two or three Plan periods make it essential that there should be every effort to achieve the targets during the next five years, says the Commission.

In addition, certain measures must be taken during the Plan period itself in preparation for the Fourth Plan. The physical pogrammes included in the Third Plan have been formulated with both these objectives in view.

The estimated financial resources have been placed for the present at Rs. 7,500 crores and are distributed as follows :

Out of this, investment is estimated to be Rs. 6,300 crores and current outlay, representing expenditure on staff, subsidies, etc., Rs. 1,200 crores. Investment in the private sector is placed at Rs. 4,100 crores (exclusive of Rs. 200 crores to be transferred from public revenues to this sector by way of loans and other assistance.) Thus the total investment will be Rs. 10,400 crores.

The scheme of financing the public sector plan that is now envisaged is indicated in the Table below. The last two columns indicate the estimates separately for the Centre and the States:

STATES' PLANS

Among the States, Uttar Pradesh has the single largest plan accounting for Rs. 497 crores. This is followed by Maharashtra whose outlay is Rs. 390 crores and Bihar with an outlay of Rs. 337 crores. The Third Plan outlays for different States with figures in brackets representing the estimated outlay in the Second Plan are: (Rs. in crores.)

Andhra Pradesh—305 (175); Assam—120 (51); Bihar—337 (166); Gujarat—235 (143); Jammu and Kashmir—75 (25); Kerala—170 (76); Madhya Pradesh—300 (145); Madras—290·9 (167); Maharashtra—390 (207); Mysore—250 (122); Orissa— 160 (85); Punjab—231·4 (148); Rajasthan—236 (99); Uttar Pradesh—497 (227); West Bengal—250(†) (145); Total—States—3847·3 (1981).

Of the total investment of over Rs. 4,300 crores in the private sector, Rs. 200 crores will be provided by way of transfer of resources from the public sector. The assistance by the Reserve Bank to agriculture, small-scale industries and co-operatives will also be on a larger scale. External assistance to the private sector may be of the order of Rs. 300 crores.

Investment in the private sector during the Second Plan has been at high levels and there is evidence of a greater readiness on the part of private enterprise to avail itself of the opportunities being created by the development process. Investment in the private sector of the order of Rs. 4,300 crores does not appear to be difficult of achievement.

ADDITIONAL TAXATION

For financing the Rs. 7,500-crore outlay in the public sector heavy reliance is placed on additional taxation and external assistance which will account for Rs. 1,710 crores and Rs. 2,200 crores respectively.

The credit of Rs. 2,200 crores taken for external assistance is part of the total of such assistance envisaged in the Plan, namely Rs. 3,200 crores.

The entire amount of Rs. 3,200 crores does not come to the public exchequer. About Rs. 450-500 crores of the total receipts of external assistance will go towards repayments of loans maturing during the Third Plan while about Rs 300 crores might go directly to the private sector by way of private capital inflows or loans from agencies like the I.B.R.D., the International Finance Corporation and the U.S. Export-Import Bank.

Another Rs. 200 crores may represent agreed retentions of rupee resources by the U.S. authorities and additions to buffer stocks from P.L. 480 imports.

Thus, about Rs. 1,000 crores in all would not be available for the budget.

15-YEAR OUTLOOK

Taking a broad view of the development of the Indian economy, it is reckoned that, at 1960-61 prices, the national income should rise from about Rs. 14,500 crores at the end of the Second Plan to about Rs. 19,000 crores at the end of the Third Plan, about Rs. 25,000 crores at the end of the Fourth and about Rs. 33,000 to Rs. 34,000 crores at the end of the Fifth Plan.

Allowing for the estimated annual increase in population of about two per cent., on these estimates, income per head should go up from around Rs. 330 at the end of 1960-61 to about Rs. 385, Rs. 450 and Rs. 530 in 1966, 1971 and 1976.

This will require net investment as a proportion of national income to rise from about 11 per cent. at present to 14-15, 17-18 and 19-20 per cent, per annum by the end of the Third, Fourth and Fifth Plans respectively.

† Provisional.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

In other words, as compared to about Rs. 10,500 crores postulated for the Third Plan, net investment over the Fourth and the Fifth Plan periods should be of the order of Rs. 17,000 crores and Rs. 25,000 crores.

Domestic savings would have to rise in corresponding measure from about 8·5 per cent. at present to about 11·5, 15 to 16, and 18 to 19 per cent of the national income at the end of the Third, Fourth and Fifth Plans.

By the end of the Fifth Plan the economy will be strong enough to develop at a satisfactory pace without being dependent on external assistance outside of the normal inflow of foreign capital.

In the course of preliminary studies on the Third Plan the following tentative targets of capacity have been suggested for some important items for 1970-71.

Steel ingots	million tons	18–19
Pig iron	million tons	3–4
Aluminium	thousand tons	230-250
Electric power	million kW	21–23
Coal	million tons	170–180
Oil refining	million tons	18–30
Nitrogenous fertilisers	million tons (N)	2·0–2·2
Cement	million tons	24–26
Machine building	Rs. crore of output	1,600
Railway freight transport—long distance (originating traffic)	million tons	380–420
Food Grains	million tons	135
Exports	Rs. crores	1,300–1,400

These targets indicate the order of effort called for as a basis for further studies.

The Plan says that for working out a long-term plan on these lines there is need for close and continuous collaboration between various Government agencies at the Centre and in the States and with leading institutions engaged in scientific, economic and social research.

Foreign Exchange :

The following Table sets forth the balance of payments estimates for the Third Plan.

Financing of foreign exchange requirements for the Third Plan

(Rs. crores)

	Total Second Plan	Total Third Plan	1961-62	Annual average Third Plan
A RECEIPTS
1. Exports	3,053	3,700	667	740

B. PAYMENTS
1. Imports of machinery and equipment for Plan projects	4,826	1,900	325	380
2. Components, intermediate products etc., for raising production of capital goods		200	60	40
3. Maintenance imports		3,650	746	730
Total (1 to 3)‡	4,826	5,750	1,131	1,150

* Includes reimbursements from the U.S.A. for freight expenses on P.L. 480 imports initially incurred by India.

 Represents external assistance required for financing imports as shown below.

† Including net drawing on the I.M.F.

PRICE POLICY

The Plan postulates a price policy which will ensure that movements of relative prices are in keeping with its priorities and targets and that prices of essential goods which enter into the consumption of low-income groups do not rise unduly.

In the Third Plan stress is being placed on the careful phasing of projects in relation to one another. Prices fluctuated widely in the First Plan period and they have shown a rising trend through the Second Plan period. At the commencement of the Third Plan, the levels of wholesale prices and cost of living are already high and it is essential to ensure that there is no accentuation of inflationary pressures in the course of the Third Plan and that the levels of living of the more vulnerable classes in society are safeguarded.

PROJECTS

Below we give a list of industrial and mining projects in the public sector which are in the planning or execution stage during the Third Plan period : Figures within brackets are the total investment and foreign exchange component respectively in Rs. crores :

A. Projects under execution and carried over from the Second Plan :

Completion of the three steel plants Bhilai, Rourkela and Durgapur; Rourkela Fertilizer Factory at Rourkela (50; 20); Heavy Machine Plant, Ranchi; Foundry Forge Shop, Ranchi; Mining Machinery Plant, Durgapur (80; 55); Heavy Electrical Plant, Bhopal (16; 7); Drug Projects: Synthetic Drugs Plant, Sanatnagar; Antibiotics Plant, Rishikesh; Phyto-Chemicals Plant, Munnar; Surgical Instruments Plant, Guindy (30; 15); Organic Intermediates Plant, near Panvel (11; 6); Expansion of Hindustan Antibiotics, Pimpri (0·5; —); Trombay Fertilizer Factory, Trombay (25: 13); Nahorkatiya Fertilizer Factory, Nahorkatiya (12; 7); Neyveli Fertilizer Factory, Neyveli (15·68; 11·56); Briquetting and Carbonisation Plant, Neyveli (13·84; 8·61); Neyveli Thermal Power Plant, Neyveli (9·67; 5·86); Nunmati Oil Refinery, Nunmati (8·5; 4·9); Barauni Oil Refinery, Barauni (23; 7·5).

Coal :

Coal Programme of N.C.D.C. (8; —); Washeries at Bhojudih, Patherdih and Dugda (7·5; 4).

Oil : Oil India :

Crude Pipe line (8; —); Share capital in Oil India (1·42; —).

Lignite : Neyveli Lignite Project:

Mining Scheme (3·29; 1·3); Housing (3; —).

Iron Ore :

Kiribwin (6; 3·93).

B. New projects for which external credits are already assured, wholly or partly :

Expansion of Heavy Machinery Plant, Ranchi (14; 11); Expansion of Foundry Forge, Ranchi (10; 5·5); Expansion of Mining Machinery Plant, Durgapur (15; 10); Second and third heavy electrical projects, location not yet decided (69; 45); Heavy Machine Tool Project, Ranchi (11; 9); Precision Instruments Project, location not yet decided (8; 6); Ophthalmic Glass Project, Durgapur (2·6; 2); Raw Film Project, Ootacamund (8; 5); Watch Factory, Bangalore (2·5; 1·5); Expansion of Bhilai Steel Plant, Bhilai (138; 56); Expansion of Durgapur Steel Plant, Durgapur (56; 27); Expansion of Rourkela Steel Plant, Rourkela (90; 50); Expansion of Hindustan Machine Tools, Bangalore (3; 2); Basic Refractories Project, Bhilai (3; 1·5); New Machine Tools Works in Punjab, near Pinjore, 3 miles from Kalka (5; 3); Gujarat Oil Refinery, exact location not yet decided (30; 15); Expansion of Praga Tools, Secunderabad (1; 0·5); Heavy Structural Works and Heavy Plate and Vessel Works, location not yet decided (10·1; 6·4); Gorakhpur Fertilizer Factory, Gorakhpur (18; 8); Security Paper Mill, Hoshangabad (5·5; 4); Expansion of Hindustan Cables, Rupnarainpur (3·5; 1·2).

Coal :

Additional coal (17 m. tons) from N.C.D.C. (57; 28); Singareni expansion (3 m. tons) (20; 6); Maintenance of production (16; 10); Central Workshop (8; 2·7); Drills (prospecting (2; 1·4); Advance action for the 4th Plan (10; 7); Central ropeways (16; 8); Additional washing capacity for coking coal(20; 11·3).

Oil :

Oil exploration (115; 53·53).

Iron Ore :

Bailadla Iron Ore Project (17; 8·55).

Copper Projects :

Khetri Copper Project (10); Daribo Copper Project (2·5). Foreign exchange component for both together 6·36.

C. Other projects :

Bokaro Steel Project, Bokaro (200; 100); Alloy and Steel Tools Plant, Durgapur (50; 20); Expansion of Bhopal Heavy Electrical Plant, Bhopal (19; 8); Expansion of Hindustan Shipyard (expansion and subsidy), Vishakapatnam (10; 1·5); Dry Dock Project of the Hindustan Shipyard, Vishakapatnam (2; 0·5); Second Shipyard, Cochin (20; 5); Expansion of FACT, Alwaye (8; 5·6); Expansion of Nepa Mills, Nepanagar (4; 3); Salt development (3; 0·8); Heavy Compressors and Pumps Project, location not yet decided (15; 10); Ball and Roller Bearing Project, location not yet decided (8; 6); Additional capacity for machine tools, second heavy structural works and second plate and vessel works, location not yet decided (15; 10); Marine Diesel Engine Factory, location not yet decided (3; 1·5); Expansion and modernisation of the Govt. Alkaloid Factory, Ghazipur (0·4; —); Lubricating Oil Plant (12; 6); Low temperature carbonisation plants (22; 15); Neyveli Lignite High Temperature Carbonisation Plant and connected facilities for pig iron production, Neyveli (25; 13); Townships at project sites (50).

Coal :

Non-coking Coal Washeries (12; 7).

Neyveli Lignite Project :

Expansion of mine output (3·8; 1·45).

Oil :

Oil distribution programme (10; —); Oil India (8; —); Crude oil pipe lines (4; —); Oil products pipe lines (37; 10).

Other minerals :

Sikkim Copper Project (2·5; 1·3); Panna Diamond Project (1·5; 0·6); Manganese ore beneficiation plants (5; 1); Project for sulphur from projects (5; 2·5); Kolar gold mines (1·5; 0·84); Hutti gold mines (0·50; 0·20); Expansion of Kiriburu (6; 3); Uranium Mining Fabrication and Plutonium Extraction Plant (24; 8·17).

Surveys :

G.S.I Expansion (10; 3·19); I.B.M. Expansion (5; 1·89).

Industrial Projects of State Governments : Schemes with a total outlay of Rs. 50 lakhs or more :

A. Projects spilling over from the Second Plan. Figures within brackets are total investment and foreign exchange component respectively in crores of rupees :

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Expansion of Andhra Paper Mills, Rajahmundry (4 ; 2·49) ; Expansion of Mysore Iron and Steel Works, Bhadravati : (a) Steel expansion programme (2*; 3·5) ; (b) Expansion of ferro-silicon plant (0·95 ; 0·37) ; Expansion of Govt. Electric Factory, Bangalore (0·9 ; 0·48). Durgapur Coke Ovens, Durgapur : (a) Gas Grid (2·25 ; —) ; (b) Tar Distillation Plant (0·5 ; 0·17) ; (c) Doubling of Coke Ovens and by-products plant (4·2 ; —).

B. New Projects included in the Third Plan.

Natural gas distribution, Assam (1·65 ; 0·3) ; Gas fractionation and transmission scheme, Assam (1·5 ; 0·5) ; Expansion of Bihar Superphosphate Factory, Sindri (0·5 ; 0·15) ; Expansion of High Tension Insulator Factory, Ranchi (0·58 ; 0·17) ; Fertiliser Project, location not yet decided (20 ; 10) ; Cotton Spinning Mill, Samba (0·5 ; 0·25) ; Pilot Iron and Steel Plant, Madras (0·75) ; Steel Rolling Mill, Madras (1 ; —) ; Distribution of Gas in Bombay, Bombay (0·5 ; —) ; Reorganisation of the workshop at Nangal (0·5) ; Refractories Plant, Churk (0·85 ; 0·3) ; Expansion of the Precision Instruments Factory, Lucknow (0·69 ; 0·22) ; Organic Chemicals Scheme, Durgapur (4 ; 2) ; Cotton Spinning Mill, West Bengal (0·65 ; 0·08) ; Miscellaneous schemes costing less than Rs. 50 lakhs each (15·61 ; 4).

Mineral Projects of the State Governments : New schemes included in the State Plans with total outlay of Rs. 50 lakhs or more. The outlay in Rs. lakhs is given within brackets :

Kalakot Coal Mining Project (Jammu and Kashmir) (0·60) ; Rajashthan Mining Corporation (exploitation of Palana lignite and flourspan at Durgarpur) (2·75) ; Board of Mineral Development of Mysore (exploitation of iron and manganese ores in the State) (0·9) ; Miscellaneous schemes/programmes costing less than Rs. 50 lakhs each (6·75).

* Made up of Rs. 5 crores in the Central Plan and Rs. 2 crores in the State Plan.

PROGRESS REPORT 1950-51 TO 1960-61

The First and the Second Five Year Plans mark the first phase in fulfilling the economic and social objectives of India's planned development.

The balance sheet for the first decade of planning shows a steadily rising trend in national income, agricultural and industrial production and in the development of India's human resources. The period has also been marked by a quicker rate of growth of the national economy and greater emphasis on increasing employment opportunities, reducing disparities in income and wealth and preventing the concentration of economic power.

INVESTMENT

Reckoned at current prices, the total investment during the two Plans was Rs. 10,110 crores, Rs. 5,210 crores in the public sector and Rs. 4,900 crores in the private sector.

(Rs. crores)

Sector	First Plan 1951-56	Second Plan 1956-61 (anticipated)	Total 1951-61
Public Sector outlay	1,960	4,600	6,560
Public Sector investment	1,560	3,650	5,210
Private Sector investment*	1,800	3,100	4,900
Total investment	3,360	6,750	10,110

* These are revised estimates. They exclude transfers from the public sector.

NATIONAL INCOME

The increase in national income has been 42 per cent over the last decade ; but owing to the increase in population, the increase in income per capita has been 16 per cent.

Agricultural production has gone up by 41 per cent and industrial production by 94 per cent. The following table gives a summary of agricultural production trends since 1949-50.

All crops	96	117	135·0
Food crops	91	115	131·0
Other crops	106	120	143·0

The table shows that there was a rising trend but variations from year to year were considerable. The increase in the production of major agricultural commodities has been as follows :—

Crop	Unit	1950–51	1955–56	1960–61
Foodgrains (cereals and pulses)	million tons	52·2	65·8	76·0
Oilseeds..	,,	5·1	5·6	7·1
Sugarcane (gur)	,,	5·6	6·0	8·0
Cotton	million bales	2·9	4·0	5·1
Jute	,,	3·3	4·2	4·0

The total outlay on agriculture, community development and irrigation amounted to Rs. 1,551 crores during the decade. The net area irrigated is estimated to have increased from 51·5 million acres in 1950-51 to 70 million acres in 1960-61.

Among the most significant developments in the agrarian economy during the past decade, mention may be made of the introduction of the extension services throughout the country as an integral part of the community development movement and democratic decentralisation of rural development work. At the end of the Second Plan, the community development movement covered about 370,000 villages and well over half of the country's population. About 60,000 village level workers and technical officers were given special training in extension work.

The cooperative movement has made considerable progress. By the end of 1960-61 there were 210,000 primary agricultural societies —almost double the number in 1950-51. About 1,870 cooperative marketing societies and 41 cooperative sugar factories were set up.

By the end of 2nd Plan 11·8 million acres were estimated to have been brought under green manuring. About 2·7 million acres were covered by soil conservation measures. Production of milk went up from 17 million tons to 22 million tons and of fish from 0·7 million tons to 1·4 million tons.

INDUSTRY

The past decade has witnessed striking development in industry—in terms of the rate as well as the pattern of industrial growth. Some idea of the trend may be obtained from the following indices of industrial production :

Group	1955–56	1960–61
General index ..	139	194
Cotton textiles ..	128	133
Iron and steel ..	122	238
Machinery (all types) ..	192	503
Chemicals	179	288

With the successful completion of the First Plan, it was possible to take up in a large way the development of new industries especially the capital and producer goods industries, which constitute the basis for any programme for accelerated industrial growth.

A key role was assigned to the public sector in the development of basic and heavy industries. Total public sector outlay on industries and minerals amounted to Rs. 974 crores over the decade. Investment in the Second Plan alone amounted to as much as Rs. 870 crores in the public sector or 56 per cent of the total investment in organised industry, public and private.

The three new steel projects in the public sector have reached the stage of production and the output of steel ingots has increased from 1·4 million tons in 1950-51 to 3·5 million tons in 1960-61 and of pig iron from 3·5 lakh tons to 9 lakh tons. The availability of other essential industrial materials like aluminium, cement, heavy chemicals and dyestuffs, of fuels such as coal and petroleum, and of power has also increased substantially since 1950-51.

There has been a rapid growth of machine-building industries. The value of graded machine tools produced in the country has increased from Rs. 34 lakhs in 1950-51 to Rs. 550 lakhs in 1960-61. The progress made by chemical industries particularly pharmaceuticals, heavy chemicals and fertilisers has been remarkable. Significant progress has been made in increasing the indigenous content of industrial products manufactured in the country.

The following table gives some idea of the progress made in the production of important producer and consumer goods during the decade.

POWER

A number of hydro-electric and thermal power projects were constructed during the period and the total public sector investment in power amounted to Rs. 705 crores. The installed capacity of hydro-electric power increased from 0·56 mln. kW to 1·93 mln. kW and of thermal power from 1·74 mln. kW to 3·77 mln. The total installed capacity thus rose from 2·3 mln. kW in 1950 to 5·7 mln. kW in 1960-61, which is short of the target of 6·9 mln. kW. The total number of towns and villages electrified went up from 3,687 in 1950-51 to 23,000 in 1960-61.

TRANSPORT AND COMMUNICATIONS

The total public sector outlay was Rs. 1,823 crores. There was substantial expansion in railways, road transport, shipping and airways. 1,180 miles of new railway lines were added. The number of locomotives increased from 8,500 in 1950-51 to 10,600 in 1960-61, coaches from 20,500 to 28,200 and wagons from 222,400 to 341,000. The passenger miles increased from 41·3 billions to 48·6 billions. The total freight traffic carried went up from 91·5 mln. tons to 154 mln. tons.

The mileage of surfaced including national highways increased from 97,500 to 144,000 and unsurfaced from 151,000 to 250,000. The shipping tonnage increased from 3·9 lakh GRT to 9 lakh GRT. The capacity of major ports rose from 20 mln. tons to 37 mln. tons. The number of road transport commercial vehicles increased from 116,000 to 210,000.

The number of postal articles handled increased by about 80 per cent and of trunk telephone calls by about fivefold between 1950-51 and 1960-61. The number of post offices rose from 36,000 to 77,000 and of telephones from 168,000 to 460,000. In the field of broadcasting each language area was provided with one transmitting station and there were 28 stations in 1960-61. The number of radio licences increased by about fourfold during the period.

SOCIAL SERVICES

Altogether Rs. 1,289 crores were spent for social services during the period.

Education: The number of students in all schools increased from 23·5 mln. in 1950-51 to 43·5 mln. in 1960-61—an increase of 85 per cent. The proportion of children attending schools in the age group 6-11 increased from 42·6 per cent to 61·1 per cent and in the age group 11-14 from 12·7 per cent to 22·8 per cent. The number of primary schools increased from 210,000 to 342,000 while that of high and higher secondary schools from 7,300 to 17,000. The number of universities increased from 27 to 46 and of colleges (excluding intermediate colleges) from 542 to 1,050.

In the field of technical education, facilities in existing institutions were expanded and 51 new degree colleges and 110 polytechnics were opened. The total intake of students in these institutions increased from 10,000 in 1950-51 to 39,400 in 1960-61. The annual intake of agriculture and veterinary colleges increased about fourfold.

Scientific research: Twenty national laboratories and 3 regional research centres were opened. Notable progress was made in basic and applied research in nuclear science and the peaceful use of atomic energy.

Health: The number of medical institutions increased from 8,600 with about 113,000 beds to 12,600 institutions with 185,600 beds. In addition, 2,800 primary health centres were opened. The number of medical colleges increased from 30 to 57 and that of doctors in practice or in service increased from 56,000 to 70,000. As a result of all the health measures the average expectation of life at birth improved by about 10 years during the period. By 1960-61 there were 549 urban centres and 1,100 rural centres engaged in family planning service.

Welfare of backward classes: An area of 3·6 mln. acres of land was allotted to members of scheduled castes and scheduled tribes, and another 2·6 mln. acres to other backward classes. About 68,000 post-matric scholarships were awarded to students of these classes.

Rehabilitation: Total expenditure on rehabilitation of displaced persons from East and West Pakistan during the two Plans amounted to Rs. 168 crores.—Rs. 71 crores on housing, Rs. 31 crores on education and vocational training and Rs. 11 crores on urban loans and the balance on miscellaneous schemes. Development of Dandakaranya area for resettlement of displaced agriculturist families from East Pakistan was initiated during the Second Plan.

Employment: The additional employment opportunities created during the 2nd Plan are estimated at 8 million of which 6·5 million were outside agriculture. At the end of 2nd Plan the backlog of unemployment is estimated at about 9 million.

The following are some of the achievements during the First and Second Plans, proposals for the Third Plan or requirement for the Third Plan of certain items:

The highlight of the programme to control communicable diseases in the Third Five Year Plan for Health is the eradication of malaria and smallpox. The outlay on control of communicable diseases in the Plan is Rs. 70 crores as against Rs. 64 crores provided for in the Second Plan and Rs. 23 crores spent during the First Plan.

About Rs. 239 crores have been spent on the rehabilitation of displaced persons till the end of the Second Plan. The Third Plan, at present, envisages a provision of Rs. 40 crores. Programmes formulated by the Ministry of Rehabilitation in consultation with the State Government had added upto a total outlay of Rs. 74 crores. Since the objective is to complete rehabilitation in as short a period as feasible and rehabilitation programmes have special features of their own, financial provisions will be reviewed and made each year.

During the Third Plan period it is proposed to increase power generation by 6·99 MW, construct 66,000 circuit miles of transmission lines of 11 KV and above and electrify about 20,000 villages.

According to the phased programme of power generation, 0·60 million kW will be added to the generating capacity during 1961-62, 0·73 million kW in 1962-63, 1·05 million kW in 1963-64, 2·07 million kW in 1964-65 and 2·54 million kW in 1965-66. The aggregate installed generating capacity by the end of the year 1965-66 will be 12·69 million kW.

It is expected, that the power requirements in different parts of the country might be substantially met by the end of the Third Plan.

During the Third Plan, a sum of Rs. 35 crores will be spent on the schemes for the welfare of b ckward classes that will be totally financed by the Centre.

The approximate estimated requirement of rails for the Third Plan is 16·50 lakh tons.

The requirement of 4·50 lakh tons during 1961-62, is being met by indigenous production to the extent of 1·66 lakh tons, and, from imports to the extent of 2·84 lakh tons.

During 1962-63 also some imports might be necessary. During the remaining years of the Third Plan, the full requirements are expected to be met from the indigenous production.

INDIA'S FRONTIER WITH CHINA

The course of the frontier may, broadly speaking, be described as follows.

India's northern frontier with China extends over 2,500 miles from north-west Kashmir to the tripartite junction of India, Burma and China near the Talu Pass. The frontier is traditional and well enough known.

In some sectors it has also been demarcated or defined. It runs along the Muztagh and the Karakoram ranges through the Karakoram pass and then along the Kuen Lun ranges to a point east of 80° longitude. Thereafter, it follows the watershed and runs through Lanak pass and along the Changchengmo range. Cutting across the Pangong Tso and the Spanggur Tso, it runs through Chang pass and along the Kailash range. It then turns south-west near Demchok and skirting the Hanle mountains cuts across the Para Chu river south of Chumar. It then follows the watershed between the Spiti and the Para Chu and the watershed between the Ganga and the Sutlej to the tri-junction of India, Nepal and China.

The boundary of Sikkim and Tibet is also a watershed, while the crest of the Himalayas forms the boundary between Bhutan and Tibet.

The north-east frontier of India, about 700 miles long, from the eastern Limits of Bhutan to a point near the Talu pass, is for the most part the northern watershed of the Brahmaputra. This is the so-called McMahon Line.

Frontier of Kashmir with Tibet: The frontier in this sector is about 1,100 miles long. About 300 miles of the extreme western sector is covered by the territory of Kashmir which is illegally occupied by Pakistan. The major part of Kashmir's frontier with China runs along a well-defined watershed, and the eastern section in particular has been recognised by custom for over three centuries. It was also confirmed by treaties signed between Ladakh and Tibet circa 1684 and in 1842. This boundary includes in India, the whole of the Aksaichin plateau, the Changchengmo valley, and the Pangong, Rupshu and Hanle areas. However, Chinese maps have been showing the boundary in this area much further west so as to include about 6,000 square miles—the greater part of Aksaichin, and parts of the Changchengmo valley, and the Pangong, Spanggur Tso and Chang La areas—in Tibet. The road constructed by the Chinese runs for about a hundred miles through the eastern part of Aksaichin. In September 1957 it was announced that this road had been completed. Indian parties have been arrested near the northern extremity of Aksaichin in 1958 and in the Spanggur area in 1959.

The Punjab-Tibet Frontier: This is about 70 miles in length. In the southern part of this sector, some Chinese maps show the boundary four to five miles west of the traditional boundary which is the watershed between the Spiti and Para Chu rivers. In 1956 and 1957, Chinese parties visited this area.

Himachal Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh boundary with Tibet: It is about 320 miles long and follows well-defined watersheds. In Himachal Pradesh it is the watershed between the eastern and western tributaries of the Sutlej, and in Uttar Pradesh that between the Sutlej on the one hand and the Kali, Alakhnanda and Jadhganga on the other. The six passes on the watershed—Shipki, Mana, Niti, Kungri Bingri, Darma, and Lipu Lekh—have been mentioned in the 1954 Agreement as passes between India and China. The Great Himalayan Range in this region lies in some places thirty to forty miles south of the watershed. The Nilang-Jadhang area, about a hundred square miles in area, has always been Indian territory.

Sikkim-Tibet Frontier: This was defined in the Anglo-Chinese Convention of 1890, and was later, in 1895, demarcated on the ground. All Chinese maps seem to show this boundary correctly.

Bhutan-Tibet Frontier: This is a customary boundary and follows the crest of the Himalayan Range for about three hundred miles. Chinese maps level out Bhutan in two sectors in the north and include a considerable part of south-eastern Bhutan in Tibet.

McMahon Line: From the eastern border of Bhutan to a point near the Talu pass, the frontier is a customary one which was defined in detail at the Simla Conference of 1914. The line follows the northern watershed of the Brahmaputra except where the Lohit, Dihang, Subansiri and the Namjang rivers break through. This watershed is for its greater part the Himalayan Range and in other places the highest range in the area. In one place the Line departed from the watershed to leave two sacred lakes, the village of Migyitun and a pilgrimage route in Tibet.

The line shown on Chinese maps includes in Tibet nearly 32,000 square miles of our territory in this area. This piece of territory comprises the whole of three Divisions of the North-East Frontier Agency—Kameng, Subansiri and Siang—and the major part of the fourth—the Lohit Frontier Division. In the extreme west it includes a belt of the Assam plains also.

INDIAN CASE

Having traced the course of the customary frontier between India and China we may next describe the Indian point of view.

Briefly it is this.

India's traditional frontier with China is well known being based partly on treaty, partly on custom and partly on agreement.

The present controversy arose because, the Chinese Government laid claim for the first time to extensive areas of Indian territory in the Chinese Prime Minister's letter of 8th September 1959.

The tension on the India-China border increased in 1959 and 1960 because Chinese forces had been pushing forward to assert their claims, and this has resulted in clashes involving the death of Indian personnel.

The Government of India have stated that in spite of recent Chinese provocations they will always explore the possibilities of a peaceful settlement. But they cannot accept the Chinese contention that the entire India-China frontier is undelimited. Negotiations on this basis are unacceptable to the Government of India. But they are prepared to discuss with the Chinese Government existing disputes and such minor rectifications of the frontier as may be considered necessary by agreement.

Though this is not part of the Indian case it may be added that the precise nature of the Chinese claims have not been stated by Chinese authorities. They can only be inferred from Chinese maps published from time to time.

The entire length of this border has been either defined by treaty or recognized by custom or by both, and until the present controversy no Chinese Government had ever protested against the exercise of jurisdiction by the Government of India upto the customary border.

The Government of the People's Republic of China contend in their letters that this boundary is entirely undelimited. This is wholly incorrect. The traditional border has been well-known for centuries. It follows the geographical principle of the watershed which is in most places the crest of the Himalayan mountains.

Moreover, in most parts the boundary has the sanction of specific international agreements.

NORTH-EASTERN FRONTIER

In the north-east, the traditional boundary was formalized at a Tripartite Conference held in Simla from October 1913 to July 1914 and attended by the Plenipotentiaries of the Governments of India, Tibet and China. The Indian, Tibetan and Chinese Plenipotentiaries had equal status. The boundary between India and Tibet in the sector east of Bhutan was confirmed by an exchange of notes between the Tibetan and Indian representatives on 24th and 25th March 1914. The boundary was delineated on two sheets of a large-scale map of the north-east frontier. Two copies of the map were signed and sealed by the Indian and Tibetan representatives. The line was drawn after full discussion and later re-affirmed by a formal exchange of notes. The Indo-Tibetan boundary line as agreed upon by the Indian and Tibetan Plenipotentiaries was incorporated on the map attached to the draft convention and was never challenged by the Chinese representative at that time or afterwards.

There is nothing to indicate that the Tibetan authorities were, in any way, dissatisfied with the delineation. On the other hand, Lonchen Shatra, the Tibetan Plenipotentiary, stated explicitly in the letters exchanged that he had received orders from Lhasa to agree to the boundary as marked on the map.

There is no doubt that the McMahon Line (so called after McMahon, the British representative at the Conference) merely confirmed the natural, traditional, ethnic and administrative boundary in the area. It runs mostly along the crest of the High Himalayan Range which forms the natural frontier between the Tibetan plateau in the north and the sub-montane region in the south. The Monba, Aka, Dafla, Miri, Abor and Mishmi tribes, who inhabit the area, are of the same ethnic stock as the other hill-tribes of Assam and have no kinship with the Tibetans. The Tibetans refer to these tribes as Lopas—southern barbarians beyond the pale.

It has to be appreciated however that boundaries between any two countries are not determined by ethnic affiliations of people living in frontier regions. It is also possible that people of the same racial stock live on either side of a border. India is a multi-national State in which many racial minorities enjoy rights of citizenship. In this context, it is relevant to mention that there are thousands of Indian citizens of Tibetan origin in our frontier areas. The fact is that the ethnic composition of frontier peoples is not a determining factor.

The important consideration to bear in mind is that Tibetan authorities had not exercised jurisdiction at any time in this area. On the other hand, the exercise of jurisdiction by the Government of India has been long and continuous.

Both the Simla Convention and the map attached to it were signed by Ivan Chen, the Chinese Representative. Although the Chinese Government later repudiated his signature, the objections to the Simla Convention listed in their memorandum of 25th April, 1st May and 13th June 1914 and 30th May 1919 were solely in regard to the boundary between Inner Tibet and China and between Inner Tibet and Outer Tibet. China neither protested against the boundary between India and Tibet nor did she seek modification of it after the Simla Convention. It is significant too that the Chinese Government agreed in 1956-57 to consider the eastern sector of the McMahon Line, which for about 120 miles forms the boundary between Burma and China, as the traditional boundary between the two countries.

CENTRAL SECTOR

The central sector of the boundary between Tibet and India is the frontier of Uttar Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh and the Punjab States in north India. The boundary between Uttar Pradesh and Tibet follows the watershed between the Sutlej on the one hand and the Ganges (the Kali, the Alaknanda and the Jadhganga) on the other. In this sector, the High Himalayan Range, with passes at a height of about 17,000 feet, runs 30 miles south of the water-parting, which is a lower range easily crossed from the Tibetan plateau. However, this watershed has been the traditional and well-known boundary. Revenue records of the Garhwal district as far back as 1850 establish this. Even Chinese maps upto 1958 showed the watershed as the frontier. The Nilang-Jadhang area, Bara Hoti, Lapthal and Sangcha Malla, which according to the contention of the Chinese Government lie in Tibet, are in fact well on the Indian side of the watershed.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Nilang-Jadhang is an area of about 700 square miles north of the main Himalayan range but south of the watershed. Bara Hoti, a small area of about 1½ square miles, also lies between the highest range of the Himalayas and the main watershed. Lapthal and Sangcha Malla are south-east of Bara Hoti, in Almora district in Uttar Pradesh. The boundary between Himachal Pradesh and Tibet is the water-parting between the eastern and the western tributaries of the Sutlej; and the boundary between the Punjab and Tibet is the major watershed between the Pare Chu and the Spiti river systems.

LADAKH

The boundary of Jammu and Kashmir with Sinkiang and Tibet is about 1,100 miles in length. Of this the frontier of Ladakh (which is part of Jammu and Kashmir) forms nearly two-thirds.

This boundary between Ladakh and Tibet, long sanctified by custom, was reaffirmed by the Treaty of 1842 signed by the representatives of Kashmir on the one hand and the Dalai Lama and the Emperor of China on the other. The Tibetan text of the treaty confirms that China was a party to it. It is true that the treaty did not define the boundary but referred merely to the "old established frontiers". This was because these frontiers were well-known and did not require any formal delimitation. In 1847 the Chinese Government informed the British Government that as the boundary was sufficiently and distinctly fixed, there was no need for additional measures for fixing them. The area was surveyed by Indian officials and, once a detailed first-hand knowledge was obtained of the region, official Indian maps began to show the boundary with precision. Even an official Chinese map of 1893 showed the boundary in this area as depicted in official Indian maps today.

For many years after 1949, when the People's Republic was established, there was no reason to believe that the Chinese authorities either were unaware of the traditional boundary or disputed its alignment. In 1950 the Chinese Government expressed their gratification over the desire of the Government of India "to stabilize the Chinese-Indian border" and the Government of India replied that "the recognized boundary between India and Tibet should remain inviolate". The Chinese Government questioned neither the location nor the recognition of this boundary, and the Government of India saw no reason to assume that there was any doubt regarding the border. On various occasions in 1951 and 1952, Indian interests in Tibet were discussed but the Chinese Government never suggested that there was any frontier issue to be negotiated.

The only cause for doubting whether the Chinese authorities accepted the traditional boundary was the fact that different alignments were being shown on Chinese maps. The alignments included about 36,000 square miles of territory on the north-eastern frontier and an area of about 15,000 square miles in north-eastern Ladakh within China.

CHINESE CASE

The Chinese case is set out in a letter which the Chinese Prime Minister wrote to Mr. Nehru and was delivered at the Indian Embassy in Peking on Dec. 26, 1959. This was in reply to a letter of Mr. Nehru's dated 26th Sept. and a note dated 4th Nov.

The Chinese Note contends that the entire 2,500-mile boundary between the two countries has never been delimited and "is, therefore, yet to be settled by negotiations."

The traditional border has been correctly depicted in the Chinese maps. The McMahon Line and the Indian delineation of the 1842 treaty boundary are tantamount to usurping 90,000 square kilometres of Chinese territory in NEFA and 33,000 square kilometers in Ladakh.

The thesis that China's traditional expansion is asserting itself with the growth of industrial power and the pressure of population, is answered at some length with reference to the fact that there is currently a labour shortage in China; the food output has far outstripped the population growth; despite industrial progress, China will remain economically and culturally backward for decades; one half of China's vast territory is sparsely populated and it has all the natural resources it wants.

About the Tibet-Sikkim border, the note says that this has been formally delimited and there is no dispute here.

But a claim is made to parts of north-eastern Bhutan.

The note deals with the boundary section by section.

LADAKH

The 1842 treaty contained no provision or hint whatsoever about the concrete location of (the Tibet-Ladakh) boundary. In any case, 80 per cent. of the disputed area of 33,000 square kilometres forms part of Sinkiang which was no party to the treaty and, therefore, does not come within the ambit of the treaty. Indian maps upto 1950 showed the border as undefined.

Aksaichin is itself a Uighur name and has "all along been a place for pasturage and salt-mining for the Uighur and Kirghiz people."

Since the mid-eighteenth century, the Ching rulers have established check-posts to exercise jurisdiction over and patrol this area. More recently, the Tibet-Sinkiang highway was built along the old caravan route. "This area is the only traffic artery linking Sinkiang and western Tibet, because, to its north-east lies the great Gobi of Sinkiang through which direct traffic with Tibet is practically impossible." The Indian maps cut across the Hotien river system and are, therefore, contrary to the watershed principle.

"The traditional customary line claimed by the Indian Government, instead of separating the Hotien river system from the Indus river system, actually cuts across the Hotien river system. On the contrary, the traditional customary line as shown on Chinese maps truly reflects the geographical features of this area, that is, having no steep slopes in the north-south direction, the area is easily passable and, therefore, naturally forms the only route linking Sinkiang and western Tibet."

To the west, however, there lies between this region and Ladakh the towering Karakoram range which is extremely difficult to pass through. The Indian Government also admits that this area is extremely difficult of access from Ladakh.

Referring to the treaty of 1842 between Tibet and Kashmir, the Note elaborated :—

"The treaty contained no provision or hint whatsoever about the concrete location of the boundary. None of the arguments advanced by Prime Minister Nehru in his letter of September 26, 1959, to Premier Chou En-lai to the effect that the location of the boundary has been long established can prove that the boundary line now claimed by the Indian Government is well-founded.

"The 1842 treaty was concluded between the authorities of the Tibet region of China and the Kashmir authorities, but the greater part (about 80 per cent.) of the area now disputed by the Indian Government is part of China's Sinkiang province which was no party to the treaty. It is obviously inconceivable to hold that, judging by this treaty, vast areas of Sinkiang have ceased to belong to China but have become part of Ladakh. The British Government proposed in 1899 to delimit the boundary between Ladakh and Kashmir on the one hand and Sinkiang on the other, but nothing came of it. It is also inconceivable that the territory of another country can be annexed by a unilateral proposal.

"The Indian Government says that it has been sending regular patrols to this (western) area, and that this is one way India exercises its jurisdiction.

"According to data available to the Chinese Government, however, armed Indian personnel intruded only three times into this area to carry out reconnaissance, namely, in September, 1958, July, 1959, and October, 1959, and on each occasion they were promptly detained and then sent out of China by Chinese frontier guards. Apart from these three intrusions, they have never been to this area. It is precisely for this reason that the Indian Government has been so unaware of the long-term activities of the Chinese personnel in this area that it declares that it was in 1957 that Chinese personnel first entered this area.

"The Indian Government says that the delineation of the western sector of the boundary on an official Chinese map published in 1893 approximates to that of the Indian maps. The Chinese Government does not know what map is referred to here and consequently, is unable to comment on it. As to the atlas published in 1917 by the British-owned paper, the North China Daily News and Herald, it can only represent the British view but not the Chinese, and there is no need to discuss it here."

MIDDLE SECTOR

This is the boundary between the Punjab, Himachal Pradesh and U.P. on the one hand and Tibet on the other.

The Tibetan authorities have old land deeds and other records relating to Shipki, Nilang, Bara Hoti, etc. They have collected taxes and included them in the Tibetan census. The people are of Tibetan nationality and official Indian maps up to 1950 showed the border as undefined.

The Chinese Note quotes from letters exchanged between the British Government and the Tibetan authorities between 1921 and 1927, speeches of Mr. Nehru and some other data to support the contention that the border in the western region had never been delimited.

"The Indian Government considers that the specification in Article IV of the 1954 Sino-Indian Agreement of six passes in this area as passages for traders and pilgrims of both countries indicates that the Chinese Government has already concurred in the Indian Government's opinion about this sector of the boundary. The Chinese Government holds that this allegation is untenable both factually and logically."

The 1954 Sino-Indian discussions on Tibet were limited to trade and the border question was specifically excluded by mutual consent.

India has, however, since occupied Shipki Pass, Kaurik, Bara Hoti, Sangcha and Lapthal, The British had earlier occupied Nilang and Jadhang.

The question of the boundary between the two countries was not touched on at all in the 1954 Sino-Indian Agreement or during the negotiations. The Chinese side's draft wording for Article IV of the agreement was that 'the Chinese Government agrees to open the following mountain passes in the Ari District of the Tibetan region of China for entry and exit by traders and pilgrims of both parties'. The Indian side disagreed with the Chinese draft; its own draft wording was that 'traders and pilgrims from India and western Tibet may travel by the routes traversing the following localities and passes.' Later on the two sides agreed to change the wording into : 'traders and pilgrims of both countries may travel by the following passes and routes.' The concession made by the Chinese Government was only to adopt a wording which did not involve the ownership of these passes.

"Nobody can draw from this the conclusion that this sector of the boundary between the two countries has thus been fixed. On the contrary, the Chinese representative, Vice-Foreign Minister Chang Han-fu, in his talks with the Indian representative, Ambassador N. Raghavan, on April 23, 1954, clearly stated that the Chinese side did not wish, in those negotiations, to touch on the boundary question. And Ambassador Raghavan agreed forthwith. The Chinese Government, therefore, maintains that there is no ground for saying that this sector of the boundary has been delimited and that there is no need to conduct negotiations for its delimitation."

NEFA

The Tibetan administration always extended to the Tawang area and the Monba tribes. The Sixth Dalai Lama came from these parts. The people continued to pay taxes and render corvee (forced labour) to the Lhasa Government until 1946. The 1853 Anglo-Monba agreement is quoted to prove Monba's acceptance of Lhasa's sovereignty. The British treaties with other NEFA tribes, such as the Akas and Abors, show that their territories were not part of India.

"The Indian Government holds that the so-called McMahon line is the product of the 1914 Simla Conference jointly attended by Britain, China and the Tibet region of China, and is, therefore, valid. The Chinese Government holds that the so-called McMahon Line is wholly illegal, and the Indian Government's assertion is utterly unacceptable to the Chinese Government."

"Many dirty unequal treaties signed by the past Chinese Governments under imperialist oppression have already been proclaimed null and void. The Chinese Government feels perplexed why the Government of India, which has likewise won independence from under imperialist oppression, should insist that the Government of its friend, China, recognise an unequal treaty which the Chinese Government has not even signed.

"The McMahon Line is wholly illegal. The Tibet-Assam border was drawn up in a secret agreement between the British and Tibetan representatives and far from being on the agenda of the Simla Convention, was entirely unknown to the Chinese delegate. Further, China never signed the Simla Convention. The Kuomintang Government repudiated the McMahon Line in a Note delivered to the External Affairs Ministry as late as November 18, 1949. Many authoritative maps published up to 1952 in India and up to 1958 abroad showed the NEFA border as undemarcated."

The assertion that China did not raise any objection to the so-called McMahon Line between China and India is also inconsistent with the facts. It was during the most difficult period of China's war of resistance to Japanese aggression that the so-called McMahon Line gradually and unofficially appeared on Indian maps; and after 1943 the Tibet local authorities were under the firm control of British imperialism and their relations with the Chinese Central Government steadily deteriorated.

During Prime Minister Nehru's visit to China in 1954, Premier Chou En-lai made it clear that the Sino-Indian boundary was yet to be delimited. Premier Chou also said that the reason why the delineation of old maps was followed in Chinese maps was that the Chinese Government had not yet undertaken a survey of China's boundary, nor consulted the countries concerned, and that it would not make changes in the delineation of the boundary on its own. This was reiterated in the memorandum delivered to the Indian Embassy in China by the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs on November 3, 1958. Besides, even the local authorities of Tibet did not regard as reasonable the so-called McMahon Line, which was the product of underhand schemes; they repeatedly objected to this Line and asked for the return of occupied Chinese territory south of the Line. This fact is not denied even by the Indian Government.

On the question of traditional border, the Note stated: "In drawing the boundary (mainly the eastern and western sectors) on its maps, the Indian Government has gone far beyond the extent of its original, actual jurisdiction. The Chinese Government holds that the delineation of the Sino-Indian boundary in current Indian maps, which differ greatly from those in Chinese maps, are not based on any international treaty, and, what is more, are not based on tradition and custom.

A CRITICISM

A brief criticism of the Chinese case is given below.

Despite the great length of the Dec. 26 Note, the Chinese case still appears at many points to rest on negative evidence.

It is alleged that the British treaties with the Akas and Abors show that these tribal territories were not part of India. Therefore, Peking argues, they must, by definition, be Chinese. There is not a shred of evidence to support the claim to 90,000 square kilometers in NEFA and Assam extending as far south as the Brahmaputra plains.

Similarly, if Aksaichin is an Uighur word meaning "the desert of white stones," then Kailas and Mansarowar are equally Indian names. This proves nothing.

Again, if Mr. Nehru's "Discovery of India" carries a map incorrectly showing NEFA as part of Tibet, then Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's "China's Destiny," published in the heyday of the Kuomintang regime, contains a map of China and adjacent areas in which Tibet is shaded as a separate entity.

If the Sixth Dalai Lama came from the Tawang area, some of the other Dalai and Panchen Lamas have also been discovered outside Tibet.

If the Monbas and other Indian border people are of Tibetan stock, then the Chinese claim should extend to Nepal, Bhutan, Sikkim and the whole of Ladakh. The argument is absurd and unhistorical.

The Dec. 26 Chinese Note claims that geography—the watershed principle—supports its case in Ladakh. It quotes Hayward (1870), author of the "Sketch Map of Eastern Turkestan," as stating "explicitly that the boundary ran along the main chain of the Karakoram mountains to the passes in Chang Chenmo." This position would appear to conflict with the Chinese acceptance of the Karakoram Pass as the Sino-Indian border in their Note of November 1, 1958.

In the "war of maps," the Chinese have politely dismissed all the Chinese and Indian maps that are against them and make no reference to the mass of historical data presented by India in its earlier correspondence.

Peking never once protested that the new Indian maps had incorporated Chinese territory. The most they ever said was that their maps were based on older maps and would be corrected. The impression given all along was that only minor adjustments may be sought.

The Simla convention was initialled by the Chinese delegation, but was never formally ratified by China on account of the differences relating to the borders between Inner and Outer Tibet. The McMahon Line was never questioned even when the matter was reopened in 1919.

It is true that the border has not been physically demarcated on the ground along certain sectors. But it is delimited on the basis of treaty, custom and usage and the very significant and highly valid geographical principle of the watershed.

In every sector from NEFA to Ladakh, the Indian border, with a few recognised exceptions follows the crest of the main mountain range that divides Central Asia and the Indian subcontinent.

Earlier Indian maps sometimes did not mark every sector of the border. But there are very early maps such as Walker's map of 1867 which do so. The more recent omissions have been filled in on the basis of accurate and up-to-date surveys and interpretation of data. In this process, India has given up portions of territory such as the depression north of the Karakoram Pass, which had been claimed by early Indian surveyors. The lines on the Chinese maps have travelled up and down through Ladakh and very few editions of even recent maps show the same line.

The Chinese Consul in Delhi, some years ago, defined Bara Hoti as being within India. He was later repudiated by his Government. Later a Chinese delegation failed to give the exact latitude and longitude of Bara Hoti in the course of several weeks of painful negotiations in Delhi. This is an illustration of how vague some Chinese claims are.

NEGOTIATIONS

The Chinese Prime Minister came to New Delhi on April 19, 1960 at the invitation of the Indian Government and stayed till April 26. During his stay discussions were held about the India-China border question.

Just before the Chinese Prime Minister left a communique was issued—on April 25.

The communique said that the two Prime Ministers explained fully to each other their respective stands on the problems affecting the border areas. This led to greater understanding of the views of the two Governments, but the talks did not result in resolving the differences that had arisen.

The two Prime Ministers were of the opinion that further examination should take place by officials of the two sides of the factual material in the possession of both the Governments.

The two Prime Ministers, therefore, agreed the officials of the two Governments should meet and examine, check and study all historical documents, records, accounts, maps and other material relevant to the boundary in support of its stand, and draw up a report for submission to the two Governments. This report would list the points on which there was agreement and the points on which there was disagreement or which should be examined more fully and clarified.

This report should prove helpful towards further consideration of those problems by the two Governments.

It was further agreed that the officials should meet from June to September, 1960, alternately in the capitals of the two countries. The first meeting should take place in Peking and the officials would report to the two Governments by the end of September, 1960.

During the period of further examination of the factual material, every effort should be made by the parties to avoid friction and clashes in the border areas.

Accordingly a team of External Affairs Ministry officials left New Delhi on June 6 for Peking for talks with Chinese officials on the Sino-Indian border dispute.

The team was headed by Mr. J. S. Mehta, Director of the China Division of the Ministry, and included Dr. S. Gopal, Director of the Historical Division, Mr. V. V. Tarapore, Mr. T. S. Murthy and Mr. G. Narayana Rao were advisers.

The report of the team which was signed on Dec. 12, 1960 at Rangoon, was placed before the Parliament on February 14, 1961. The correctness of the traditional Sino-Indian boundary as shown in Indian maps, China's aggression and unlawful occupation of 12,000 square miles of Indian territory and Chinese duplicity over the years on the frontier question have been clearly brought out in the report. The report also shows that China has now openly declined to recognise the accession of Jammu and Kashmir State to India and has gone back on Premier Chou En-lai's acceptance in April 1960 of India's relations with Bhutan and Sikkim.

The report is a damning indictment of the Peking Government which has been totally unable to substantiate its sweeping claims to some 50,000 square miles of Indian territory except by the fact of stealthy and illegal occupation of nearly a quarter of this area in Aksaichin and Eastern Ladakh.

On the other hand the alignment of the Indian border has been upheld in every sector by a mass of evidence based on geography, tradition, treaty, international law and an impressive and unbroken series of administrative and other records spanning several centuries. Numerous Chinese maps and reports are also quoted in support of the Indian contention.

The evidence by the Chinese team is scanty, imprecise, inconsistent and of recent origin. Far from assisting the Chinese, it lends powerful support to the Indian case.

The Indian side commanded an impressive array of evidence to prove beyond doubt that various important nodal points on the border such as Demchok, Khurnak, Lanak La, the Chang Chenmo Valley and Aksaichin (in the western sector), and Kaurik, Shipki Pass, Nilang-Jadhang, Bara-Hoti, Sannchamalla and Lapthal (in the middle sector) had always been part of India.

SANCTION OF TREATIES CITED

TRADITIONAL BOUNDARIES

For all the three sectors, the Indian side also proved that the traditional boundaries had received the sanction of treaties—in the western sector the treaties of 1684 and 1842 and subsequent diplomatic correspondence; in the middle sector formal communications of 1890, 1914, and 1950 and the agreement of 1954; and in the eastern sector the formalisation of the boundary in 1914.

Among the documents brought forward by the Indian side is a Note presented by the Government of China in 1947 recognising the validity of this agreement.

EVIDENCE OF MAPS

The Chinese officials sought to suggest that India had few or no maps to support the Indian alignment. The analysis of the evidence of maps and surveys furnished by the two sides, however, clearly shows that while the Chinese side had cited very few maps and even these had been erroneously interpreted, the vast bulk of official and unofficial maps from foreign, Indian, and, indeed, even from Chinese sources went to corroborate the Indian alignment. Indeed, not a single official Chinese map published prior to 1950 was cited by the Chinese side in support of the Chinese alignment.

Faced with this enormous array of Indian evidence, the Chinese side could neither refute it nor produce any comparable evidence of their own.

TRUE BOUNDARY

The Chinese set out to prove that the traditional boundary was the one shown by them but that this had never been formally delimited. They, therefore, pleaded for the setting up of a joint boundary commission. The Indian side defeated the first proposition in detail and proved that the second was superfluous as international law recognised well-defined natural and traditional borders as delimited.

The Indian report concluded with these words: "The positive Indian evidence as well as the analysis of the Chinese evidence establish indisputably that the true traditional boundary between India and China is that defined in the description provided by the Indian side at the commencement of these discussion.

The title of India is an ancient and immemorial one and no major dispute regarding it existed till just over 12 months ago.

"The majestic arc of Kuen Lun and the great Himalayan ranges forming the most impressive natural boundary in the world, has been recognised by tradition and custom for centuries, has determined the limits of administration on both sides and has received confirmation, for different sectors at different times during the last 300 years, in valid international agreements. The facts, therefore, demand respect for this boundary defined by nature, confirmed by history and sanctified by the laws of nations."

The Prime Minister emphatically declared in the Parliament that the Sino-Indian frontier question could be settled only when the Chinese vacated the Indian territory they had occupied and when they "broadly acknowledged" the Indian position on the frontier. Mr. Nehru assured that the Government of India is going ahead with its programme of strengthening defence, along the Sino-Indian border by developing road and other communications.

The Chinese reply to the Indian Note of June 19 on the question of the trijunction of the boundaries of India, Burma and China is believed to reiterate the earlier Chinese memoranda on the subject rejecting the Indian interpretation of the trijunction as defined in the Sino-Burmese treaty map and even challenging India's right to raise the issue arbitrarily.

Sind-Burmese Border Pact:—The specific geographical location of the south-eastern extremity is given in the treaty, whereas no such location is given for the western extremity.

When the Govt. of India informed the Chinese and Burmese Governments that it could not accept the delineation of the "Western extremity" on the Sino-Burmese border in the map appended to their border agreement the Burmese Prime Minister made a statement in the chamber of deputies that the "Western extremity of the Sino-Burmese boundary would remain indeterminate until an agreement was reached on the Sino-Indian border". This western extremity is the point where the three international boundaries meet, these being the boundry between Burma and China, the boundary between Burma and India and the boundary between China and India. Of these the boundary between China and Burma has been settled by the Sino-Burmese Border Agreement.

Sino-Pakistan Border Negotiation: Pakistan has been anxious to demarcate the frontier between Sinkiang and the Gilgit and Hunza regions of Pak-occupied Kashmir along the Karakorum ranges. The Pakistan Government has expressed that any agreement regarding the above border entered into between India and China would not be binding on Pakistan.

India sought elucidation of the Pakistan Foreign Minister's statement that China had agreed to negotiate a border agreement with Pakistan. Mr. Nehru also made a statement in parliament on Feb. 15, 1961 that India would not recognise any agreement between Pakistan and China on the border of Pak-occupied Kashmir. The Pakistan President reaffirmed Pakistan's right to negotiate demarcation of the border with Communist China in respect of territories under its occupation.

Pakistan had made certain proposals to Peking in connection with the demarcation of Pak-occupied Kashmir with China. But Pakistan's overtures to China for demarcation of the boundary has not evoked any great response from China. After the reply from Pakistan to India's note, that it was under no obligation to clarify its statement that it intended to hold border negotiations with China, there had been no development. In India's view Mr. Nehru explained in the Lok Sabha that there was no common border on which Pakistan and China could hold negotiations. The only commonness arose from the fact that Pakistan was in unlawful occupation of certain areas of Kashmir. Pakistan is awaiting the next move from China in the negotiations for demarcation of the border.

THE PUNJAB

Capital: Chandigarh.

Area: 47,084 square miles.

Total Population (1961 Census provisional): 20,298,151.

(Males 10,866,910. Females 9,431,241.

Literacy (1961): 23·7 per cent; Males 32·4 per cent; Females 13·7 per cent. Density 431 per sq. mile; Sex ratio 868 females for 1,000 males; Percentage increase 1951-61: 25·80.

Main Occupation: Agriculture (66.5 per cent).

Languages spoken: Punjabi, Western Hindi, Pahari.

The number of seats allotted to the Punjab:—in Lok Sabha 22: Rajya Sabha 11; in the State Vidhan Sabha 154; in the Punjab Legislative Council 51.

Administrative Divisions: 3; Districts: 19; Tahsils 73; Towns 194; Villages 21,516.

Divisions: Ambala, Jullundur, Patiala.

Names of districts (with headquarters in brackets): Hissar (Hissar), Rohtak (Rohtak), Gurgaon (Gurgaon), Karnal (Karnal), Ambala (Ambala), Hoshiarpur (Hoshiarpur), Amritsar (Amritsar), Jullundur (Jullundur), Ludhiana (Ludhiana), Ferozepore (Ferozepore), Gurdaspur (Gurdaspur), Kangra (Kangra), Simla (Simla), Patiala (Patiala), Bhatinda (Bhatinda), Sangrur (Sangrur), Kapurthala (Kapurthala), Mahendragarh (Narnaul), Lahaul and Spiti (Keylong).

POPULATION

The population District-wise is given under "Population" in Late Particulars.

There are 12 District Boards, 175 Municipal Committees, two Notified Area Committees and a Panchayat in every village with a population of over 500.

REGIONS

In the Zonal Division the Punjab falls within the northern Zone, comprising the States of Punjab, Rajasthan and Jammu and Kashmir and the Union territories of Delhi and Himachal Pradesh.

For the more convenient transaction of business with regard to some specified matters, the State is divided into two regions, the Punjabi-speaking and the Hindi-speaking regions.

The Hindi region consists of the districts of Kangra, Simla, Karnal, Rohtak, Gurgaon, Hissar, Mohindergarh, Ambala district, excluding the Rupar and Chandigarh Assembly constituencies, Jind and Narwana tehsils of Sangrur district.

The Punjabi region consists of the districts of Gurdaspur, Amritsar, Bhatinda, Jullundur, Hoshiarpur, Ferozepur, Ludhiana, Kapurthala, the Rupar and Chandigarh Assembly constituencies in Ambala district, Patiala district and Sangrur district, excluding the Jind and Narwana tehsils.

The Chandigarh capital project will not form part of either of the two regions. So long, however, as it does not become a full-fledged constituency on a population basis, its representative will sit in the Regional Committee for the Punjabi region.

For each region there is a regional committee of the State Assembly consisting of the members of the State Assembly belonging to that region including the Ministers from the region but not including the Chief Minister.

The Regional Committees have been empowered to make proposals with regard to questions of general policy not involving any financial commitments other than expenditure of a routine and incidental character.

The advice tendered by the regional committees will normally be accepted by the Government and the State Legislature. In case of difference of opinion, reference will be made to the Governor whose decision will be final and binding.

The regional committees will deal with the following matters: (i) Development and economic planning, within the framework of the general development plans and policies formulated by the State Legislature; (ii) Local Self-Government, that is to say, the constitutional powers of municipal corporations, improvement trusts, district boards and other local authorities for the purpose of local self-Government or village administration including "Panchayats"; (iii) Public health and sanitation, local hospitals and dispensaries; (iv) Primary and secondary education; (v) Agriculture; (vi) Cottage and small-scale industries; (vii) Preservation, protection and improvement of stock and prevention of animal diseases, veterinary training and practice; (viii) Pounds and prevention of cattle trespass; (ix) Protection of wild animals and birds; (x) Fisheries; (xi) Inns and Inn-keepers; (xii) Markets and fairs; (xiii) Co-operative Societies and (xiv) Charities and charitable institutions, charitable and religious endowments and religious institutions.

Language Policy: The Sachar formula will continue to operate in the area comprised in the former Punjab State; and in the area comprised in the former PEPSU State, the existing arrangements will continue until they are replaced or altered by agreement later.

The official language of each region will, at the district level and below, be the respective regional language.

The State is bi-lingual recognising both Punjabi (in Gurmukhi script) and Hindi (in Devnagri script) as the official languages of the State.

Hindi or Punjabi (as the case may be) will be the medium of instruction in all schools in its region upto the matriculation standard and the other language shall be taught as a compulsory language from the last class of the primary department upto the matriculation stage and in the case of girls in the girls' schools in the middle classes only.

On the administrative side the State Government envisages a gradual switch-over from English and Urdu as official and court languages to Hindi and Punjabi.

The Punjab High Court has decided to introduce Hindi in the Hindi region and Punjabi in the Punjabi region as court languages up to the district level from January 2, 1962.

INDUSTRIES

The total number of registered factories in 1958-59 was 3,500 (approximately).

No. of workers engaged in these factories: over a lakh.

Some of the main industries in Punjab are textile, hosiery, sports, cycle and cycle parts, sewing machines, cement, sugar, starch factories, non-ferrous metals, resin and turpentine, scientific instruments, paper and wool spinning and weaving units.

Production of important industries in the State during 1958-59: Cotton textile 6,07,20,300 yards—1,61,54,700 lbs.; Powerloom weaving Rs. 5·74 crores; Woollen goods Rs. 4·27 crores; Hosiery Rs. 3·68 crores; Machine Embroidery Rs. 62 lakhs; Machine tools and Agriculture implements Rs. 3·78 crores; Bicycles 2,98,420 (Nos.) and Bicycle parts Rs. 3·24 crores; Sewing Machine 52,000 (Nos.); Sewing Machine parts Rs. 1·12 crores; Wood & Machine Screws Rs. 60·56 lakhs; Bolts & Nuts Rs. 60·88 lakhs; Steel re-rolling 51·454 tons; Non-Ferrous Metal Rs. 5·04 crores; Conduit pipes Rs. 24·85 lakhs; Sports goods Rs. 78·85 lakhs; Sugar 80,000 tons; Glass Rs. 15·75 lakhs; Paper 15,500 tons; Cement 4,80,162 tons; Scientific instruments Rs. 35 lakhs and Resin & turpentine Rs. 1,92,10,500.

The third machine tool factory in the public sector was to be erected near Pinjore, about three miles from Kalka (July 1961).

Financed by the Centre, the factory, which will cost between Rs. 8 and 10 crores, will be erected by technicians of H.M.T.

AGRICULTURE

In the matter of food production, Punjab is the second largest wheat and gram producing area in the Union, third in barley and maize, fourth in bajra and sugarcane, while it produces considerable quantities of jawar, cotton, rice, rape, mustard and small quantities of tea, tobacco, groundnut and linseed. The production of cotton in the Punjab amounts to one-fifth of the total production of the country.

During the year 1958-59 the Punjab's production of foodgrains reached 6,076,000 tons and oilseeds 2,22,000 tons as against the targets of production of foodgrains of 5,941,000 tons and oilseeds 1,85,000 to be achieved by the end of the 2nd Five Year Plan—1960-61. It was expected that the targets of cotton 1,050,000 bales and sugarcane 780,000 tons would also be achieved by 1960-61.

Area and Production of Principal Crops (1958-59):

ELECTRIC POWER

1958-59: No. of 11/04 KV sub-stations: 3,320; installed generating capacity: 144 MW; firm: 100 MW; energy generated: 630·54 mln. kWh.

The main sources of electric supply in the State are (1) Uhl River Hydro-Electric Scheme at Joginder Nagar where four sets of 12,000 kW. each, including one stand-by, are installed, (2) The Nangal Power House I at Ganguwal with 3 units of 24,000 kW. each, all the three are working, (3) The Nangal Power House II at Kotla with 3 units of 24,000 kW. each, all the three are working, (4) Bhakra Dam—Left Bank Power House with six generating units of 90,000 kW. each and (5) Bhakra Dam—Right Bank Power House with five generating units of 90,000 kW. each.

Panchayats

Number of panchayats: 11,407.

Activities of the Panchayats in Punjab from 1951-52 to 1958-59: Number of school buildings constructed 6,916; Number of libraries started 6,188; Number of reading rooms started 2,731; Panchayat Ghar constructed 3,240; Number of panchayats with community listening sets 4,500; Length of road constructed 9,103 miles; Roads and public paths repaired 3,373; Number of culverts constructed 5,824; Number of buildings constructed for dispensaries 216; Number of wells constructed, 6,886; Number of buildings constructed for veterinary dispensaries and First aid centres 201; No. of Maternity centres opened 137; Number of cases decided upto 31-3-1959 by the Panchayats 6,14,671 (civil & revenue 3,10,566, criminal 3,14,105).

During the year 1957-58, Rs. 5,950 were awarded as cash prizes to 22 Panchayats.

The President has given assent to the Punjab Panchayat Samitis and Zila Parishads Bill, 1960. The legislation seeks to abolish the district boards and replace them by Panchayat Samitis at tehsil or block level and Zila Parishads at district level.

The Punjab Government had decided formally to introduce "Panchayat Raj" in the State with effect from October 12, 1961.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN

During the Second Five-Year Plan an outlay of Rs. 162·68 crores as finally approved by the Planning Commission, had been provided for the integrated State. During the first four years a sum of Rs. 116·07 crores was spent which amounts to 71·4 per cent of the total outlay.

During 1960-61 an expenditure of Rs. 36·34 crores was proposed to be incurred bringing the total effective ceiling of the Plan to Rs. 152·41 crores as per details given below:

	Main Heads	Crores
I.	Agriculture and Rural Development except Community Projects ..	18·07

SHIROMANI GURDWARA PARBANDHAK COMMITTEE, AMRITSAR

(Teja Singh Samundri Hall, Amritsar.)

The Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee is constituted under the provisions of the Sikh Gurdwaras Act, 1925 (Punjab Act VIII of 1925). It consists of:

(i) 140 elected members;

(ii) Head Priests of Golden Temple, Amritsar and the following four Takhats (a) Akal Takhat Sahib, Amritsar; (b) Takhat Keshgarh Sahib, Anandpur; (c) Takhat Patna Sahib, Patna; and (d) Takhat Hazur Sahib, Nanded (Bombay) and

(iii) Fifteen members resident in India of whom at least ten are residents of the States other than the Punjab State co-opted by the members of the S.G.P.C., as described in clauses (i) and (ii).

Every Sikh man or woman, more than 21 years of age, who resides in the Punjab is entitled to have his name registered on the electoral roll of a constituency formed for the election of a member or members of the board provided he does not trim or shave his beard or Keshas except in case of Sehajdhari Sikh and does not smoke or take alcoholic drinks. Every voter is eligible for election provided he is not of unsound mind, is not an undischarged insolvent, is not an apostate from the Sikh religion, does not take alcoholic drinks, is not a Minister of a Notified Sikh Gurdwara, other than mentioned above in clause (ii), is not a paid servant of any Notified Sikh Gurdwara, being a Keshadhari Sikh is not an Amritdhari and can read and write Gurmukhi.

Elections to the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee are held every five years. Dates for the elections are fixed by the State Government and the preparation of electoral rolls and other arrangements are also made by the State Government.

The Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee directly manages some of the important and historic Sikh Gurdwaras situated within the Punjab. All the above mentioned Gurdwaras are administered by a Committee of Management consisting of five members of whom four are elected by the voters of the constituency concerned and one member is nominated by the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee. The S.G.P.C. supervises the affairs of these Gurdwaras.

A Judicial Commission is also constituted under the provisions of the Sikh Gurdwaras Act to settle disputes regarding the management of the Gurdwaras. This commission has the same powers as are vested in a Court by the Code of Civil Procedure, and the Commission has unlimited jurisdiction as regards the value of the suits throughout the Punjab.

Under the provisions of the Sikh Gurdwaras Act, the S.G.P.C. and the Gurdwaras under its control and supervision can spend their funds for religious, charitable, educational or industrial purposes and also for such non-political purposes as are connected with the general uplift and welfare of the Sikhs. Its accounts are annually audited by the Auditors appointed by the State Government.

In the last Gurdwara elections held on Jan. 17, 1960 out of 140 members elected 136 members were elected on the Shiromani Akali Dal ticket and four on the Sadh Sangant Board, that is, Congress Sikhs ticket.

The total strength of the S.G.P.C. is 160.

At the first General Meeting of the S.G.P.C. held on 7th March, 1960, Master Tara Singh, the Akali Leader, was elected President, S.G.P.C. unanimously. The other office-bearers and the members of the Executive Committee as also the Dharam Parchar Committee were also elected unanimously. All of them belong to the Shiromani Akali Dal.

The S.G.P.C. manages about 700 Gurdwaras in the Punjab.

The S.G.P.C. also runs an Arts College, Shri Guru Nanak Khalsa College, Matunga, Bombay, an Industrial College and School and several High Schools, hospitals, and libraries.

Budget 1960-61: Revenue Estimates Rs. 45 lakhs. Expenditure Rs. 44·95 lakhs.

The President of Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee is ex-officio member and Chairman of the Dharam Parchar Committee.

MAHARASHTRA-MYSORE BORDER DISPUTE

A memorandum on the question was presented on behalf of the then Bombay Government to the Western Zonal Council on July 25, 1957. This was later followed up with a resolution in the then Bombay Assembly which urged the Central Government to take steps to solve the dispute.

The Marathi-speaking areas affected by the dispute are principally in the Districts of Belgaum and North Kanara and secondarily in the Districts of Bidar and Gulbarga.

The Kannada-speaking areas affected by the dispute are in the Districts of Sholapur, South Satara and Kolhapur.

The memorandum advocates the acceptance of the village as the unit for the purpose of demarcation of boundaries, with territorial contiguity and a simple linguistic majority as the other two factors.

On the basis of these principles, 814 Marathi-speaking villages, with a population of 451,844, will be transferred from Mysore to Bombay, and 260 Kannada-speaking villages, with a population of 205,545, from Bombay to Mysore.

The dispute has been going on for some time without arriving at any settlement. Despite several meetings of the four-men Maharashtra-Mysore Boundary Mediation Committee during June 1961 to resolve the dispute between these two disputes, the problem still remains unresolved.

The main reason for this stalemate is the failure of both the States in finding a solution to this border dispute for such a long time. On Sept. 9, 1961, the Marathi-speaking people of the border areas met at Belgaum and declared emphatically that this boundary dispute must be solved by November 1. It was also stated that even if there was delay on the part of the Mysore Government the Maharashtrian representatives on the four-man border committee should submit their report without waiting for the report of the Mysore representatives. Inclusion of names of people in the border areas in the electoral rolls for the General Elections was also insisted upon and the people urged that the Mysore Chief Minister, Mr. B. D. Jatti's declaration that the teaching of Kannada would not be compulsory in Marathi Schools was properly implemented. All along all these years, ever since the States in India were reorganised on linguistic basis, the Mysore Government has never been agreeable to accept a solution of this border problem, based on the Pataskar formula of taking village as a linguistic unit. Some years ago the Madras-Andhra dispute was resolved by the same formula with a give and take spirit and now no bickerings are heard from either of those States. The demand of the Maharashtra State to include Belgaum, Bidar and Karwar in it together with the retention of Sholapur City, Akkalkot City and South Sholapur Taluka which the Kannadigas want to be included in Mysore State are proved in numerous documents to be "culturally, historically and geographically part and parcel of Maharashtra since long", according to the Maharashtra version.

The commission has completed examination of the claims and counter claims of the contested regions with the help of a large map of the entire demarcation line between the two States, showing in detail the distribution of population in the disputed areas right down to the village level. The committee has gone through all the stages of procedure and what now only remains is for the Committee to record its view. Mr. Pataskar was desirous to complete the work within a month's time, that is by Sept. end. The Mysore representatives are expected to submit their report to the Centre by the end of 1961.

CALENDAR

The second General Elections started on 24th Feb. 1957 and ended on July 15. The first States to go to the polls were Orissa and the Punjab and the last was the Union Territory of Himachal Pradesh where the elections began on 24th May and ended on 7th June. In this last mentioned State the elections began long after they ended elsewhere (March 14) because of heavy snow during the earlier part of the year. Almost all election returns were reported by the 31st of March.

Below we give the Calendar of the elections:

Andhra: February 25, March 1, 4, 7 and 11. (In Andhra Pradesh, the Assembly elections were confined to the Telangana area and the Prodattur and Bhadrachalam constituencies of the old Andhra State).

Assam: February 25, March 2, 6, 9, 10, 11 and 15.

Manipur: February 25, March 2 and 11.

Bihar: February 25–26, 28, March 1 to 12.

Bombay: February 25, March 2, 6 and 11.

Kerala: February 28, March 2, 5, 7, 9 and 11.

Madras: March 1, 4, 6, 8 and 11.

Madhya Pradesh: February 25, 28, March 1–10.

Mysore: February 25, 26, 28, March 1–12.

Orissa: February 24, 25, 28, March 1–9, 11 and 12.

Punjab: February 24, 26–28, March 1–14, (Polling in the snowbound areas of Kangra was held on June 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 11, 14, 16, 20 and 25 and July 2, 15).

Himachal Pradesh: Owing to heavy snow, polling was delayed. It began on May 24 and ended on June 7. May 24–31 and June 1 to 7.

Rajasthan: February 25, 27, 28, March 1–9, 11 and 12.

Uttar Pradesh: February 25, 28, March 3, 6, 9 and 12.

West Bengal: March 1–14.

Delhi: March 3.

Tripura: March 1, 5, 9 and 12.

The polling for the Presidentship took place on the 6th of May, and the result was declared on the 10th. Five candidates filed their nomination papers. The nomination papers of two were rejected. The three candidates who contested the election were Dr. Rajendra Prasad (Rashtrapati Bhawan, New Delhi), Mr. Nagendra Narayan Das (Gauhati, Assam), and Chowdhury Hari Ram (Rohtak, Punjab).

The result of the poll was as follows:

Dr. Prasad—4,59,698; Mr. Das—2,000; Chowdhury Hari Ram—1,498.

For the Vice-Presidentship the poll was to take place on 11th May. But as Dr. S. Radhakrishnan was the only candidate he was declared elected on 23rd April.

A point of some legal interest was that at the time of the Presidential election the Parliamentary constituencies in Himachal and Kangra in the Punjab had not completed the election to the Lok Sabha. The Kulu Assembly constituency had also not completed its election to the Punjab Assembly. A constitutional doubt was raised. But the view eventually taken was that in view of the provisions of Sec. 73 of the Representation of the People Act the election was perfectly valid.

FACTS AND FIGURES

The total number of voters enrolled in 1956 in the whole country (excluding Jammu and Kashmir and Andaman and Minicoy Islands) was over 193 millions (193,652,069. Women voters: 92,141,597 or 94 per cent of adult women). The estimated total population of the country, excluding the above areas, in 1956 was about 384 millions. Thus, about 50·4 per cent of the total population was entered in the electoral rolls or about 96 per cent of the adult population. The percentage of the adult population (persons over 21 years) is estimated at about 51 per cent. The enrolment of voters can thus be claimed to have been almost exhaustive.

The task of organising and carrying through the elections was completed with the wholehearted co-operation of the electorate, political parties, candidates and Government. In all about 1,166,459 Government servants participated in the election operations in different capacities. Similarly, about 363,000 persons who were not Government officials also took part in the work.

Expenditure

The figures of expenditure on the general election State-wise are as follows (Rs.):

Andhra 72,02,189; Assam 17,05,410; Bihar 62,69,861; Bombay 52,22,384; Kerala 18,47,000; M.P. 34,62,111; Madras 58,86,472; Mysore 34,59,625; Orissa 34,89,293; Punjab 26,15,512; Rajasthan 30,91,464; U.P. 86,37,035; W. Bengal 52,74,021; Delhi 1,75,024; Himachal 3,06,732; Manipur 1,17,850; Tripura 2,59,803.

Total: Rs. 5,90,21,786.

Out of this an amount of Rs. 21,08,660 was realized through forfeiture of deposits, receipts from sale of rolls, inspection fees, fees for inclusion of names after final publication, and for copying.

The expenditure on the preparation of electoral rolls between 1952-53 and 1956-57 was about Rs. 6 crores. This is shared between the Centre and the States on a 50 : 50 basis.

The entire requirements of indelible ink was supplied by the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research. The number of phials used was 3,16,707 as against 3,89,816 in the first elections.

CANDIDATES

The total no. of candidates nominated was 18,765. Out of these 18,392 made the necessary deposits. The total sum deposited for the Lok Sabha was Rs. 10,24,500 and for the Assemblies Rs. 37,25,538.

The position about the forfeiture of deposits was as follows:

For the Lok Sabha 496 candidates forfeited their deposits (Congress 2, P.S.P. 55, Communists 15, Jan Sangh 58, Other parties 40, Independents 326).

For the Assemblies 4,359 candidates forfeited their deposits (Congress 51, P.S.P. 405, Communists 183, Jan Sangh 365, Other parties 218, Independents 3,037).

The number of candidates who incurred disqualification for failure to submit election expenses and of those whose disqualification was removed were as follows:

Lok Sabha 267 and 70; Assemblies 2,562 and 288.

Uncontested returns were:

Lok Sabha 12, all Congressmen (Andhra 4, Assam 2, Bihar 2, Madhya Pradesh 1, Mysore 2, Madras 1).

State Assemblies 48 (43 Congress, 5 Independents),—Andhra 4 Congressmen; Assam 4 Congressmen and 3 others; Bombay 3 Congressmen; Kerala 1 Independent; M.P. 9 Congressmen; Madras 3 Congressmen; Mysore 7 Congress and 1 Independent; Orissa 1 Congressman; the Punjab 1 Congressman; Rajasthan 5 Congressmen; U.P. 5 Congressmen; W. Bengal 1 Congressman.

Twenty-seven women were elected to the Lok Sabha and 195 to the various State Assemblies in the second general elections as compared with 21 and 80 respectively in the first general elections.

Twenty-three women elected to the Lok Sabha belonged to the Congress Party, two to the Communist Party and two to the Chota Nagpur Santhal Parganas Janata Party.

Of those elected to the State Assemblies, 179 belonged to the Congress, four to the Communist Party, one to the People's Democratic Front, two to the Chota Nagpur Santhal Parganas Janata Party, three to the Ganatantra Parishad and the remaining six are Independents.

The Bihar Assembly had 32 women, the largest for any State, followed by Madhya Pradesh with 27, Uttar Pradesh with 26, Bombay with 25 and Mysore with 18.

Seventeen Scheduled Castes and Tribes candidates were elected to general seats.

Of these four were elected to the Lok Sabha (one each in Andhra, Kerala, W. Bengal and Tripura) and 13 to the State Assemblies (one each in Andhra, Bombay, Madras, Orissa and U.P.; two in Assam and three each in Kerala and W. Bengal).

POLL

Some particulars about the poll are given below:

For a parliamentary constituency the highest percentage of polling was 75·68 in Kottayam (Kerala and the lowest 16·94 at Kangra (Punjab). For an Assembly constituency the highest was 83·20 in Karad North (Bombay) and the lowest 11·62 at Udaigiri (Orissa).

At 21 polling stations not a single vote was cast.

During the first general election there were 93 cases in which the poll had to be adjourned. In the second the number was 34.

Re-poll was ordered in the first elections at 107 stations because the ballot boxes were damaged. In the 1957 elections re-poll was ordered only in 31 cases. The number of constituencies affected was 22 in six States.

Tendered votes: 58,887 (first elections); 43,422 (second).

The maximum number of contestants for an Assembly seat was 11 in a single-member constituency and 16 in a two-member one, the corresponding figures for Lok Sabha being eight and 11 respectively.

The single-member Assembly constituencies of Gaya in Bihar, Jodhpur City I and Fatehpur in Rajasthan, Chillupar in Uttar Pradesh and Sandeshkhali in West Bengal had 11 candidates each, while the two-member constituencies of Jahanabad in Bihar and Sirsa in the Punjab had each 16 contestants in the field.

In the elections to the Lok Sabha, there were eight contestants in the Rewa (Madhya Pradesh) single-member constituency and 11 in the Nawada (Bihar) two-member constituency.

In the first general elections there were 181 cases of interchange of ballot boxes and 692 cases of interchange of ballot papers. A re-poll was ordered in 43 cases.

In the second general elections there were 70 cases of interchange of ballot boxes and 265 cases of ballot papers. Re-poll was ordered in 11 cases.

No. of electoral offences in connection with the poll: 1,250 (first general elections); 1,000 (second).

There were only two cases in which a contesting candidate died before the commencement of the poll.

There was one constituency in which only one candidate filed nomination papers. He withdrew his candidature before the poll.

The narrowest win—one vote—was at the Galsi constituency in Burdwan Dt. (W. Bengal). Another narrow win—two votes—was at Sirmour in Rewa Dt. (M.P.).

No. of policemen deputed for polling duty: 2,73,762; of village chowkidars: 1,68,281.

The position about election petitions pertaining to the general elections was as follows (March 15, 1960):—Seven were pending before Election Tribunals, five before High Courts, and ten before the Supreme Court.

PARTIES, SYMBOLS

The Election Commission recognised four parties at the national level. They were the Congress, the Praja-Socialist Party, the Communist Party and the Jan Sangh. Eleven other parties were recognised at the State level. Besides, more than 30 parties or groups fought the elections on their own or in association with others in different States.

As already mentioned, four parties were recognized as all-India parties:

The Indian National Congress, the Praja Socialist Party, the Communist Party, the Bharatiya Jan Sangh. These parties had the same symbols as in the previous general election. Congress (two bullocks with a yoke), Communists (ears of corn with sickle), P.-S.P. (hut), Jan Sangh (oil lamp with wick).

The State parties and their symbols:

(1) *All-India Scheduled Castes Federation (Andhra Pradesh, Bombay, Madhya Pradesh, Mysore, Punjab, Delhi and Himachal Pradesh —Elephant). (2) All-India Forward Bloc—Marxist (West Bengal—standing lion). (3) All-India Ganatantra Parishad (Orissa—bow and arrow). (4) Akhil Bharat Hindu Mahasabha (Bombay, Madhya Pradesh and West Bengal—horse and rider). (5) Akhil Bharat Ram Rajya Parishad (Bombay, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh—rising sun). (6) Chota Nagpur and Santhal Parganas Janata Party (Bihar—cycle). (7) Jharkhand Party (Bihar—cock). (8) Peasants' and Workers' Party (Andhra Pradesh, Bombay and Mysore—cart). (9) The People's Democratic Front (Andhra Pradesh—human hand). (10) Revolutionary Socialist Party Kerala—Spade and stoker). (11) Tripura Ganatantrik Sangha (Tripura—ladder). (12) Praja Party (Andhra Pradesh—Rising sun).

The standard for recognition as a party was a minimum of three per cent of the valid votes polled in the Assembly or the electoral college elections.

Twelve parties which applied for recognition as national parties and 43 parties which applied for recognition as State parties were not granted the recognition asked for.

POST-GENERAL ELECTION POLLS

Below we give notes on three elections held after the General Elections of 1957.

RAJYA SABHA

Under the constitution a third of the members of the Rajya Sabha have to retire every two years. Thus the term of 76 members (72 elected and 4 nominated) expired on April 2, 1960. Elections were held on March 24 except for Bombay where they were held on March 19.

Of the 76 members who retired twelve were from the opposition.

State-wise the vacancies were:

Andhra Pradesh 6; Assam 3; Bihar 7; Bombay 9; Kerala 3; Madhya Pradesh 5; Madras 6; Mysore 4; Orissa 4; Punjab 4; Rajasthan 3; Uttar Pradesh 11; West Bengal 5; Delhi 1, and Manipur 1.

The nominations were to be filed by March 4, the date of scrutiny was March 7 and the last date for the withdrawal of candidates was March 10.

One hundred and eighteen candidates filed their nominations. The State-wise figures were:

Andhra 8, Bombay 18, Kerala 7, M.P. 16, Madras 13, Mysore 10, Orissa 7, the Punjab 19, West Bengal 6, Manipur 6.

Party-wise the nominations were:

Congress 54, P.S.P. 4, Communists 6, Socialists 2, Jan Sangh 1, Swatantra 1 (Punjab), Ganatantra Parishad 3, Samyukta Maharashtra 3, Mahagujarat Janata Parishad 3, Independents 33.

The results of the elections which were announced on March 25 were as follows:

Congress 56, P.S.P. 5, Communists 2, Samyukta Maharashtra Samiti 2, Muslim League 1, Ganatantra Parishad 2, Independents 4.

Thirty-one of the sitting members were elected and 41 were new.

KERALA ELECTIONS

General elections to the Kerala Legislative Assembly were held on February 1, 1960.

The following table gives an analysis:

Jan Sangh	3	Nil	5,277
Independents	19	2	77,725

Votes polled by Independents are those polled by 23 candidates including two nominees of the Karnatak Samiti.

The total votes polled include 89,369 invalid votes.

The final party position was: Congress 63, Communists 29, P.S.P. 20, Muslim League 11, R.S.P. 1, Independents 2.

ORISSA MID-TERM ELECTIONS

The mid-term election to the Orissa Legislative Assembly which began on 2nd June and ended on 12th June 1961, swept the Congress to power.

The final party position in the 140-member Assembly is: Congress 82, Ganatantra Parishad 37, Praja-Socialists 10, Communists four, Independents seven. The Independents include one member each from the Swatantra Party and the Socialist (Lohia) Party.

The Congress had only 56 seats in the previous Assembly. In the mid-term election, it won 19 seats from constituencies which were considered to be the spheres of influence of the Ganatantra Parishad. It, however, drew blank in Balangir and Kalahandi Districts where all but one seat—which went to the Swatantra Party—were bagged by the Parishad.

The Parishad contested 121 seats and won only 37 against the 51 seats it had in the dissolved Assembly.

The Praja-Socialist Party, with 11 members in the dissolved Assembly, secured only ten seats this time.

The Communist Party suffered a debacle in all the nine constituencies from where its candidates had been returned in the last elections. In the process, all its top leaders in the legislature have been ousted. Its candidates succeeded in four constituencies which were considered safe Congress areas.

The Socialist (Lohia) Party retained its strength of one.

The only Swatantra Party candidate was elected. He had been elected on the Congress ticket in the last election.

The Jharkhand Party, which is demanding a separate administrative unit for the tribals of Chotanagpur plateau and the adjoining Orissa areas, was routed. It had five members in the last Assembly.

Of the 191 independent candidates, including Lohia Socialists, Jharkhand Party and unofficial Swatantra Party candidates, only seven succeeded.

As many as 200 of the 533 candidates who contested this time lost their deposits. Most of them were independents.

Only four women were returned to the House—two on Congress and two on Parishad tickets.

None of the Muslim candidates won at the polls.

Of the four members of Parliament who sought to enter the State Assembly, three succeeded—two Congress and one Parishad candidate.

	1957		1961
	Seats won	Percentage polled	Seats won	Votes polled	Percentage
Congress	56	38.21	82	1,309,607	44.44
Gantantra Parishad	51	28.37	37	642,822	21.81
Praja-Socialist Party	11	10.39	10	301,514	10.23
Communist Party	9	8.93	4	246,465	8.37
Independents	13	14.64	7	446,576	15.15

Note: 1961: Electorate 8,442,849, Votes polled 2,946,984, percentage 34.5.

Independent votes include Jharkhand Party 36,894. Socialist (Lohia) Party 18,810, Swatantra Party 18,080 and Adivasi Unnati Samaj 14,729.

* Has dissolved itself as a political party. Hence the Election Commission has decided to withdraw recognition (July 1960).

BY-ELECTIONS

(April 1956–May 1960)

Below we give an analysis of the by-elections which took place after the general election of 1957 upto May 1960.

In all 129 by-elections were held—16 to the Lok Sabha and 113 to the State Assemblies. About 7·25 million persons voted in these elections as against 6·09 million in the same constituencies in 1957. The percentage of votes cast was 31·54 for the Lok Sabha elections (1957 : 42·44) and 48·47 for the State Assemblies (1957 : 53·70).

The total number of contestants in all the elections was 389 as against 529 in 1957.

The causes of the by-elections were death of sitting member in 60 cases, resignation in 25 and re-poll ordered by election tribunals in 44 cases.

The Congress lost four of the 14 Lok Sabha seats it held—one to P.S.P., one to Socialist Party, one to the Samiti and one to an Independent. Independents lost two seats, one seat to the Congress and another to the Communists.

In the elections to the State Legislatures the Congress gained 25 and lost 21, the P.S.P. gained 4 and lost 15, the Communist Party gained 2 and lost 4, Independents gained 15 and lost 10, the others gained 8 and lost 4.

In regard to the number of votes polled details are given below :

Lok Sabha :—

No. of by-elections 16 : votes polled by Congress 9,42,205 (49·67 per cent); votes polled by opposition 9,54,082 (50·33 per cent).

State Assemblies :—

Total no. of by-elections 113 ; seats contested by Congress 107. Figures cover only 104 elections. Votes polled by Congress 17,90,627 (47·75 per cent); Votes polled by opposition 19,59,039 (52·25 per cent).

In the Visakhapatnam Parliamentary Constituency in Andhra Pradesh and the Assembly constituencies of Visakhapatnam and Srungavarapukota in Andhra Pradesh, Jamalpur in Gujarat and Daspalla in Orissa respectively the candidates were elected unopposed.

Party-wise Break-up : Party-wise, the position was that out of six Lok Sabha seats, five went to the Congress Party and one to the Communist Party. Earlier, the Congress had four seats while the Independents two.

Thirty-nine members elected to the State legislative assemblies were : Congress—26, Praja Socialist Party—1, Communist Party—1, Independents—8, and other parties—3.

Death of the sitting member was the cause of bye-election in 27 cases, resignation in 7 cases and the re-poll ordered by the Election Tribunals in 11 cases.

The six bye-elections to the Lok Sabha were one each in the States of Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Bombay (Bilingual), Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal and the Union Territory of Himachal Pradesh.

The contestants to these seats number 18 as against 25 in the last general elections.

The 39 bye-elections in the State Assembly constituencies were held as : Andhra Pradesh —7 ; Assam—3; Bihar—4 ; Bombay—2 ; Madhya Pradesh—5 ; Madras 4 ; Maharashtra—1 ; Mysore—3 ; Orissa—3 ; Rajasthan—1 ; Uttar Pradesh—5 ; and West Bengal—1.

PARTIES FOR THE 1962 ELECTION

All those political parties which secured 3 per cent of the total votes polled in the last general elections will be recognised for allotment of symbols in the next elections starting early March 1962.

The all-India parties recognised are : Indian National Congress, Praja Socialist Party, Communist Party of India and Bhartiya Jan Sangh ; and the recognised State parties are : People's Democratic Front, and Praja Party in Andhra Pradesh ; Peasants' and Workers' Party in Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra ; Janata Party and Jharkhand Party in Bihar ; United Independent Front in Himachal Pradesh ; Muslim League in Kerala ; Hindu Mahasabha in Madhya Pradesh and Delhi ; Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam in Madras ; Lok Seva Sangh in Mysore ; Ganatantra Parishad in Orissa ; Ram Rajya Parishad in Rajasthan ; Socialist Party in Uttar Pradesh and Manipur, Forward Bloc (Marxist) in West Bengal and Republican Party in Maharashtra and Punjab only. The symbol of the Republican Party is Elephant.

Two Ballot Papers

At the next elections there would be two ballot papers, both in different colours, one for Assembly and the other for Parliament. These would be issued to the voter at the same time. After they had been marked in a secret compartment they would be dropped in One Box placed before the Presiding Officer. At the counting stage it would be easy to sort out the ballot papers.

The next general elections will take place simultaneously all over the country. The endeavour is to complete the polling within five days and to declare the results in the next three days so that the entire operation will end in eight days, starting on one Sunday and ending on the following Sunday.

Two-member Constituencies (Abolition) Act, 1961 : The Bill was passed in the Parliament and it received the assent of the President on March 9, 1961. By the abolition of double-member constituencies, there would be only single-member constituencies in the 1962 elections.

The Election Commission's proposals for the division of two-member constituencies in respect of Kerala and Assam were published on March 15, 1961 and those in respect of Madras, Punjab, West Bengal, Orissa, Mysore, Gujarat and Delhi were expected to be published by the end of March. The Election Commission expected to finish the work by July 1961.

AKHIL BHARAT HINDU MAHASABHA†*

(Hindu Mahasabha Bhawan, Reading Road, New Delhi.)

President: V. G. Deshpande.
Working President: Mahant Digvijaynath.
Vice-Presidents: Prof. Ram Singh (Delhi), Nityanarayan Banerjee (Calcutta), M. K. Devraj (Mangalore), Pandit Brajnarayan Brajesh, M.P. (Gwalior).
General Secretary: Bishan Chanar Seth, M.P.
Organizing Secretary: Niranjan Verma.
Office Secretary: H. B. Bhide, M.L.C.
Total membership of Party: 4,50,000.
Strength in the Lok Sabha: 3.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The aim of the Hindu Mahasabha is the protection and promotion of all that contributes to the advancement, strength and glory of Hindu Rashtra, Hindu culture and Hindu polity, and as a means to that end, to achieve Hindu Raj and re-establish the integrity of the State of Bharat by constitutional means.

Besides the establishment of 'Akhanda Hindustan' the aims and objects of the Hindu Mahasabha are defined as follows:

The creation of a new social order in which all nationals will enjoy equal rights and opportunities and share equal responsibilities;

The assurance to each national of the dignity of human values and full freedom of thought, expression, association and worship;

Adoption of (Sanskrit-Nishta) Hindi as the national language and Devanagri as the national script of India;

Removal of all forms of social inequalities and disabilities;

Reclamation of all those who have left the Hindu fold and welcoming of others into the community;

Ending of gross inequalities in the distribution of wealth, assurance of a decent standard of living to each national, and securing for workers and peasants their rightful share in the economy of the country;

Promotion of cow protection and abolition of cow slaughter;

The present Constitution of India is borrowed from the Constitutions of America, England, France and other Western countries and is not suited to the genius of the people. The Hindu Mahasabha would undertake the task of amending the Constitution so that it may be in consonance with the tradition and culture of the land and make Bharat a truly democratic Hindu State.

The Hindu Mahasabha wants to discourage all separatist tendencies and hence would amend the Constitution so that Bharat may be a well-knit homogeneous State with a strong centre and not a loose combination of autonomous States. Bharat itself would be a State and the units would be provinces and not States.

The Hindu Mahasabha will make military education compulsory for all young men between the ages of 18 and 25, who are physically fit and special attention will be paid to industries connected with war machines and materials of all types.

The Hindu Mahasabha will relax the rigours of the Arms Act and issue licences liberally to the inhabitants in border areas.

All key industries such as electricity, railway, coal and steel mines and industries dealing with war materials and weapons will be owned and controlled by the State. The remaining industries will remain open for private enterprise. In running these industries the Mahasabha assures all investors full facilities to start new industries with State aid and partial exemption from taxation in the initial stages.

The Hindu Mahasabha is convinced that controls, without guaranteeing adequate supply of controlled commodities to the public, are only a nuisance and also often actually lead to blackmarketing and corruption.

The Hindu Mahasabha will give priority to rehabilitation of refugees and would even levy a special tax, if necessary, for the purpose. The Hindu Mahasabha guarantees compensation to all evacuees who have lost their property in Pakistan and will settle the problem of evacuees' properties at Government level speedily. The Hindu Mahasabha also declares that the refugees will become full-fledged citizens of Bharat. The Hindu Mahasabha will take effective steps to recover abducted women from Pakistan.

The Party lays special stress on the reconversion of those who had left Hinduism. It believes that the activities of non-Indian missionaries are harmful to the country. The Party, therefore, demands a ban on foreign missions and the nationalization of Christian churches.

ALL INDIA FORWARD BLOC

(Central Office, Chhindwara, Madhya Pradesh.)

Chairman: Hemanta Kumar Basu, M.L.A.
General Secretary: R. K. Haldulkar.

The following is a gist of the 1962 Election Manifesto of the Party which was to be discussed and accepted at the All India Plenary Session of the Party to be held from 18th to 20th August 1961.

The A.I.F.B. has decided to take part in the forthcoming General Elections with full strength and vigour. The Party will contest the elections in the States of West Bengal, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Gujarat, Madras, Bihar, U.P., Kerala and Delhi. The Party is contemplating to form a broad based United Front of all the genuine leftist parties including the C.P.I. and P.S.P. The Party leaders have already initiated talks in this direction with the leaders of the R.S.P., the Peasants and Workers Party of Maharashtra, the R.C.P.I., the Mahagujarat Janata Parishad led by Shri Indulal Yagnik, M.P. and the Bolshevik Party of India.

As far as its Election Manifesto is concerned it wants nationalisation of all key industries in the country, equitable redistribution of land with special provision to allot land to the landless peasants, fair wage to the workers, right to strike and full trade union rights to the workers, appointment of a Commission to go into the economic condition of kisans and suggest means of greater production of foodgrains to meet the deficit, Police action in Goa and action to vacate aggression of China on the northern frontiers of the country, free education to the students upto the degree level and uptodate training of our defence forces to meet any aggression from outside.

ALL JAMMU & KASHMIR NATIONAL CONFERENCE

(Srinagar.)

BHARATIYA JAN SANGH

(Ajmere Gate, Delhi.)

President, A. Rama Rao.
Vice-Presidents, Acharya D. P. Ghosh; Pitamber Dass.
General Secretary, Deendayal Upadhyaya.
Secretaries, Atalbehari Vajpayee, M.P.; Jagannathrao Joshi; Sunder Singh Bhandari.
Treasurer, Capt. Keshab Chandra.
Office Secretary, J. P. Mathur.
Total membership of party in country, 606,000.
Strength in the Lok Sabha: 4.
Strength in Rajya Sabha: 1.
Total strength in State Legislatures: 73.
No. of votes polled in elections to Lok Sabha: Over 72 lakhs.

Has branches in all the States. The Praja Parishad of Kashmir is affiliated to it.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The party has put forward the following programme:

Opposition to copying U.S.A. or U.S.S.R. systems.

Promotion of private enterprise with adequate checks against concentration of power.

Top priority to food, defence, unemployment.

Right to work should be a fundamental right. Unemployment benefits.

Is opposed to the mechanization of agriculture.

Economic power should be decentralized.

Spheres of small-scale and large-scale industry should be clearly demarcated. Will promote small-scale industry by reserving markets, encouraging co-operative industries, giving protection to handloom industry.

Nationalisation of basic industries and defence industries. Other industries subject to supervision and regulation. Is opposed to nationalisation of banking and road transport. The present trend in the nationalisation of industry will destroy democracy.

Indianization of foreign-owned industries (e.g. tea, coffee and rubber plantations). In others, two-thirds of investment and staff should be Indian. A ceiling on the profit which can be remitted abroad.

Co-sharing and Co-partnership in industry. Adequate representation of labour on boards of management. Encouragement of labour unions and automatic recognition. A permanent Wage Board. Periodic revision of scales of pay. Rs. 100 as the minimum wage at present. Social security legislation. Special allowance for hazardous jobs. Abolition of the employees' contribution to the Employees' State Insurance scheme. Equal pay for equal work.

Rs. 2,000 as maximum expendable income for individual—to be brought about through taxation and compulsory loans and investment.

Generally opposed to indirect taxation. Abolition of Sales Tax and excise duty on the necessities of life such as cloth.

Compulsory military training. Establishment of defence industries. Abolition of untouchability and fighting caste feeling to bring about unity in Hindu society.

Stands for unitary rather than federal conceptions.

Will abolish Legislative Councils and repeal the Preventive Detention Act and the Public Safety Acts and amend Sections 107, 108, 109 and 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code and Sections 124A and 153 of the I.P.C. to protect civil liberty.

Rs. 500 a month as a Minister's salary.

Strict reciprocity towards Pakistan.

Will press for full compensation for property left by refugees in Pakistan, and no concession in the matter of loans or canal dues.

Kashmir an integral part of India.

No plebiscite in Kashmir; and no special position to Kashmir in the Indian Union : same status as other States.

Non-involvement in foreign affairs. Friendly relations with all. Opposition to colonialism and Communist expansion.

Co-operation with U.N.O. Amendment of the Charter to make U.N.O. truly representative of the people. Permanent seat for India in the Security Council. Full support for people in revolt against Western Colonialism or Russian imperialism.

All steps including police action to liberate Goa.

Is opposed to the extension in the fifteen-year limit laid down for the replacement of English by Hindi. Will have a five-year plan for the development of Hindi and other Bharatiya languages. Stands for the inclusion of Sindhi in the list of Bharatiya languages.

Stands for giving Hindi its rightful place in the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

Stands for (1) primary education through the mother tongue, (2) secondary and higher education through the regional language and Hindi as compulsory subject, (3) making learning of one regional language compulsory for Hindi-speaking students, (4) compulsory course of Sanskrit studies, (5) recognition of graduates of Hindi and of other recognised Indian languages as on par with English, (6) autonomy of educational institutions and universities.

Free and compulsory education at the primary and secondary stages. Free education to poor but deserving students at the higher stages.

Co-operative Farming :—The party is opposed to co-operative farming.

The Jan Sangh stands for peasant proprietorship and supports service co-operatives which should not be manned by officials or party cadres.

It suggests the following procedure : Immediate ceiling on future acquisition ; Tenants are to be given fixity of tenure and fair rents are to be fixed ; A scheme is to be put in operation to assist landless peasants to buy the additional lands required for an economic holding and to acquire full rights over the land ; Fair wages are to be fixed for agricultural labourers ; Ceiling at thirty acres or equivalent thereof, yielding a minimum of Rs. 6,000 should be fixed. Owners of land are to be allowed a period of three years to sell their surplus land to peasants. The price is to be paid in instalments. There should be a comprehensive scheme for the consolidation of landholdings and the development of agriculture.

State Trading in Food Grain :—This will inevitably lead to compulsory procurement and rationing which is undesirable.

Third Plan :—The party feels the need for a basic change in outlook. Planning should be viewed against the background of the country's cultural, social and political objectives. The party feels that a Socialist economy, invariably leads to concentration of power in the State and is not compatible with democratic ideals. The aim of planning should be mainly to create conditions for people to have more and more initiative and facilities for engaging themselves in gainful economic activities. The party proposes the Plan should aim at providing full employment. Top priority should be given to agricultural production. Stress should be laid on mechanised small-scale industries. The public sector should pay more attention to consolidation than expansion. Emphasis should be shifted from big projects to small schemes. Greater attention should be given to the education and training of personnel required for a growing economy.

As for foreign economic aid this can be accepted if there are no political conditions. But in the main we should use our own resources.

The outlay on the Third Plan is too ambitious and the burden of taxes would be crushing. Agriculture must have priority. So must small-scale industry.

Punjabi Suba :—The Jan Sangh is opposed to the demand of Punjabi Suba as voiced by the Akali Dal.

China :—China should be unequivocally declared an aggressor and dealt with accordingly.

India should withdraw her support of the Chinese case in the U.N.O.

The treaty of 1954 recognizing Chinese suzerainty over Tibet, having been violated by China should be abrogated.

No talks should be held with China on any level till her aggression is vacated.

Effective steps should be taken to curb Chinese espionage and fifth column activities in the country.

The Communist Party should be banned.

Effort must be made to develop communications on the border.

Pakistan :—

About joint defence, the party suggests that it has little meaning so long as Pakistan does not change its anti-Indian policy and remains in forcible occupation of one-third of Kashmir. The time is not ripe for joint defence.

Foreign Policy :—The Jan Sangh believes that the enlightened self-interests of India demand a policy of non-alignment in her foreign relations. It should however, be considered a policy and not a dogma. The Chinese aggression in Ladakh and NEFA does not demand any change in this policy. Non-alignment, however, should not prevent us from increasing our military strength by securing the latest weapons from any possible source.

Communalism :—Believes that there is no place for communalism, casteism and religionism in a democratic country. To meet this evil it thinks necessary that the conception of 'majority' and 'minority' based on religion should be given no quarter, no distinction in matters of services, trade and education etc. on basis of differences in the ways of worship be made.

1962 ELECTION MANIFESTO

In September 1961 the Jan Sangh came out officially before the country with its election manifesto for the 1962 General Elections.

The party's appeal to the electorate is based on four main planks : the liberation of every inch of Indian territory now under the occupation of China and Pakistan, ensuring efficiency and purity of administration, stabilisation of prices and eradication of unemployment and provision of free education upto the secondary stage. More than 250 candidates would contest the Lok Sabha seats.

The manifesto adopted by the Central Working Committee of the Party will be placed before the party's National Council or Pratinidhi Sabha at Varanasi on November 16 for final approval.

COMMUNIST PARTY OF INDIA*

(7/4, Asaf Ali Road, New Delhi.)

Members of the Secretariat are :

Ajoy Ghosh (General Secretary), S. A. Dange, Z. A. Ahmad, M. N. Govindan Nair and Bhupesh Gupta.

Members of the Central Control Commission :

S. V. Ghate (Chairman), U. Ramam, Hajrah Begum, Abdul Halim and P. Narayanan Nair.

Membership of the Party : 200,000.

Members in the Lok Sabha : 31 (including one independent).

Members in the Rajya Sabha : 12.

Total number of Seats in the State Assemblies : about 200.

Number of votes secured in the general elections of 1957 : Lok Sabha 12,746,056 (including the votes secured by Independents supported by the Party). Assemblies 10,433,032 (including the votes for party-supported Independents).

The Party emerged as the strongest after the Congress both in terms of seats won and the votes polled.

The number of seats that the Party and its allies hold in the various State Assemblies is as follows: Andhra 39 ; Assam 5 ; Bihar 7 ; Kerala 29 ; Madhya Pradesh 3 ; Madras 4 ; Mysore 2 ; Orissa 4 ; Punjab 6 ; Rajasthan 2 ; U.P. 8 ; West Bengal 49 ; Tripura 15 ; Manipur 4 ; Gujarat 2 ; Maharashtra 18.

The Policy :

INDUSTRY

(1) Priority to development of heavy and basic industries, which includes iron and steel, machine-making, including fabrication of steel plants, heavy chemicals, oil, coal, minerals and power, which should be in the State sector.

(2) Protection to national industries against foreign competition.

(3) Location of industries should be so arranged that while taking into account natural advantages, balanced development of various regions is provided for. In backward States where private capital cannot be mobilised even for large-scale light industries, these should be undertaken by the State.

* The Party's 1962 Election Manifesto was not available at the time of going to press.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

(4) Development of armaments, aircraft and ship-building industries by the State with a view to strengthening national independence.

(5) Pending the development of heavy and basic industries, increased consumer demands should be met, as far as possible, by maximum utilisation of existing capacities in organised industries and by encouragement of small-scale and village industries.

RESOURCES

(6) In order to augment the resources for national reconstruction, certain industries and undertakings should be nationalised. To begin with, banking, general insurance, coal-mining as a whole, aluminium industry, manganese, copper, iron and gold-mining as well as British-controlled jute mills and plantations, should be immediately nationalised.

(7) Impose a ceiling on export of profits, and take over profits in excess of the ceiling as compulsory loan.

(8) Impose a ceiling on profits of all big industries and commercial undertakings, and take over profits in excess as compulsory loan.

(9) These, together with the reserves of large companies to form a National Development Pool, to be invested in the State and private sectors in accordance with national needs.

(10) State monopoly of foreign trade in the principal commodities. This would give the State the profits from such trade. It also enables it to diversify our foreign trade and develop it on the basis of mutual advantage.

Further promotion of State trading in the internal market.

(11) Heavier taxation on corporation profits, tax on personal wealth and tax on capital gains. Steeply graded income-tax, and fixation of ceilings on personal and family incomes.

(12) Postponement of payment of compensation to big landlords.

(13) Cancellation of Privy Purse to Princes.

(14) Requisition of the hoarded wealth of the Princes as compulsory loans.

(15) Reduction of the salaries and allowances of highly-paid officials.

PEASANTS

(16) Immediate carrying out of urgent agrarian reforms and substantial reduction of the burden of the rents and usurious interests.

(17) Immediate fixation of ceiling on land-holdings and distribution, without any payment, of the land in excess to the agricultural labour and peasants.

(18) Setting up agricultural labour and peasant committees to implement land reforms.

(19) Planned free distribution of all Government cultivable waste-land to poor peasants and agricultural labourers within a period of three years and State aid for bringing these under cultivation.

(20) Substantial scaling down of debts owed by peasants to landlords and money-lenders by cancellation of unconscionable debts. Arrangements for the liquidation of remaining debts in easy instalments spread over a number of years. Setting up of Debt Conciliation Boards for this purpose.

(21) Wide extension of co-operatives for rural credit, marketing of produce as well as for supply of agricultural machinery and implements, fertilisers, etc. The existing co-operative law to be drastically amended in a democratic direction, by drastically curtailing the powers of the bureaucratic officials of the co-operative department.

(22) Fixation of minimum wage for agricultural labour, and its enforcement by encouraging the organisations of agricultural labourers.

Cancellation of debts owed by agricultural labourers to landlords and moneylenders.

(23) Guaranteeing of a fair price to the peasants for their produce.

WORKING CLASS

(24) The present policy of wage-freeze should be given up. A national minimum wage should be fixed, and workers should be assisted in securing fair wages which should be above the minimum.

(25) Pending such fixation, an immediate increase by 25 per cent to all workers' wages in view of the increased productivity of labour. The dearness allowance should be amalgamated with basic wages.

(26) Social insurance schemes to be rapidly extended to cover all industries and types of benefits and not merely confined to health. The benefit of the present health insurance scheme should be extended to the workers' family members.

(27) Provision for unemployment benefits and bonus.

DEMOCRACY

It is necessary to :

(28) Abolish Upper Houses in the Legislatures; introduce proportional representation in all elections, right of recall, secret ballot even for Panchayat elections; and officials at various levels to be under the control of elected local bodies.

Union territories, as long as they continue, must have a democratic set-up and not be administered by Commissioners with nominated Advisory Councils.

(29) Drastically revise the Police Code, curtailing the powers of the police to arrest, shoot, lathi-charge and ban meetings and processions.

(30) Repeal of legislation which encourages regimentation; active encouragement to trade unions to unite and form one trade union in each industry or undertaking on the basis of internal trade union democracy.

(31) Give workers and employees an effective voice in the management and direction of industrial enterprises. Committees of elected representatives of workers and employees should be recognised on an equal footing with the administration.

(32) Entrust trade unions with the management and administration of Employees' State Insurance and other social amenity schemes.

(33) Associate, with an effective voice, in rural areas the kisan sabhas and organisations of agricultural labour, in the implementation of agrarian reforms, in the execution of local development schemes.

Punjabi State:—The Central Executive Committee of the Party in its meeting held in Delhi in the middle of August 1960 adopted a resolution on the question of linguistic reorganisation of the State of Punjab which in part reads as follows :

"The Central Executive Committee is of opinion that, when linguistic States have been formed throughout the country, there is no ground whatever for refusing to reorganise Punjab alone on the basis of language. It is convinced that every day of delay in such reorganisation will only add strength to the forces of communalism and disruption.

"The Central Executive Committee, therefore demands that the Central Government should immediately so reorganise the present Punjab State that contiguous Punjabi areas, including the district of Kangra, are formed into a separate Punjabi State . . ."

As regards the stand of the Akalis, the resolution said that "Though the Akali leaders proclaim as their aim the democratic objective of a linguistic State, yet their actions expose the communal character of their agitation. The use of Gurdwaras in furtherance of this movement, the communal appeal of Sikhs, the exclusion of the Punjabi-speaking district of Kangra from their Punjabi Suba with the sole purpose of reducing the proportion of the State's Hindu population reveal the communal character of the Akali movement."

It further stated that "the activities of the Akali Party, the Hindu communalists and the policies followed by the Government have divided the people along communal lines" and appealed to the people of the Punjab to rally behind the democratic demand for the linguistic reorganisation of Punjab, isolating the forces that keep the people divided.

India-China Border:—The attitude of the party is that given the approach of goodwill and friendly discussion a peaceful solution can be found. Although the Prime Ministers of India and China were unable to agree at their April meeting the decision to continue discussion at the official level and to maintain tranquillity in the border areas are positive achievements.

The Meerut session of the National Council held in Nov. 1959 categorically affirms that the McMahon Line is India's border in the north-east and rejects as irrelevant the question of the line's historical origin. As to the border in the north-west the resolution affirms that the traditional border should be accepted and negotiations should be held to resolve their differences over what constitutes the traditional border. The resolution does not make Chinese withdrawal from Indian territory a pre-condition of negotiations.

DRAVIDA MUNNETRA KAZHAGAM*

(Arivaham, Suryanaryana Chetty Street, Royapuram, Madras.)

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The attainment of a sovereign independent socialist republic of Dravidanad, comprising the four linguistic States of Tamilnad, Andhra, Karnatak and Kerala. The four linguistic units will have full internal autonomy in the federal structure and the right to secede.

This State will have an independent foreign and defence policy.

India is not a nation. It is a sub-continent consisting of many nations.

English should be retained as an official language for all-India purposes. Regional languages should be the State languages in the States.

Hindi is not a national language. It is only one of many regional language . There should therefore be no compulsory teaching of Hindi in schools in South India.

The membership of the party is over 2,00,000 and the number of branches over 2,000, in Madras State. There are also branches in Kerala, Mysore and Andhra.

It polled more than 17 lakhs of votes in the second general elections and returned 15 members to the Madras Assembly and two members to the Lok Sabha.

GANATANTRA PARISHAD

(Cuttack 1, Orissa.)

President : Nandkishore Mishra.

General Secretary : Sundarmani Patel.

At the annual conference of the party in May 1958 it was decided to make the party an all-India party.

The aims and objects are :

Safeguarding the civil, political and cultural rights of minorities and backward areas and classes ;

Abolition of land revenue and the introduction of graduated progressive taxation on agricultural income with a view to achieving a ceiling on income from agricultural resources at not more than Rs. 4,800 and not less than Rs. 1,600 a year;

Secure minimum holding to the cultivating tenants and for the purpose exempt from taxation agricultural holding yielding income upto Rs. 1,600 ;

Increased production, adequate and proper wages to agricultural labour ;

Conversion of bhogra land to royatvari, adequate compensation for land acquisition; protection of cattle wealth, banning cow slaughter ;

Nationalisation of the industries which have been established mostly through Government aid ; nationalisation of mines to be worked in future ; nationalisation of industries in which competition between the State and individuals will not be conducive to public benefit ; nationalisation of industries which can be run more efficiently and produce more cheaply under Government management ;

Adoption of the principle of co-management and profit-sharing by capital and labour ; encouraging trade unionism to ensure better wages ; checking monopolistic tendencies in industry ; extension of industrial aid to deserving enterprises ;

Safeguarding the interests of the middle class ; reduction of taxation ; tax relief by tapping the natural resources of the State;

Abolition of the Kendu Leaf Control Order; abolition of monopolies in minor forest products and the supply of bamboo, coal and timber, etc. from the forests to the people in time of need ;

Safeguarding rights of minorities and backward classes ;

Restoration of Seraikella and Kharswan to Orissa and the integration of the outlying Oriya tracts with Orissa ; shifting cultivation ; conversion of Bhogra land into royatvari ; adequate compensation to the people for land acquisition, etc.

Thinks prohibition has failed and that changes should be made in excise rules.

The party lays special emphasis on :

The removal of regional disparity in the Five-Year Plans ; uniform per capita income in the constituent States ; rural and agricultural sector of the economy ; greater autonomy and freedom to the constituent States ; anti-corruption measures and character building on a mass scale.

Co-operative Farming :—The party is in favour of co-operative farming, but only, on a voluntary basis.

The party is also in favour of State trading in food grains. It is essential that the producers should get a fair price.

On the question of planning the party has on the whole supported the Plans though it was not altogether satisfied with the implementation.

The party is not happy about accepting foreign aid.

On Tibet the policy of the party is the same as that of the Government of India : the security of India, friendly relations with China and sympathy for the Tibetan people.

The party condemns Chinese aggression and thinks that all possible measures should be taken to repel it.

Election Manifesto for 1962 General Elections:

The party is having the same manifesto as they had for the mid-term elections in June 1961. Believes in democracy in social justice, but Social justice does not mean depriving the individual of initiative or enterprise. Faith in democracy and social justice warrants advocating a mixed economy.

It said that public or private enterprise had to be judged upon the point of view of the social purpose they achieved.

Orissa requires a very speedy development of large and medium-scale industries and there is enough scope for huge investments both in the public and private sectors.

The Parishad thought it reasonable to confine basic and heavy industries to the public sector and consumer industries to the private sector as far as possible.

"The Parishad disapproves the growth of monopolistic trends in industry and will take steps to introduce the element of competition wherever it was felt necessary in the interests of the people," the manifesto said.

'Prohibition Policy, Unrealistic'. It described the present prohibition policy of the Government as "most unrealistic and ineffective" and said it was of the view that prohibition policy should be uniform throughout the country and regulatory in method. There should also be exercise of control over manufacture and sale of liquors. The tribals and many people had religious sanction for use of drink on some occasions and there were foreigners in this country addicted to drinking. Total prohibition was not possible. But the purpose of prohibition could be achieved by regulatory measures, by temperance movement and education creating proper atmosphere for the ultimate success of prohibition.

The manifesto assured the people that the Parishad would continue to fight for the merger of Saraikela and Khraswan and other outlying Oriya-speaking areas with Orissa.

There are about 18,000 Mandal Committees.

The General Assembly of the Mandal consists of the primary members enrolled within the area covered by the Mandal.

The District and Pradesh Committees are elected by the elected members of the Mandal Committees. Also there is on them representatives of certain organizations or institutions working in the area in accordance with certain rules. These allied organizations are trade unions, kisan and youth bodies.

The A.I.C.C. also has on it representatives of allied institutions and organizations.

* Now Chief Minister, Orissa.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The ideology, outlook and policy may be described as follows:

The object of the Indian National Congress is the well-being and advancement of the people of India and the establishment in India by peaceful and legitimate means of a Socialist, Co-operative Commonwealth based on equality of opportunity and of political, economic and social rights, aiming at world peace and fellowship.

The provision of the basic needs of food, clothing and shelter, and of opportunity for cultural growth for all people.

With a view to achieving the above objects planning should take place with a view to the establishment of a socialistic pattern of society where the principal means of production are under social ownership or control and there is equitable distribution of national wealth.

Full employment should be achieved in ten years.

The State should initiate and operate large-scale schemes, providing services such as power, transport; have over-all control of resources, social purposes and trends; maintain strategic controls; prevent private trusts and cartels; maintain standards of labour and production; the public sector must progressively play a greater part particularly in the establishment of basic industries; the private sector should function in terms of the national plan.

Organization of industry, commerce, agriculture on a co-operative basis.

Participation of workers in management of industry.

Perspective planning; flexible short-term plans in the context of a long-term plan.

Backward areas and regions should be specially helped to develop themselves.

The per capita income should be doubled in fifteen years.

Belief in a secular state; all citizens to have equal rights; removal of barriers which divide people on the basis of religion, caste, class or region.

Land Reform

Abolition of old and out-dated agrarian systems of tenure; security of tenure and fair rents for tenants and tillers of the soil.

Land reform should be effected quickly, agricultural prices stabilized at a reasonable level and facilities for rural credit greatly enlarged. The Government would play its part through the nationalization of the Imperial Bank.

There should be a ceiling on holdings.

Co-operative farming; the village as the unit of co-operative management.

Local administration through Panchayats.

Promotion of small-scale and cottage industries as supplier of consumer goods and source of employment; organization of cottage industries in industrial co-operatives.

State trading should be undertaken whenever the balance of advantages lies in favour of such a course.

Control of distribution is essential in times of scarcity.

Redirection of public expenditure, imposition of estate duties and of tax on wealth and spending for the removal of inequalities and the provision of resources for the Second Plan.

There should be a reasonable relationship of maximum and minimum incomes.

Better housing for workers.

Effective machinery to commend good work and condemn bad work in the public services.

Summary method to deal with corruption.

Education

Basic education would provide the future pattern of primary as well as secondary education. Primary Schools will be converted to the Basic type in a well-planned manner within ten years.

Multi-purpose schools will be established.

Manual work as part of curriculum of higher education; no degree or diploma without manual work.

The medium of instruction at the primary stage must be the mother tongue. Where the mother tongue of a child is not identical with the regional language instruction in the mother tongue should be made available, provided there is a reasonable number of persons demanding such instruction.

At the secondary stage instruction should ordinarily be in the regional language, though other languages could be used if there is a large enough demand.

At the university stage, the regional language should be the medium, though Hindi and even English could be used as this will facilitate inter-provincial cultural intercourse.

In the teaching of scientific and technical subjects the transition from English to Hindi or the regional language should be gradual.

Hindi should be a compulsory second language at the Secondary stage.

The study of English should be taken up at the secondary school stage and continued at the university.

Progressively, examinations for the all-India services should be held in English, Hindi and the regional languages. Candidates who have chosen Hindi or a regional language should pass separately in English.

Successful non-Hindi candidates should take a test in Hindi at an early stage.

Hindi Prachar Sabhas in the headquarters of every Taluka in the south.

It is desirable for people in Hindi-speaking areas to learn at least one regional language.

Proper representation to minorities in legislatures and other public bodies.

Social and legal disabilities hindering the progress of women should be removed and women should be placed on a footing of equality in the matter of marriage, property, inheritance and divorce through a series of Hindu law reform bills.

Provinces on a linguistic basis where there is a demand representing the agreed views of the people of the area: economic, administrative and financial considerations must be taken into account.

Unilingual States may exist where this is considered desirable. But unilingualism cannot be made a fetish.

Formation of regions within a State may be necessary for the full development of a language or culture.

On the whole, it is best not to have relatively small units.

The Congress is committed to prohibition.

Foreign Policy

Independent line in foreign policy; friendly relations with all countries.

India's relations with foreign countries will be governed by the Pancha Shil. They should also be the basis of the relations between all nations.

Regional military pacts which happen to serve specific interests of the Great Powers will not promote the cause of peace.

India will not be aligned to any power bloc, and will not take part in other people's wars.

China must be admitted to the United Nations. Membership should, in fact, be universal.

Only peaceful methods will be used for the liberation of Goa.

In general, people under colonial rule should be free.

Racialism should end.

1961 SESSION

The annual Congress Session held at Sardar nagar, Bhavnagar on Jan. 4, 5 and 6, passed important resolutions on Planning, panchayat raj, national integration, international situation and India-China border.

National Integration. Ever since its birth 75 years ago, the National Congress has stood for the unity of India and the cohesion of her people. While recognising the rich variety of Indian life, it has laboured for their basic and essential unity and the integrity of the country. Its basis and structure were national in every sense of the word and it sought the progress of the people as a whole, regardless of differences of province or religion or caste or language. In this great task it succeeded in a large measure, and this success led to the building up of great movements for freedom resulting in the achievement of independence.

REACTIONARY FORCES

Under cover of political and social activities, the old evils of communalism, casteism, provincialism and linguism have appeared again in some measure. These evils come in the way of the progress of integration.

The Congress views with great concern these unhealthy tendencies and is firmly of opinion that they must be combated in every way. Provincialism and linguism have also injured the cause for which the Congress stands.

Adequate progress can only be based on a national scale, embracing all communities and States.

It is the duty of every one, and more especially the Congress organisation, to remove any sense of grievance from the minds of the minority communities, whether communal or linguistic, and produce in them a feeling of fair and equal treatment and opportunity. It is the task of the majority groups, whether religious or linguistic, to create a feeling of confidence and trust in the minds of the minority communities. Our Constitution has in clear language laid down the principle of equality of treatment.

This has to be rightly interpreted and fully implemented by Governments, both at the Centre and in the States, which should take positive steps to this end. Recruitment to public services should not be made in such a way as to discriminate against linguistic minorities, while merit should always be the principal criterion for such services, more specially in the higher grades. In the lower grades, where there is generally equality of merit, particular care should be taken that minority groups have adequate opportunities offered to them. Policies should be evolved at the Centre and in all the States so that linguistic minorities and relatively backward classes have fair and equitable treatment in respect of educational facilities, to learn their own languages and in regard to recruitment to Government services.

In Congress elections, from the Mandals upwards, care should be taken to have adequate minority representation. In elections to Parliament and the State Legislatures, the Congress should put up candidates so as to give proper representation to minority communities.

AIM OF PLANNING

Third Five-Year Plan: The Congress endorses the resolution of the AICC passed at its Raipur session, on the draft outline of the Third Five-Year Plan. The objective aimed at in planning is to establish a socialist economy and pattern of society in the country. In order to achieve this end, a substantial advance has to be made in the Third Plan towards a self-sustaining and self-generating economy and at the same time the disparities that exist in various strata of society should be progressively lessened. As stated in the directive principles of the Constitution, the operation of the economic system should not result in the concentration of wealth and means of production to the common detriment.

In order to achieve higher standards for the people and to remove the curse of poverty, a rapid increase in production is essential and traditional methods of production and distribution have to be replaced by modern and more effective techniques.

The targets mentioned in the draft outline are the minimum required for adequate progress to be made during this period. Every effort must be made to fulfil these targets and to raise the necessary resources. It is necessary to create a climate of saving in the country, and thus also help in stabilising prices, particularly of essential commodities.

It is necessary to increase agricultural production by intensive cultivation and stepping up the yield per acre. It is on the basis of self-sufficiency in foodgrains and in raw materials for industrial use, that industry can progress rapidly. Progress in industrialisation, which is so necessary, is dependent on building up basic industries like steel, power, fuel and machine-building.

Every step should be taken to increase opportunities for employment on projects of national utility, such as afforestation, contour bunding, land drainage, etc.

EDUCATIONAL NEEDS

The educational process has to begin at the earliest stage and thus the care and development of the child should be an essential part of it.

While primary education is spreading rapidly in the country, facilities for higher education and technical training are still limited and many able and deserving students have not the financial resources to continue their studies, more specially in the scientific and technical fields. To such students, the State should provide full opportunities, by way of scholarships or otherwise, so that they can continue their studies in the higher educational establishments.

In the rural areas, provision for good drinking water, sanitation, proper housing and roads should be provided to the maximum extent.

The development of a socialist society requires a progressive change in the way of life of the people. This necessitates the growth of co-operative organisations in agriculture, trade and industry throughout the country.

ROLE OF PANCHAYATS

Panchayati Raj: It has been the settled policy of the Congress, for many years, even before the coming of independence, to develop village panchayats. This policy found expression in one of the directive principles of the Indian Constitution which affirms that:

"That State shall take steps to organise village panchayats and endow them with such powers and authority as may be necessary to enable them to function as units of self-government."

Village panchayats are not only the foundation of democracy in the country, but also secure the effective participation of the people in the Government and the planned development of the country, so that the vast numbers of our people living in the rural areas are intimately associated in these vital functions.

The community development movement, which now covers over two-thirds of rural India, represents an effort to develop a new outlook and release new initiatives among the people who inhabit the five and a half lakhs of villages in India. This movement brought new life to the villages but, even so, a great deal of dependence on Governmental agencies continued.

There is an increasing realisation among them that it is through their own initiative, hard work and co-operation with the resources under their control, that they can achieve rapid progress in various developmental activities, more specially in agriculture, animal husbandry, education, health and sanitation, communications, co-operation, village industries, housing and welfare work among backward classes.

The Congress welcomes this movement and congratulates the States which have already adopted it. It trusts that the remaining States in India will also establish Panchayati Raj in the course of this year and transfer responsibility to the panchayats in as large a measure as possible.

These panchayats are becoming solid foundations for democracy in the country and powerful instruments not only in the political but also in the social and economic fields.

The Congress has noted with appreciation that in many places the panchayat elections have not been run on party lines.

FOREIGN RELATION

"The Congress views with grave concern the continuing deterioration in the international situation, the failure in 1960 of the important attempts to bring about a relaxation of world tensions, notably the summit conference in Paris, and the consequent hardening of the relations between the Great Powers which have retarded and brought to a standstill the various plans and attempts directed to this end and also resulted in the intensification of the cold war."

Disarmament: The Congress affirms its belief that in view of the advance in war weapons technology, more particularly in the nuclear and thermonuclear field and the improvements in the techniques for easier and cheaper production, the only realistic approach to effective disarmament is the one which will ensure general and complete disarmament and a world without war.

TEN POWER RESOLUTION

The Congress approves the declaration and the general plan of directives made in the ten-Power draft resolution and trusts that the General Assembly of the United Nations will approve and implement them at the resumed session of the Assembly in March.

Laos: The Congress firmly believes that the adherence to the Geneva Agreement of 1954 by all concerned, the non-interference by the Great Powers or other parties to the cold war, and refraining from intervening directly or indirectly in that country's affairs enabling it to remain an uncommitted area, alone provides the best hope to Laos, to the rest of Indo-China and, perhaps, Asia and the world, escaping the consequences of the spread of this conflict which may ultimately even reach a world scale.

INTERVENTION IN CONGO

Congo: Our country welcomed the intervention of the United Nations in the Congo at the invitation of the President and the Government of that country.

While the situation is grave and distressing, the elimination of Belgian interference and control, the release of all political prisoners, more especially those who had enjoyed Parliamentary immunity, the restoration of constitutional Government, the convening of Parliament which stands illegally suspended, taking the army out of politics, as requested by the United Nations, and the continuation of the attempts of the United Nations to bring about reconciliation between the rival groups may still bring stability and progress to that country.

The Congress expresses its sympathy with the Congolese people in their deep distress, and adheres to the policy of the maintenance of the integrity and independence of the Congo which alone will enable the Congolese people to determine their own destiny.

Algeria: The Congress expresses its solidarity with the Algerian people in their brave and determined fight for national independence and urges the Government of France to recognise the national independence of Algeria and to implement the pledges which she has repeatedly made in this respect.

The Congress deplores the use of mighty armed forces by land, sea and air by the Government of France, which is facilitated by her membership of the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation.

FREEDOM OF GOA

Portuguese Colonies: The Congress expresses the hope that, despite past history, the Portuguese Government will respond to the decision of the United Nations and accept her commitment under the Charter and to carry out the directons of the General Assembly to end colonial rule.

The Congress reiterates its resolve that Goa, which is a part of India at present under Portuguese domination, must be freed and brought into the Indian Union.

New Free States in Africa: In the generally worsened situation in the world the Congress derives some encouragement from and welcomes the emancipation and attainment of independence by a number of countries in Africa, formerly territories of the French and British Empires which have now become member-States of the United Nations.

Colonialism: The Congress welcomes the decision of the United Nations on colonialism demanding the end of colonialism forthwith and calling upon the metropolitan countries to implement the resolution immediately.

The Congress recognises the progressive and bilateral policy pursued by certain countries, notably the United Kingdom, in recent years and trusts that this process may be quickened to the advantage of all concerned and for general world progress and stability.

1962 Election Manifesto: The Subjects Committee adopted the draft resolution which laid down the broad principles to be kept in view in achieving the objective of a socialist society through democratic and peaceful means. Power for industries, village, small-scale and major—and employment—rural and urban—would receive the utmost attention during the next five years.

Sino-Indian Border: The resolution was debated with some seriousness, most of the speakers endorsing the steps taken by the Government to meet Chinese aggression and asserting that the country was behind the Centre on pressing national integrity. The resolution expresses the country's determination to regain the territory occupied illegally by the Chinese.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The aims and objects of the Party are given in detail in the 1960-61 Directory.

The main object is the achievement by a peaceful revolution of a democratic socialist society free from social, political and economical exploitation.

The party emphasises the purity of means, non-violent techniques of struggle and decentralized democracy and economy.

India-China Border

The party welcomes the Prime Minister's declaration that Sikkim and Bhutan would be defended. It urges the Government to take firm measures to compel the Chinese vacate the aggression.

The Government should insist upon the immediate vacation of all areas forcibly occupied by the Chinese, demand an unequivocal acceptance of the MacMahon Line and the traditional Himalayan frontier as the pre-requisite for any negotiations.

In the event of China's refusal to vacate India should take military as well as diplomatic measures to compel China to quit Indian Territory.

Goa:—Goa is a part of India and must be integrated with India. The party deplores the passivity of the Government of India in this matter. World attention has to be focused on this issue.

Tibet :—The National Executive of the Praja Socialist Party recogises the Tibetans' right to self-determination and extends to them its support.

The Executive is anxious to maintain and strengthen friendly relations between China and India. The Executive further realises that reconciliation between Tibet and China is essential for the growth of trust and peaceful reconstruction in the South, South-East and East Asia.

Land Reforms :—The Praja Socialist Party believes that it is necessary to entrust the work of organising service co-operatives to agencies wherein all the people interested in co-operatives could work on equal terms.

The Executive is confident that if such a machinery is brought into being and if ceiling on land holdings is immediately imposed with a view to create significant surpluses of land for distribution a suitable climate for these reforms will be created.

Service co-operatives can be organised on a large scale in the immediate future.

The Executive recognises the urgency of quickened change and the fostering of co-operative spirit in the country and would welcome an opportunity to put its shoulder to the task.

The Executive also welcomes any decision to socialize the wholesale trade in foodgrains.

Sufficient reserves of food grains should be built up.

DRAFT ELECTION MANIFESTO
(1962 Elections)

Frontier Threatened

The inviolability of the territorial integrity is ever the basic tenet of a sovereign state. The government has failed to meet aggression on the country's frontiers by Pakistan, China or Portugal.

The historic task of mobilising the nation in the defence of its security and integrity awaits to be accomplished.

The threats to India's frontiers that should evoke national solidarity and strengthening national will and purpose have instead uncovered disenchantment, disunity and despair.

The Home Policies

The government have failed to convince the people of their impartiality and of responsiveness to people's wishes. National integration is hampered because linguistic minorities do not feel assured of justice and even-handed treatment and instead of hope and faith, frustration has spread.

The policies followed by the Congress Party frequently result in encouragement to caste and communal loyalties, which creates apprehensions, legitimate or otherwise, in the minds of religious minorities.

The government's economic policies have sharpened inequalities and through price rise and inequitous taxes have depressed the already meagre standards of the working people.

Democracy cannot function effectively unless there is an alternate focus of loyalty available to the people which could ultimately provide an alternate government.

The Praja Socialist Party places its unshakable faith in the concept of socialism that challenges the present social order and accepts in its place an order based on equality of opportunity, on reduction in the diparities of incomes, on genuine participation of people in the control of social levers and on social mobility that helps every citizen in the country in the development and full utilisation of all that is the most creative and enterprising within him.

Prevailing Accent on Inequality

The Five Year Plans have meagre achievements to show. In the decade of planning, national income has grown just 3½ per cent per annum. As the Plans become bigger and bolder, the gains become smaller; per capita income grew by 2 per cent in the First Plan and by 1½ per cent in the Second.

Land reforms have brought little justice to the villagers, because they have been extensively evasive in implementation. The benefits of the development programmes have gone to the richer elements in the villages. Expansion of the private sector has meant mainly strengthening the oligopolies in the country. The disparities in growth between the rich and the poor remain the outstanding characteristic of planning in agriculture as well as in industry.

Equality, Security and Participation

The Praja Socialist Party believes that in India the urge for freedom expresses itself in the fight for equality. This fight is directed against class distinctions of all kinds, whether they relate to economic position, social status or cultural advantages. They believe that battle for equality must be waged relentlessly if the imperilled nation is to be saved.

Freedom is rooted in security. It gains in meaning and asserts itself only when economic and social security are assured. It grows through participation, arrests abuse of power and counters encroachment against individual rights. The Praja Socialist Party aims to humanise the state and the economy, not 'Statise' man.

Planning by People for Plenty

Democratically organised district administration has to be the principal unit of economic planning. Under its direction the integrated land reforms would be implemented as a time-bound programme. It would be closely connected with development plans so that land reforms and re-organisation proceed hand in hand. The district development plans should include village programmes. Inducement and incentives should be given to the holders of the dwarf holdings and invite them to join the co-operatives. Improvement in the rural housing through rural-re-development projects. It believes in the dispersal of industries in rural areas to involve the villagers in the process of industrialisation.

Reshaping Industrial Policy

Industrial development so far has generally aggravated concentration of wealth and power. The Praja Socialist Party's endeavour would be to correct and drastically alter the contours of industrial development. It would revise the licensing policy and re-orient the credit policies in favour of new entrepreneurs. In the public sector, the Party would work for the splitting up of giant corporations, and for management provided with initiative and enterprise. The public sector enterprises will pioneer in workers' participation in management, in training within industry, in sponsoring social change through industrial growth.

Investment in Man

Important as investment through labour is to economic development even more valuable is investment in human beings to social progress. Education should be the birth-right of every child. Teaching must be re-oriented to subserve national outlook and integration and a technical bias must be increasingly imparted to education. Teachers must be assured of fair remuneration and security through pension.

Minorities

All minorities should have equal right to participate in all spheres of social, economic and political life. They will have the right to practise their religions, organise educational institutions and cultural associations for promotion of their language, script and literature. In order to ensure the enjoyment of rights a Minorities Commission with appropriate powers and the status of Supreme Court will be set up.

Organs of Economic Democracy

The industrial renaissance that the Praja Socialist Party desires, requires a change in the status and outlook of the worker. The wage and salary earners and government employees have right to free association in trade union.

National industrial unions with internal democracy would be encouraged. Only strong unions, that are autonomous and democratic, can enable the worker to be the pace-setter of economic development and social transformation. It appreciates the need for industrial peace and believes that happy industrial relations could be established only through quick, inexpensive, impartial and permanent negotiation and arbitratory machinery.

Foreign Policy

The Praja Socialist Party believes in an independent foreign policy, keeping out of military alliances and seeking peace. When China and Pakistan have invaded Indian territories their evacuation becomes the primary task of defence as also of policy.

Th Praja Socialist Party reiterates its old stand that after the passing of the Constitution by the Kashmir Constituent Assembly the whole Kashmir has become an integral part of India. The illegal occupation of a part of Kashmir by the Pakistan forces should therefore be vacated.

It believes that upholding of common standards in international relation is the essence of non-alignment.

In South and South-East Asia India carries a special responsibility. She has to be the bastion of strength to the neighbouring countries.

Defence

The Praja Socialist Party favours the establishment of a Defence Council bringing together a number of influential authorities both civil and military, for consultation and decision.

The Party would make special efforts to establish co-operative agricultural communities near the land frontiers and help their members to combine agricultural work with preparedness for defence.

It would greatly extend the organisation of militia in the country.

Final Appeal

The Praja Socialist Party invites all Indians to join the common quest for intellectual, aesthetic and moral efflorescence and strive for economic and social transformation whereby the stubborn inequalities of ages are finally pulverised.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY OF INDIA
(Gandhi Road, Chanda, Vidarbha.)

President, N. Siv Raj, M.P.
General Secretary, B. D. Khobaragade, M.P.

Other members of the executive are:—Channa Ram, B. P. Mourya, Lala Harishchandra, Chopada, Mrs. Iswaribai, G. K. Maney, M.P., Yashvant Rao Ambedkar, R. D. Bhandare, B. K. Gaikwad, M.P., D. A. Katti, M.P., J. C. Adimoolam, G. T. Parmar, B. S. More, S. M. Meshram and H. S. Rishi.

The main aims and objects of the Party are to realise the aims and objects set out in the preamble to the Indian Constitution, namely:

The equality of all persons; the right of self-development; freedom of religion; and economic and political freedom; equality of opportunity with the proviso that those who had none in the past should have priority; freedom from exploitation of man by man, class by class, nation by nation; the parliamentary system of government.

It will organize the masses of India specially the Buddhists, Scheduled Castes, Tribes, Backward Classes, the peasantry, the landless workers, wage-earners; it will undertake educational work such as starting schools; it will work for the spiritual and cultural uplift of these masses; keep a record of incidents of tyranny and oppression.

The party believes in the nationalization of land. It is sceptical about the success of the cooperative principle which will not in any case solve the problems before the landless workers.

The State should take over all land and compensate the holder adequately, with the right to determine how and when the payments are to be made.

The land so acquired should be divided into farms, they should be cultivated as collective farms in accordance with directives from Government. The tenants should share the income after expenses are paid. There will thus be no landlord no tenant, no landless labourer. The State should finance the cultivation by the provision of water, seeds, implements etc. The State should take a portion of the yield for land revenue, a portion for liquidating the compensation fund. Tenants who break regulations should be punished.

The party is not in favour of the extension of the period of the reservation of seats for the Scheduled Castes in the legislature for another ten years. The party believes that reservation does not promote integration but emphasizes the differences between communities.

On the border problem, the party believes that the MacMahon Line should be recognized and all steps should be taken to force back the Chinese aggressors.

The 1962 Election Manifesto of the Party was expected to be ready by the end of October 1961.

REVOLUTIONARY SOCIALIST PARTY

(780, Ballimaran, Delhi 6.)

General Secretary, Tridib Kumar Chaudhuri, M.P.

Secretaries, Pratul Chaudhuri, N. Sreekantan Nair, Makhan Paul, Keshav Prasad Sharma, Durga Bagchi and Sushil Bhattacharya.

The party is a Marxist Leninist Party and relies on mass and class action. It is organized on the principle of democratic centralism.

But it is opposed to subservience to the foreign policy of Russia or China.

It believes in the redistribution of land with ceilings and cooperative farming and mechanization. It supports the general ideas underlying the Third Plan but insists that the sacrifices involved in deficit financing should be shared by all equitably. It believes in State trading in food. It is opposed to the idea of a Punjabi Suba but favours promotion of and safeguards for regional development. On China, it condemns the Chinese aggression and believes that negotiations should start only after China has vacated Indian territory.

The manifesto for the 1962 Elections was not available at the time of going to press.

Five Members from Belgaum and 2 from Marathawada are elected to the Mysore State Assembly on the Samiti's ticket.

It may be added that the future of the party is in the melting pot. Three groups have left it, former Congressmen, the P.S.P. and a group of the Republican Party led by Mr. B. C. Kamble.

The election manifesto for the 1962 Elections was not available at the time of going to press.

* Subject to revision.

THE SIKHS

Broadly speaking there are three groups among the Sikhs. One group forming the main body of the Shiromani Akali Dal is led by Master Tara Singh. It is in favour of maintaining the separate identity of the Sikh community and the formation of a Punjabi Suba.

Before the last general elections the Akali Dal adopted by an overwhelming majority four amendments to its constitution by which members were enabled to join the Congress and exclude politics from the Dal's domain.

The Akalis and Sikhs in general accepted the new Punjab of the States Reorganization Act (Pre-reorganization Punjab and PEPSU) and the regional formula with a zonal council for the Hindi and Punjabi speaking areas. The Sikhs are in a majority in the Punjabi-speaking zone, where the court language is Punjabi in the Gurmukhi script. It is estimated that the Sikhs form about 57 per cent of the population of the Punjabi zone.

The Akalis are represented in the Congress Government in the Punjab.

But the relations between the Tara Singh group and the rest have always been liable to be disturbed.

In the general elections that followed though one group led by Giani Kartar Singh supported Congress candidates, the other group led by Master Tara Singh opposed some though not all Congress candidates.

Besides the Akalis, there is a large body of Sikhs who belong to the Congress. They do not believe that Sikhs as Sikhs should have a separate political identity.

The differences between the two groups among the Akalis—that of Giani Kartar Singh who is a Minister in the Government, and of Master Tara Singh—and also between Master Tara Singh and the Congress were widening all through the latter half of 1958.

According to Tara Singh this could be ascribed to: The alleged interference in the Gurdwara affairs which led to the defeat of Master Tara Singh in the S.G.P.C. elections, the alleged encouragement given to Giani Kartar Singh to divide the Sikhs, the Congress refusal to redistribute the boundaries of the Punjab on a linguistic basis, the half-hearted implementation of the regional plan embodying the Sachar language formala, the inadequate representation of Sikhs in the services and the alleged corruption and nepotism in the administration.

In the middle of Feb. 1959 the Shiromani Akali Dal decided to abrogate the Congress-Akali Pact and revive political activity.

On March 12 Master Tara Singh was arrested at Amritsar under the Preventive Detention Act and was taken to Dharamsala. Two days later he wrote a letter to Mr. Nehru which carried a plea for the appointment of an arbitrator to enquire into the charge that the new Gurdwara Act made interference in the religious affairs of Sikhs possible. On 19th March he wrote again to say that unless he got a reply to his letter by 24th March he would go on a fast unto death. On 21st March he was released from Yole camp and driven to Amritsar.

A meeting then took place between the Prime Minister and Master Tara Singh at which an agreement was arrived at on the question of religious interference.

Master Tara Singh claimed this as a victory for the Akali Dal and asserted that the agreement had in effect shelved the proposals of his 'opponents' to hand over the management of the Sikh shrines to a trust and dissolve the S.G.P.C.

The Kartar Singh group was, however, firm in its opposition to the agreement and the amendment to the Gurdwara Act was put through. This was interpreted by Master Tara Singh as an attempt to obtain an artificial majority through indirect election to the S.G.P.C. which was really a form of nomination.

The amendment, it may be explained, sought to bring the PEPSU Gurdwaras also into the S.P.G.C. by election through an electoral college formed by members of local bodies as an interim measure. It was Master Tara Singh's contention that these members were no more than the nominees of the Chief Minister.

In the Gurdwara elections of January 1960 there were to start with five parties—the Akalis, Dashmesh Dal, Panth Sewak Dal, Malva Akali Dal and Desh Bhagat (Communist). Later the three non-communist anti-Akali parties coalesced to form the Sadh Sangat Board.

In the elections held on Jan. 17, 1960 the Akalis swept the polls, winning 136 of the 140 elected seats in the S.G.P.C. (total strength 160).

Master Tara Singh took this victory however, as a call to go forward in the campaign for a Punjabi Suba. The bifurcation of Bombay State leant enormous encouragement to the whole movement.

The estrangement between the Akalis and the Congress was more or less complete. On the 14th of March at a meeting at Shri Anandpur Sahib the general body of the Akalis passed a resolution asking the Akali-Congress legislators to leave the party and form an opposition. In answer to this five Akalis resigned from the Congress on 13th April after brief discussions with the Congress High Command.

On 30th April the Working Committee of the Akali Dal passed a resolution declaring that the formation of a Punjabi Suba was the only solution to the problems of the Punjab. Preparations were also made for launching a struggle.

The Congress Sikhs opposed the demand.

Challenging Master Tara Singh's claim that all Sikhs were with him, the PCC chief claimed that more than 50 per cent of the population of the Punjabi speaking area, including a large number of Sikhs, were opposed to the Punjabi Suba demand.

On May 5, the Akali Dal announced its plans.

A Punjabi Suba convention attended by about 5,000 delegates met in Amritsar on May 23. The resolution passed at the convention said that the formation of a Punjabi Suba should not be delayed any longer. It also supported the demand for a greater Haryana and Himachal. The Punjabi Suba would be in the Indian Union and not form a separate State. The agitation for the Suba should be peaceful.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

The following night on May 24, Master Tara Singh was arrested under the Preventive Detention Act and taken to Dharamsala Jail.

The Government had decided to take swift action. About 250 Akalis were rounded up—most of them key-workers. They included six legislators. The police also raided the offices of the official Akali organ 'Daily Prabhat' and arrested twelve members of the staff including the editor. This was because the staff had refused to obey the order prohibiting the publication of news and views about Punjabi Suba. Restraint orders were also served on five other language dailies. In certain Districts—Bhatinda, Patiala, Ludhiana — meetings and processions were banned. Measures were taken to prevent the recruitment of volunteers for Jathas for the June 12 demonstration in Delhi.

The President of the Delhi Akali Dal said on June 6 that the Akalis would take out a procession in Delhi on June 12 even if the Government banned it. They would be peaceful and non-violent no matter what the provocation.

On June 9, the District Magistrate of Delhi wrote to the President of the Akali Dal refusing permission to hold the demonstration on June 12. The letter was torn up and the Akalis promptly announced their decision to defy the order. The police then made a series of raids and arrested the more important Akali workers.

The plans for June 12 demonstration was for batches of Akali volunteers to come out of Gurdwara Sisganj and court arrest.

When the demonstration came on June 12 it was marked by much violence. The trouble spots were Gurdwara Sisganj and the Town Hall. The police and the Akalis clashed when the latter tried to take out a procession. Lathi charges were made and tear gas used. More than 150 persons including 75 police officers and men were injured and one died. About 1,000 were taken into custody.

The total number arrested in the areas affected by the Punjabi Suba agitation was 2,457 by June 14.

In December 1960, Sant Fateh Singh took a fast unto death for the acceptance by the Prime Minister of the principle of Punjabi Suba. He broke his fast on Jan. 9, 1961 as a result of intervention by Master Tara Singh. But Master Tara Singh declared at Amritsar on 11th Jan. 1961 that the battle for a Punjabi Suba would continue. All subsequent negotiations having failed Master Tara Singh took a fast unto death. The Maharaja of Patiala and Mr. H. S. Malik tried to mediate and to pursuade him to break his fast. They informed him that the Union Govt. at the instance of the Prime Minister had issued a communique assuring the Akalis, that a high power commission would soon be set up to inquire into the Sikhs' grievances. Master Tara Singh broke his fast on 1st October 1961.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

National : To establish a socialist society through a democratic and peaceful revolution.

International : To end inequality among the nations and establish a World Parliament and a socialist world.

The main aims and objects of the Party vis-a-vis the 1957 General Elections are given in the 1960-61 Directory.

DRAFT ELECTION MANIFESTO

(1962 Elections)

The Socialist Party considers it its duty to end the inequality between the big man and the small man, which is in the mind, in society, and in unequal incomes. It is impossible to change India except through a revolution which would change the mind and actions of all in a single great shakeup. In the absence of such a revolution we may once again face slavery, which we have suffered more than any other people in the world. The less a people fight internal tyranny and injustice, the more they suffer foreign agression and rule.

The Socialist Party wants to change the bases of planning, postponing modernisation of consumption, and using small machines and small industries wherever possible for modernising production. The party will reorient planning with the interests of the small man to the force, through programmes like food army, literacy army, and pipes for drinking water all over the country.

The Socialist Party has not been able to fully implement its policies and bases. But it has, to some extent, developed a militant and revolutionary spirit, or at least kept it alive. People's policies on caste, language, prices, etc. have been publicised, though matching organisations have not been built up. At some places, peasants have received land, their burdens and those of workers have been lessened, ordinary people and small government servants have received some relief and in some places imperialist monuments have been removed. The Socialist Party believes that it will be able to overcome its defects through struggles and agitations. The Socialist Party has developed Satyagraha as a lasting, permanent weapon. It is an axis of the Socialist Party.

The Socialist Party wants to become a powerful sentinel who would successfully keep a vigilant eye on the various governments. For this, it is necessary that the people vote for socialists in such numbers and make them victorious so that (1) The Socialist Party receive national recognition, and (2) Wherever possible they are elected in such numbers, for instance, 50 in the Lok Sabha, that the Government may be compelled to act carefully and cautiously.

Destruction of castes is as necessary as economic and political equality to free the people's mind. The Socialist Party is confident of its ability to destroy the three-thousand-years-old caste system, for, unlike the past, when it was attacked only on the religious and partly on the social plane, the Party's attack is on all the four planes, religious, social, economic and political.

The Socialist Party warns the people, particularly the backward castes, that adult vote is their great weapon and though it is blunted today, on account of lack of consciousness in them, they will some day be able to abolish caste and be the rulers of the country through it.

It will be the endeavour of Socialist legislators to guide the various legislatures and governments towards people's policies and to build up a decisive public opinion in their favour.

Price :—1. The price of any essential commodity manufactured in factories should not be more than one and a half times the cost, including all taxes and profits.

2. The price of any food grains should not change by more than one anna a seer or 16 per cent between two harvests.

3. The peasant should receive a price for his product that would cover his cost and provide ordinary decent living standards. Agricultural and industrial prices should be related on a basis of parity and fairness.

4. Prices of exported agricultural and mineral produce and imported manufactured goods should similarly be related on a basis of parity and fairness.

Agriculture :—5. Land revenue on uneconomic holdings, i.e. holdings up to 6¼ acres of land of average fertility, should be abolished.

6. Land should be redivided so that no family has more than three times the economic holding.

7. Sharecropping be abolished. Land should belong to him who works on it. For some time the 3 to 1 law may remain, but it should be implemented rigorously.

8. A living wage be fixed for agricultural albourers, and officers be appointed to rigorously implement these laws.

9. A land army be formed to cultivate new lands and to increase the production of milk.

10. Production of seasonal fruits like mangoes be increased and factories be opened for their preservation. In hill areas, particularly the Himalayan region, fruit orchards should be planned on a large scale.

Caste :—11. Women, Sudras, Harijans, Adivasis, and backward castes among religious minorities be given 60 per cent reservations in all leading positions so long as caste differences in mind and education are not destroyed.

12. Inter-caste marriage, in the sense of high and low caste marriage, be considered a qualification for government jobs. Inter-dining twice a year be compulsory for all government employees.

13. Special facilities of scholarships, hostels etc. for backward castes be increased as also the number of schools and colleges. But there should be no discrimination against the high-caste youth.

14. Old debts of Adivasis be written off, if necessary, by the government taking over legitimate debts. The management of forests be increasingly given to Adivasis and their cooperatives.

Four Pillar State :—15. One-fourth of all government and plan expenditure be through village, district, or city panchayats.

16. Policeshould be subordinate to the village, city, and district panchayats.

17. The post of collector be abolished and all his functions be divided among various organs in the district. So far as possible, the elective principle should replace the nominative principle in administration.

18. Ownership and management of agriculture and factories which are nationalised should as far as possible be in the hands of village, city, and district panchayats.

Language :—19. Public use of English in Hindi-speaking States be immediately stopped. In the centre also, these be formed into a group in which English be removed from the army, railways, post, industries, secretariat work, etc.

20. Another group should be formed of States who wish to retain English in Central administration. In this group also, English be immediately removed at State level.

Till these aims are achieved, attempts be made that students failing in compulsory English are passed, English is removed from High Courts under Article 348 of the Constitution, and as medium of instruction and a compulsory subject from universities and from secretariats and industries.

* The Centra Election Commission has granted recognition to the Socialist Party to contest the ensuing general elections in Madhya Pradesh as a party.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Rivers and Water :—21. Diverting dirty water from factories and sullage water from cities into rivers be made illegal. This water be taken to nearby fallow lands through pipes where fertilizer factories should be erected.

22. Public latrines be constructed on river banks in pilgrim centres and cities and the use of other land near the rivers be made an offence.

23. Arrangements for the supply of clean water through pipes be made in every village.

Economic Equality :—24. Through tax or wage policies or nationalisation or all three, no income or salary should be more than Rs. one thousand per month. (Special facilities provided to Ministers and high government officers be abolished).

25. All big industries be nationalised. The Socialist Party holds that all means of production which require hired labour should be under social ownership. But in the beginning, iron and steel, engineering, sugar, textile, cement, mines, electricity, chemical industries, and other basic industries should be nationalised.

26. A literacy army be formed to end illiteracy in ten years.

27. Scientific, technical, and industrial schools be opened in large numbers. Such basic changes be made in university education that its aim be knowledge of the subject and research, and not meaningless and superficial use of language as it is today.

Others :—28. All government employees, except the armed forces and armed police, should have the freedom to join and work in political parties.

29. If 50 per cent and one amongst the electors of a constituency wish to recall their representative, such representative be recalled and another election held.

30. Rising land prices in cities on account of industrialisation or other reasons be checked, or taken by government in the form of taxes. For the entertainment or residence of big men and for government offices, the best and large parts of urban land have been taken over. Most of that land should either be distributed among the people or houses be built for their residence. No city should be owned by a factory or an industrialist.

The Socialist Party will help people's revolutions in all Portuguese colonies, will contact democratic elements in Portugal, and will help the people's movement in Goa internally and externally according to a definite policy.

The Socialist Party will attempt to make the government stop considering and calling Tibet a part of China. It will also insist that either Tibet be independent or the India-China boundary be drawn at Kailash Manasarover and the northern limit of the basin of east-flowing Brahmaputra and not at the MacMahon Line.

Causes for the difference in the strength of India and China should be sought and removed.

The Socialist Party will work for India Government's taking the initiative for the independence of Fiji and Mauritius.

The Socialist Party is anxious because Hindus have not found security in Pakistan, and they are considered second class citizens. While Pakistan should be made to realise its duty through all possible means, all attempts should be made to see that the security and citizenship of Muslims in India remains without blemish.

The Socialist Party believes that an independent and creative foreign policy should try to pursue three definite aims—freedom for all colonial peoples and equal rights for all, abolition of poverty from India and elsewhere in the world, and world peace.

The Socialist Party would like to change the existing pattern of foreign aid so that it is not used for raising consumption levels or waste. Secondly all foreign aid should be given and received through a world development authority.

The Socialist Party will insist that the Government of India pursue the three aims of anti-poverty, disarmament, and freedom with equal emphasis. The Socialist Party desires that men and women of all the world should set up their parliament and a world government for necessary matters responsible to it and should undertake a world satyagraha to attain this object.

U.S. Arms Aid to Pakistan :—would further worsen the prospect of Indo-Pak amity. However, it is time that the whole Indo-Pak question should be viewed from a comprehensive angle. The people in both the countries should mentally accept partition as a settled fact and make federative approaches.

SWATANTRA PARTY

(143, Mahatma Gandhi Road, Bombay 1.)

President : Prof. N. G. Ranga.

Vice-Presidents : K. M. Munshi, Kamakhya Narain Singh, S. K. D. Paliwal.

General Secretary : M. R. Masani.

Treasurers : Sir Homi Mody, B. V. Narayana Reddi.

Central Organising Committee : C. Rajagopalachari, V. P. Menon, B. Ramachandra Reddi, Raghavendra Pratap Singh, Sardar Basant Singh, Bhailalbhai Patel, Jinaraja Hegde, Jathedar Udham Singh Nagoke, J. Mohommed Imam, Sardar Bahadur Lal Singh, R. Agnibhoj, Kalyan Singh, Prof. M. Ruthnaswamy, H. H. Maharawal Laxmansingh of Dungarpur, H. H. Anandchand of Bilaspur, N. C. Chatterjee, Raja Man Singh of Bharatpur, G. Latchanna.

The Party has nine members in the Lok Sabha who function as the Swatantra Party Parliamentary group with Prof. N. G. Ranga as leader, Mr. M. R. Masani as deputy leader, Mr. J. M. Imam as secretary and Mr. S. A. Matin as whip. The Party has also seven members in the Rajya Sabha.

The Swatantra Party was established in Bombay on August 1 and 2, 1959, at a preparatory convention which was convened for the purpose of establishing the Party and adopting a statement of principles. Earlier an informal meeting had been called in Madras on June 4 at the initiative of the All India Agriculturists' Federation at which a decision was taken to launch a new Party under this name.

The first National Convention of the Party was held in Patna on March 19 and 20, 1960. Over one thousand delegates were nominated representing over 3,36,000 members spread throughout the country.

The constitution of the party was adopted by the Convention. It was also decided that a five pointed white star on a blue background would be the flag of the Party. The Convention also adopted a 9,000 word statement of policy based on the statement of principles adopted in Bombay.

Membership of the Party is open to all persons who have completed 21 years of age and are in agreement with the Party's statement of principles and pay an annual subscription of 50 nP.

The Party's basic policy is contained in its Statement of Principles which runs as follows :

The Swatantra Party is pledged to social justice and equality of opportunity for all people without distinction of religion, caste, occupation or political affiliation.

The Party holds that the progress, welfare, and happiness of the people depend on individual initiative, enterprise, and energy. The Party stands for the principle of maximum freedom for the individual and minimum interference by the State, consistent with the obligation to prevent and punish anti-social activities, to protect the weaker elements of society, and to create the conditions in which individual initiative will thrive and be fruitful. The Party is, therefore, opposed to increasing State interference of the kind now being pursued.

The Party holds that the State should foster and utilise the sense of moral obligation, the pride, satisfaction, and fulfilment felt by individuals in serving others, which are inherent in our tradition, instead of adopting legislative or other forms of compulsion which commence with want of faith in the people and are consummated in the serfdom of the governed under the official machine, in an omnipotent State controlled by a political party voted to power. The Party, therefore, adheres to the principle of Trusteeship adumbrated by Gandhiji.

The Party holds that the policies of Government should be founded on faith in the people and not on State compulsion and the encouragement of hatred and conflict between class and class, expropriation, repudiation of obligations, and the conferment of more and more powers on the officials of Government at the expense of the freedom of the citizens.

The Party stands for every effort being made to foster and maintain spiritual values and preserve what is good in our culture and tradition, and avoid the dominance of a purely materialist philosophy of life which thinks only in terms of a standard of life without any reference to its content or quality.

The Party holds that steps should be taken to remove the pervading sense of uncertainty that has been created by the present policies of the Government and its varying forecasts of future plans, leading to the drying up of initiative and enterprise in land, shop, and factory alike. The Party holds that a sense of stability and incentive for individual effort can be restored only by strict adherence to the Fundamental Rights and Guarantees specified in the Constitution as originally adopted in respect of freedom of property, trade, and occupation, and just compensation for any property compulsorily acquired by the State for public purposes.

The Party holds that in the policies adopted for national development, priority must be assigned to the basic needs of the people, namely, food, water, housing, and clothing.

The Party believes that every citizen has a fundamental right to educate his children according to his choice and in a free atmosphere untramelled by official directives and that the State should afford facilities for such education without discrimination.

The Party holds that the paramount need is for increasing food production and this is best attained through the self-employed peasant proprietor who is interested in obtaining the highest yield from his land.

The Party believes in an intensive programme of agricultural improvement by promoting the material and psychological inducements for greater production without disturbing the harmony of rural life. The Party holds that there should be no disturbance of ownership, management, and cultivation of land, but believes in a more effective programme than is being followed at present in respect of irrigation, and the supply of material, implements, credit and marketing facilities.

The Party believes in the need for giving every kind of help to agriculture, but is opposed to cultivation through organisations which reduce private ownership to an empty paper-title and which bring into being a loose kind of multiple ownership which is certain to sap the incentive of the farmer and his family, reduce output, and take us to a collective economy with official management. It is firmly opposed to collectivisation and bureaucratic management of the rural economy.

The Party takes note of the dissatisfaction amongst the rural population that adequate attention has not been paid to their needs. It holds that the level of life of the rural people should be improved by removing all such impediments as are likely to stand in the way of their attaining a high standard of life, and by taking all steps necessary for the purpose, in particular for maintaining a reasonable and steady price for agricultural produce, which is in parity with other prices.

In industry, the Party believes in the incentives for higher production and expansion inherent in competitive enterprise, with adequate safeguards for the protection of labour and against unreasonable profits, prices and dividends, where there is no competition or where competition does not secure the necessary corrective.

The Party stands for the restriction of State enterprise to heavy industries such as are necessary to supplement private enterprise in that field, such national services as Railways, and the starting of new enterprises which are difficult for private initiative.

The Party is opposed to the State entering the field of trade and disturbing free distribution, and introducing controls and official management with all its wastefulness and inefficiency.

The Party believes that in the field of production, the free choice of the producer and the consumer must be given basic place and importance.

The Party stands for the preservation of the freedom of the small and self-employed artisans, craftsmen, and traders, who are in danger of losing their occupational opportunities by reason of the policy of Statism. These persons perform a great, widespread, and inexpensive function in our society, and their gradual extinction will be a national misfortune and add to our unemployment problem.

The Party stands for greater thrift in public expenditure. It holds that taxation should be kept at such levels as will not interfere with reasonable living standards for the people, both rural and urban, and which, while being necessary and sufficient for the carrying on of administration and such social and economic services as are taken up by the State, is yet not so high and exacting or so ubiquitous as to prevent capital formation and private investment.

The Party is opposed to a programme of development based on crippling taxation, abnormal deficit financing, and foreign loans which are beyond the capacity of the country to repay.

The Party is opposed to all policies that lead to excessive inflation, high prices that reduce the value of savings, endowments, and fixed incomes, and which create undue hardship for the present generation in the hope of a distant gain.

The Party believes that the cost of public administration should be reduced considerably It stands for integrity and efficiency in the services. It is against the expansion of the bureaucratic machine, with a hierarchy of officials asked to do work which is best done by citizens and private agencies, resulting in unproductive waste of national resources.

The Party believes that the State will best serve the nation by encouraging and affording facilities for a decentralised distribution of industry and by limiting its own regulatory function to the prevention and punishment of anti-social activities wherever called for.

The Party stands for the creation of opportunities for full and lasting employment in all sectors of life. It stands for a programme of all-round industrialisation with a view to developing national resources and reducing unemployment. It believes in a balanced development of capital-goods industries, organised consumer-goods industries, and rural industries that afford supplementary employment in the small scale processing of the products of agriculture.

The Party stands for a fair deal for labour whether in the field, factory or office and for correlating wages to increased productivity and for the workers' right to organise for the purpose of collective bargaining. It stands for harmonising the interests of capital and labour when they get into conflict.

The Party is opposed to any form of political pressure being put on officials to deflect them from the course of fair and just discharge of duties without discrimination. It stands for the rule of law, an independent judiciary, and for the full play of the powers of judicial review given to the Courts by the Constitution.

The Party shall, in all matters, keep before itself the cardinal teachings of Gandhiji, maintaining faith in the people and in the efficacy of truth and non-violence.

The Swatantra Party holds that democracy is best served if every political party allows freedom of opinion to its members on all matters outside the fundamental principles of the party. It, therefore, gives its members, full liberty on all questions not falling within the scope of the principles stated above.

CURRENT POLICIES

Chinese Aggression :—While the Party has yet to formulate its policy in regard to India's international relations, the Chinese aggression has created a crisis in the field of national defence which calls for a firm and vigilant policy being pursued. When India's territorial integrity has been violated and its soil occupied by a communist power, the concept of non-alignment has little meaning. India's policy therefore needs to be reviewed and brought into closer relation to the realities of the international situation.

Among the measures the Party considers necessary for ensuring the country's security are the settlement of outstanding issue with Pakistan for collaboration in the defence of the subcontinent; collaboration with the countries of South and South-East Asia with a view to concerted measures for the security of the region, and vigilance against infiltration and fifth column activities.

Labour :—The Party is not satisfied with the present position of trade unions, many of whom are playthings in the hands of political parties. Being opposed to the domination of trade unions by political parties, the Party will not join the race to establish control over trade unions, though its members will always be ready to help in all possible ways.

The Party accepts the workers' right to organise themselves and to improve the conditions of their life and work through collective bargaining, which also connotes the right to strike. The Party stands for consultation and closer association between workers and the management of individual concerns.

Students :—The Party is of the view that whilst, even before graduation, students should acquire some knowledge of the trends of political thought, they should, while engaged in college life, abstain from active participation in the furtherance of any political party. Whatever other parties may be doing, the Swatantra Party is of the view that there should be no encouragement given to the division of students into groups related to the political parties of the country.

States Reorganisation and Boundaries :—The Party is not committed to any partisan stand in regard to the issue of State reorganisation and boundaries, whether in regard to the agitation for Punjab Suba, Hariana or Vidarbha. In issues of this local nature, every individual member of the Party is left free to express his own views so long as he does not do so in the name of the Party. The Party, however, deprecates the use of repressive police measures, as in the case of the arrest of Master Tara Singh and the Akalis, to suppress a particular point of view. It regards such repression as an infraction of civil liberties and a violation of Fundamental Rights.

The Party's Election Manifesto for the 1962 General Elections will be adopted at its next National Convention which is tentatively scheduled to be held in Agra on November 19 and 20, 1961.

Not a meeting like any other. From it emerged the decision to make something new in India — giant rolls of conveyor belting, perhaps, or outsize earthmover tyres — something that the country needs to keep pace with the world. And so it has been with Dunlop since they made the first pneumatic tyres in India. Today Dunlop manufacture a bewildering variety of tyres and tubes alone; Dunlopillo; bicycle rims; belting; hose; industrial adhesives; and a great range of automobile accessories.

Ever pressing forward to new targets, new ideas — this is the substance behind the new Dunlop symbol.

J. B. ADVANI & CO. PRIVATE LTD.

ESTABLISHED 1908

HEAD OFFICE : BOMBAY

IN 1908, three intimate friends, Kanwalsing Pohumal, Vasanmal Kishenchand and Jotsing Harising, formed themselves into a Company called J. B. Advani & Company with a view to specializing in the import of Paper and Printing Materials. This Concern was the first of its kind in Sind. The pioneers, who envisaged a great future for this line of business, opened an office in Karachi. In a very short time their confidence was justified and the venture became a huge success. The markets within reach having been tapped to the fullest extent, a Branch was opened in Bombay in 1921. In spite of the very keen competition that usually prevails in Bombay, which is the premier and largest paper market in India, the Company very soon became one of the leading firms in the line with its business growing in volumes from year to year.

In 1925, the proprietors decided to convert their firm into a Private Limited Company—J. B. Advani & Co. Ltd.—with a capital of Rs. 6,00,000.

In 1925, the management began to explore the Punjab market more energetically with a view to developing the business handled by the Head Office at Karachi and a Branch was accordingly opened in Lahore. This was followed by the opening of a Branch in Madras in 1927, which has made steady progress year by year. Three years later, another Branch was opened, this time in Calcutta. Branches have since been opened in Delhi, Jullundur, Cochin and Visakhapatnam.

The Directors of this Company started a new concern under the name and style of J. B. Advani & Co. (Mysore) Private Ltd. at Bangalore.

After partition of India, the Company's interests in Pakistan were converted into a non-resident company—J. B. Advani & Co. (Pakistan) Ltd., with Head Office at Karachi and a branch at Lahore.

With its network of branches in all the important centres in India, J. B. Advani & Co. Private Ltd. today reaches every notable consuming centre in India.

The Company has a Paid-up Capital of Rs. 30,00,000. Besides, it has the substantial backing of its Directors and their relatives, and the Working Capital is actually in the vicinity of Rs. 1,00,00,000. The Company, with its branches and its tradition of over a half century as the largest importers of Paper in India with a turnover of Rs. 1,25,00,000 per annum, have since the last few years entered and specialised in machinery trade, dealing in Refractory Products, Arc & Resistance Welding Machinery & Equipment, Machine Tools, Plate & Sheet Metal Working Machinery, Building Machinery, Graphite Electrodes, all precision Machines to manufacture clocks, Time-pieces, watches and parts, bicycle parts, Refrigerator parts, etc. of Swiss and German origin, Gas or Oil fired Furnaces, Printing Inks, etc. and is open to take up representation of Indian and foreign manufacturers of Paper and Machinery. The Company also exports specially Tea, Textiles and Malabar Hill products.

In 1951 some of the Directors jointly started a modern Printing Ink Factory in collaboration with foreign experts at Bhandup, Bombay and today J. B. A. PRINTING INKS PRIVATE LIMITED have their vast clientele spread all over India and the neighbouring countries.

Another enterprise with which they are associated is the one for the manufacture of Welding Electrodes, probably the first major attempt in this field of industry in India. In partnership with the Oerlikon Machine Tool Works (Messrs. Buehrle & Co.), Zurich, Switzerland, the world famous manufacturers of Welding Electrodes, a new company has been floated under the name of J. B. ADVANI-OERLIKON ELECTRODES PRIVATE LTD. with 80 per cent of the share capital subscribed by J. B. Advani & Co. Private Ltd. With an uptodate factory and most modern production line, this factory, situated at BHANDUP (Central Rly.), Greater Bombay, is producing now some of the best Welding Electrodes in the world. They have amongst their patrons, Government, Railways, Shipyards, and Great Steel fabricators of India.

A third enterprise with which they are connected is the one for the manufacture of Drinking Straws and Waterproof Kraft Paper. Messrs. IDEAL WRAPPERS PRIVATE LTD. have the leading Aerated Water manufacturers and Textile Mills as their patrons. This factory is also located at Bhandup.

Now they have their own factory at Hay Bunder, Sewri, manufacturing Arc Welding Transformers accepted by users as perhaps some of the best, comparable with similar types manufactured in advanced Western countries. They also manufacture welding fluxes.

W. H. BRADY &

THE foundations of this famous House were laid in 1895 in Bruce Lane, Bombay, when the late Mr. W. H. Brady in partnership with the late Mr. J. F. Bradbury commenced business as Machinery Agents and Importers, and Advisers on all technical matters relating to the Cotton Textile Industry.

The period was one in which Cotton Mills were on the increase and as Mr. Brady and Mr. Bradbury were two of the best known Mill Managers of the time, their practical experience and expert knowledge of mill management and machinery helped considerably towards the firm's progress.

Within a decade, Bradbury Brady & Co. (as the firm was then styled) had extended its activities far beyond its initial business of machinery importers, for in 1900 the Empire Dye Works was started and in 1901 it took up the agency of the Colaba Land & Mill Company. This was rapidly followed by the agencies of the New City of Bombay Mills, the New Great Eastern Mills, the Sun Mill (now Dhanraj Mills) and the Bradbury Mills.

In 1912 however, a change was made when Mr. Bradbury (in Partnership with Mr. Knowles) restricted his business to the agencies of these Mills under the style of Bradbury & Co., while Mr. Brady started an independent business as a Machinery Agent (with Mr. Kay, Mr. Lakin and Mr. Johnson as junior partners) under the style of W. H. Brady & Co.

In 1913, the latter firm was converted into a private limited liability company under the name and style of W. H. Brady & Co., Ltd., with its Head Office in Bombay. Three years later, on the death of Mr. Bradbury, it took over the agencies of the Empire Dye Works, the New City of Bombay Manufacturing Co., Ltd., the New Great Eastern Spinning and Weaving Co., Ltd., and the Colaba Land & Mill Co., Ltd.

On the retirement of Mr. Brady in 1922, Sir Joseph Kay became Managing Director of the firm and remained in that position until his death in October 1958. The Company made immense progress under Sir Joseph Kay's management. In 1928 the capital was increased and the Company commenced to operate on the joint stock principle without any restrictions on its shares. Today, the operations of the concern cover an extremely wide field, for in addition to its long established textile association, it has extended its activities over other classes of industry such as Sugar, Engineering, Printing, Insurance, etc.

The management of the Company passed into the hands of Messrs. Shapurji Pallonji Mistry in 1959, who have brought to bear on the Company's affairs the considerable skill and experience, acquired in many other fields of industry and business.

From time to time, branches have been established in other parts of India until the Company now has offices in Calcutta, Madras, Kanpur, Ahmedabad, Coimbatore, Delhi and Manchester (England).

TEXTILES.—The Company has a very large Textile Machinery Import Department which carries comprehensive stocks of the manufactures of a number of British and American firms. These firms are recognised everywhere as makers of the highest repute and amongst them may be mentioned—The British Northrop (Sales) Ltd., Lang Bridge Ltd., Wm. Tatham Ltd. (who have a world-wide reputation for Carding and Spinning machinery for cotton waste and wool), Leesona Corporation (Patentees of the famous Leesona Winding Machines), Hugh Kershaw & Sons Ltd., Cocker Machine & Foundry Co., Cook & Co. (Manchester) Ltd., Samuel O'Neill & Sons Ltd., F. E. Rudman & Co., Ltd., Tragasol Products, Ltd., etc., etc.

The Textile Department is also keenly alive to all changes which constantly take place in the manufacture of Cotton and Silk goods. It is always ready to advise on these changes, suggest up-to-date systems, and to supply machinery in conformity with them.

COMPANY, LIMITED

Being closely associated for more than sixty years with the Cotton Textile Trade in India, the Company has undertaken from time to time, many large contracts and in several cases has executed orders for complete Cotton and Woollen Mills to the entire satisfaction of the purchasers.

In addition to the vast textile machinery business the Company also manages an up-to-date Dyeing and Bleaching Works known as The Empire Dyeing & Mfg. Co. Ltd.

ENGINEERING.—The Company has a very large general Engineering Department. It carries comprehensive stocks of the manufactures of a number of British Firms, amongst whom may be mentioned Herbert Morris Ltd., The Renold Chains Ltd., Hopkinsons Ltd., Geo. Kent Ltd., The Andrew Machine Construction Co., Ltd., G. & J. Weir Ltd., Davidson & Co., Ltd., Norris Henty & Gardners Ltd., Dicks Asbestos & Insulating Co., Ltd., Ashworth & Parker Ltd., Hick Hargreaves & Co., Ltd., Thos. Broadbent & Sons Ltd., Hoffmann Sprinkler Co., Ltd., etc., etc.

Messrs. W. H. Brady & Co. Ltd., in collaboration with the leading manufacturers of Lifting & Conveying equipments in the United Kingdom, Messrs. Herbert Morris Ltd. floated a new undertaking under the name of Morris & Brady. Ltd. manufacturing these articles in this country strictly in accordance with the specifications and formulae of the United Kingdom Principals.

In keeping with the development of the Engineering Industry in India, a company under the name of The Brady Engineering Co., Ltd., was formed in 1946 with the object of manufacturing wholly or partially, under licence from their various Principals, such goods as have been imported in the past but which could be readily manufactured in this country.

SUGAR.—In their General Department Messrs. W. H. Brady control the management of The Belapur Co., Ltd. This pioneer Company is not only one of the largest of its kind, but is the most up-to-date in India and is capable of crushing 1,000 tons of cane per day.

It manufactures pure Indian sugar by modern methods from cane which is grown entirely on its own estate.

PRINTING.—Messrs. W. H. Brady control the well-known Caxton Press (G. Claridge & Co., Ltd.) which undertakes all kinds of Printing, Lithography, Die-Stamping, Bookbinding, etc.

INSURANCE.—Insurance is another important line of business with which the Company has been connected for a considerable number of years. The Company acts as Agents of first class British and Indian Insurance Companies, and are always in a position to give advice on, and transact practically all classes of Insurance business with the sole exception of life.

OTHER INTERESTS.—The Company handles several important agencies for goods which are consumed on a very large scale in India, and has built up an extensive connection for its imports of such proprietary articles as Nicholson Files, Nettlefold Screws, Signode Steel Strapping, etc.

CONCLUSION.—In a brief resume of the Company's operations it is impossible to enumerate a complete list of firms for whom they act as representatives, but Messrs. W. H. Brady are well-known to be a live and progressive House, staffed with experts in each branch, and possessing close connections with the Textile Trade, Engineering, the Sugar Industry, Insurance, and manifold other interests.
